

(6) Research completed or underway. The second day of the workshop will include:

- (1) Breakout sessions on the above topics, followed by the group convening to talk about technical assessment successes,
- (2) New technology,
- (3) New integrity assessment approaches,
- (4) Status update of assessments, and
- (5) Long term issues.

The second day will also serve as a brainstorm session for identifying discussion topics/issues that should be incorporated into a future public workshop on the broader issue of how pipeline industry can work collaboratively with others to reduce the need for casings on newly installed pipe.

The goal at the end of the workshop will be to develop a list of potential solutions that can address the issues through usage of new technology, understanding of and/or changes to the regulations, updating of standards, operating practices and/or research. PHMSA will then analyze the list of potential solutions with stakeholders for consideration on which solutions can best address the issues.
