SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:I. Background

Pursuant to the savings clause in the Homeland Security Act of 2002, Public Law 107-296, Section 1512, 116 Stat. 2310 (November 25, 2002), the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)/Directorate of Science & Technology (S&T) have relied on preexisting Privacy Act systems of records notices for the collection and maintenance of records that concern personnel who are exposed to radiation, uranium, transuranics, and other elements encountered in the nuclear industry.

As part of its efforts to streamline and consolidate its record systems, DHS is updating and reissuing a system of records under the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) that deals with personnel who are exposed to radiation, uranium, transuranics, and other elements encountered in the nuclear industry. This record system will allow DHS/S&T to collect and maintain records regarding any individuals who are exposed to radiation, uranium, transuranics, and other elements encountered in the nuclear industry. The collection and maintenance of this information will assist DHS/S&T in meeting its obligation to record any individuals who are exposed to radiation, uranium, transuranics, and other elements encountered in the nuclear industry.

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974 and as part of DHS's ongoing effort to review and update legacy system of records notices, DHS is giving notice that it proposes to update and reissue the following legacy record system DOE-35 Personnel Radiation Exposure Records (60 FR 33510 June 28, 1995) as a DHS/S&T system of records notice titled, Personnel Radiation Exposure Records. To the extent the Department of Energy (DOE) continues to use this SORN, DHS is not changing the SORN for DOE. Categories of individuals and categories of records have been reviewed, and the routine uses of this legacy system of records notice have been updated to better reflect the DHS/S&T personnel radiation exposure record system. This new system will be included in DHS's inventory of record systems.

II. Privacy Act

The Privacy Act embodies fair information principles in a statutory framework governing the means by which the United States Government collects, maintains, uses, and disseminates individuals' records. The Privacy Act applies to information that is maintained in a "system of records." A "system of records" is a group of any records under the control of an agency for which information is retrieved by the name of an individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. In the Privacy Act, an individual is defined to encompass United States citizens and legal permanent residents. As a matter of policy, DHS extends administrative Privacy Act protections to all individuals where systems of records maintain information on U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, and visitors. Individuals may request access to their own records that are maintained in a system of records in the possession or under the control of DHS by complying with DHS Privacy Act regulations, 6 CFR part 5.

The Privacy Act requires each agency to publish in the Federal Register a description denoting the type and character of each system of records that the agency maintains, and the routine uses that are contained in each system in order to make agency record keeping practices transparent, to notify individuals regarding the uses of their records, and to assist individuals to more easily find such files within the agency. Below is the description of the Personnel Radiation Exposure Records System of Records.

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(r), DHS has provided a report of this new system of records to the Office of Management and Budget and to Congress.

POLICIES AND PRACTICES FOR STORING, RETRIEVING, ACCESSING, RETAINING, AND DISPOSING OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

STORAGE:

Records in this system are stored electronically or on paper in secure facilities in a locked drawer behind a locked door. The records are stored on magnetic disc, tape, digital media, and CD-ROM.

RETRIEVABILITY:

Records may be retrieved by name, alphanumeric code (an identifier assigned to an individual by the vendor who performs the analysis of the radiation monitor), date(s) of exposure, and social security number.

SAFEGUARDS:

These records are protected by employing a multi-layer security approach to prevent unauthorized access to sensitive data through appropriate administrative, physical, and technical safeguards. Protective strategies such as implementing physical access controls at DHS facilities; ensuring confidentiality of communications using tools such as encryption, authentication of sending parties, and compartmentalizing databases; and employing auditing software and personnel screening to ensure that all personnel with access to data are screened through background investigations commensurate with the level of access required to perform their duties. All S&T electronic records are secured in full compliance with the requirements of DHS IT Security Program Handbook. This handbook establishes a comprehensive information security program.

RETENTION AND DISPOSAL:

S&T has submitted a proposed records retention and disposal schedule to NARA to maintain the records for seventy-five years. Health problems caused by radiation (such as cancer) can take years to manifest and can reoccur multiple times during an individual's life. Therefore, S&T will retain the records for 75 years so that, if an individual has problems they believe are attributable to radiation exposure received as a government employee, the government will have those records available and will be able to provide an accurate accounting of an individual's exposure. Until NARA approves a records retention and disposal schedule, S&T will retain the records indefinitely. Upon receiving the approved schedule, S&T will dispose of records according to NARA's instructions.
