www.uscg.mil/hq/g-m/nvic/03/NVIC_04-03_CH-1.pdf. SSAS notices can be provided through various media. The Coast Guard recently upgraded some of its internal communication systems, and as part of the upgrade, SSAS notices sent via e-mail will be redundantly routed so that a notice will reach the Coast Guard even if one Coast Guard computer network fails. The upgrade also required the revision of all Coast Guard e-mail addresses. Any vessel owner or operator whose SSAS relies on e-mail must make sure their equipment is updated with the new address, ssas@uscg.mil, and must correct the address (''pen and ink'' will suffice) in the vessel's approved vessel security plan or SSAS annex. Include the new e-mail address in your next plan or SSAS annex submission to the Coast Guard's Marine Safety Center; but if this is the only change you are making to an approved plan or annex, you do not need to resubmit the plan or annex for re-approval, solely for that reason.
