

questionnaire completed by the subject firm, confirm that the subject firm provides a service.

Unlike a manufacturing firm, Level 3 Communications, L.L.C. (Level 3) is not in the business of producing an article and then selling it, and the subject firm does not receive revenue from the sales of the LOA. Level 3's revenue flows from providing its customers with network communication services. The LOA merely memorializes the service agreement between the subject firm and its customer. As such, it is not an article produced by the subject firm. Rather, the issuance of a LOA is merely incidental to the service provided by the subject firm.

It is the Department's policy that something which is created incidental to the provision of a service is not an "article" for purposes of the Trade Act. The Department's policy that those workers who provide services are not engaged in the production of an article for the purposes of the Act, even if something (tangible or intangible) is generated in the provision of those services, has been upheld by the U.S. Court of International Trade (USCIT) in Former Employees of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation v. United States Secretary of Labor, Court No. 07-00182. In its August 13, 2008, opinion, the USCIT stated "the Trade Act does not provide for the eligibility of workers engaged in the provision of services."

After careful review of the request for reconsideration, the Department determines that there is no new information that supports a finding that Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974 was satisfied and that no mistake or misinterpretation of the facts or of the law with regards to the number or proportion of workers separated from the subject firm during the relevant period.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Signed at Washington, DC, this 10th day of October 2008.

Elliott S. Kushner,

Certifying Officer, Division of Trade Adjustment Assistance.
