SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, the Department of Homeland Security proposes to amend a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) system of records known as the DHS/ICE-011 Removable Alien Records System (RARS) (74 FR 5665, Jan. 30, 2009) to add two new routine uses. RARS contains information about individual aliens who have been removed or are alleged to be removable from the United States by DHS/ICE under Federal immigration laws. These new routine uses would allow ICE to share information about aliens who are in ICE detention during removal proceedings with entities that seek to provide legal educational and orientation programs to persons in ICE detention.

Specifically, proposed Routine Use Q would permit ICE to share information about aliens in removal proceedings with the U.S. Department of Justice's Executive Office of Immigration Review (EOIR) or their contractors, consultants, or others performing or working on a contract for EOIR, so that EOIR may arrange for the provision of educational services to those aliens under EOIR's Legal Orientation Program. New Routine Use R would allow the sharing of the same information with attorneys or legal representatives for the purpose of facilitating group presentations to aliens in detention that will provide the aliens with information about their rights under U.S. immigration law and procedures. Routine Use R would support know-your-rights educational programs that are sponsored by private sector law firms and public interest legal organizations, but are not associated with the EOIR Legal Orientation Program.

II. Privacy Act

The Privacy Act embodies fair information principles in a statutory framework governing the means by which the United States Government collects, maintains, uses, and disseminates individuals' records. The Privacy Act applies to information that is maintained in a "system of records." A "system of records" is a group of any records under the control of an agency for which information is retrieved by the name of an individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. In the Privacy Act, an individual is defined to encompass United States citizens and lawful permanent residents. As a matter of policy, DHS extends administrative Privacy Act protections to all individuals where systems of records maintain information on U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, and visitors. Individuals may request access to their own records that are maintained in a system of records in the possession or under the control of DHS by complying with DHS Privacy Act regulations, 6 CFR Part 5.

The Privacy Act requires each agency to publish in the Federal Register a description denoting the type and character of each system of records that the agency maintains, and the routine uses that are contained in each system in order to make agency record keeping practices transparent, to notify individuals regarding the uses of their records, and to assist individuals to more easily find such files within the agency. Below is the description of the DHS/ICE Removable Alien Records System.

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(r), DHS has provided a report of this system of records to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and to Congress.
