Kodak indicates that authority to perform its processing operations under FTZ procedures may result in changes in tariff classifications and duty rates for imported products. The application states that "some of the potential items that might be included in kitting operations in different combinations" are cameras (HTSUS 8525.40.4000), docking station (8471.80.1000), docking station with charger (8504.40.9550), printer dock (8471.60.5500), camera bags (4202.92.9026), batteries (8506 - 8507), battery chargers (8504.40.9550), mini tripods (9006.91.0000), memory cards (8473.30.1080), USB cable (8544.41.4000), and power cable - printer dock (8544.51.9000). Duty rates on these items range from duty-free to 17.6% ad valorem.

The application also requests authority to include a broad range of inputs and final products that the plant may warehouse, distribute, or process under FTZ procedures in the future within the categories of X-ray film, color paper, digital media, inkjet paper, entertainment imaging (i.e., motion picture film, consumer film and related chemicals), and health imaging (i.e., other health imaging film, equipment and related chemicals). The duty rates on these products range from duty-free to 38%.

Zone procedures would exempt Kodak from Customs duty payments on products that are reexported. On its shipments to the U.S. market, the company would be able to defer duty payments until merchandise is shipped from the plant and entered for consumption. For certain imported merchandise that is processed into a "kit" with other merchandise, a change in customs classification and consequent lower duty rate may apply (such duty savings are estimated to constitute five percent of the facility's estimated $ 200,000 to $ 350,000 in total annual subzone-related savings). Kodak would also be able to avoid duty on foreign inputs which become scrap/waste, estimated at one percent of FTZ-related savings. Kodak may also realize logistical/procedural and other benefits from subzone status. The request indicates that the savings from FTZ procedures would help improve the international competitiveness of Kodak's U.S. operations.

In accordance with the Board's regulations, a member of the FTZ Staff has been designated examiner to investigate the application and report to the Board.
