I. Funding Opportunity Description

Purpose of Program: The purposes of this program are to (1) help address State-identified needs for highly qualified personnel—in special education, related services, early intervention, and regular education—to work with infants, toddlers, and children with disabilities; and (2) ensure that those personnel have the necessary skills and knowledge, derived from practices that have been determined through scientifically based research and experience, to be successful in serving those children.

Priority: In accordance with 34 CFR 75.105(b)(2)(v), this priority is from allowable activities specified in the statute or otherwise authorized in the statute (see sections 662 and 681 of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) (20 U.S.C. 1400 et seq.)).

Absolute Priority: For FY 2009 and any subsequent year in which we make awards based on the list of unfunded applicants from this competition, this priority is an absolute priority. Under 34 CFR 75.105(c)(3) we consider only applications that meet this priority.

This priority is:

Personnel Development to Improve Services and Results for Children with Disabilities—Leadership Preparation in Sensory Disabilities (84.325V).

Background: During the ten-year period between 1996 and 2006 there was little change in the number of doctorates awarded annually in special education. The numbers ranged from a high of 288 doctorates awarded in 2004 to a low of 213 doctorates awarded in 2002; 237 doctorates were awarded in special education in 2006, the most recent year reported (Hoffer, Hess, Welch, & Williams, 2007). As a general matter, this number of doctoral graduates is insufficient to fill current and anticipated future vacancies for special education faculty at institutions of higher education (IHEs), special education teachers, and special education leaders at State and local public agencies. (Smith, Pion, & Tyler, 2004; Smith, Pion, Tyler, Sindelar, & Rosenberg, 2001; Wasburn-Moses & Therrien, 2008).

The lack of doctoral graduates in special education is even more acute in the area of sensory disabilities (e.g., deaf and hard-of-hearing, visual impairments and blindness, and deaf-blindness). These specialties have an immediate and critical need for doctoral-level personnel (Dilka, Haydon, & Mertens, 2007; Huebner, Merk-Adam, Stryker, & Wolfe, 2004; Johnson, 2003). “The Study of Special Education Leadership Personnel: With Particular Attention to the Professoriate” (Smith, Pion, Tyler, Sindelar, & Rosenberg, 2001) reports that one-third of higher education faculty positions available in special education go unfilled every year, including many in sensory disability areas. For doctoral training programs in sensory disabilities that have only one full-time faculty on staff, the inability to fill a vacant position often results in the termination of the program. Because doctoral-level faculty also provide training for teachers and related services providers (e.g., orientation and mobility training) who work with children with sensory disabilities, faculty shortages at IHEs mean that there are fewer resources to train critical direct service staff.

In 2004, the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) awarded a five-year cooperative agreement for the establishment of a National Center on Leadership in Visual Impairment (NCLVI) to address the ongoing shortage of doctoral-level leaders in the field of visual impairment and blindness. The 14 universities participating in the NCLVI each offer doctoral degrees with an emphasis on doctoral leadership training in the areas of visual impairment, blindness, or deaf-blindness. The NCLVI, with OSEP input, established the terms of the student awards, offering full tuition awards and a stipend for living expenses for a maximum of four years to offset additional costs related to full-time studies and general living expenses. Scholars were required to be full-time so as to ensure that they completed their doctoral studies as expeditiously as possible to address the immediate and critical need for doctoral professionals in the field.

According to a recently published National Center of Education Statistics (NCES) report, “The Condition of Education 2007,” the 2003–04 average annual costs for a doctorate in education were $10,700 for tuition and $17,200 for living expenses, for a total of $27,900. According to NCES, the 2003–2004 average annual costs for all other Ph.D. programs, excluding those in education, totaled $33,600, including an average annual tuition amount of $14,900 and living expenses of approximately $18,700. Without adjusting for inflation, the comparable average NCLVI annual tuition amount for 2007–08 was $10,673, and the average stipend was $20,535, for a total average NCLVI annual award of $31,208. Thus, based on the most recent NCES data available, with no adjustments for inflation, the average costs for tuition and living expenses for NCLVI program fellows are slightly above the average annual costs for doctoral programs in education and slightly below the average annual costs for all other doctoral programs.

Of the 19 NCLVI scholars, six completed their doctoral degrees in their third year of enrollment, three completed in their fourth year, and NCLVI faculty report that the remaining ten students are on schedule to complete their doctorates in their fourth year of enrollment. Assuming that these projections are accurate, the NCLVI average completion time is shorter than the national median time to completion of 7.9 years for Ph.D.s, Ed.D.s, and D.Sc.s. (Hoffer, Hess, Welch, & Williams, 2007). NCLVI graduates have also successfully secured positions in the field of visual impairment.¹

The consortium design and curriculum used by NCLVI have facilitated the pooling of resources and expertise to provide high-quality training opportunities for NCLVI scholars, including structured research and learning opportunities that extend beyond those available at any of the individual NCLVI partner institutions. NCLVI students have the additional benefit of interacting with professionals and other students outside their home universities.

This priority builds on OSEP's previous investment in a consortium model that is focused on the preparation of doctoral leaders in visual impairment and blindness.

Priority: The purpose of this priority is to fund a consortium (Consortium) that will prepare leaders at the doctoral level to work in the special education field with a specialty in the following sensory disabilities: (1) Visual impairment and blindness; (2) deaf-blindness; and (3) deafness and hard-of-hearing.

To be considered for funding under this absolute priority, applicants must meet the application requirements contained in this priority. All projects funded under this absolute priority also must meet the programmatic and administrative requirements specified in the priority.

All scholars receiving support through this project must satisfy the service obligation requirement in 34 CFR Part 304, which requires 2 years of work for every year of scholarship support. The service obligation requirement, however, does not create an incentive for scholars to obtain employment in postsecondary institutions, which is one of the main objectives of this priority, over other kinds of employment. Thus, the service obligation may indirectly be deterring doctoral-level graduates under this project from seeking and obtaining employment as higher education faculty in postsecondary institutions with low incidence training programs. As a result, under the authority of section 662(h)(2) of IDEA, which authorizes the Secretary to reduce or waive the service obligation in this situation, the Secretary has determined that scholars who complete doctoral-level degrees under this project and go on to obtain employment as higher education faculty at postsecondary institutions in the area for which they received training will only be required to complete 1 year of work for every year of scholarship support instead of 2 years of work for every year of scholarship support.

Application Requirements. An applicant must include in its application—

(a) A logic model that depicts, at a minimum, the goals, activities, outputs, and outcomes of the proposed project. A logic model communicates how a project will achieve its outcome and provides a framework for both the formative and summative evaluations of the project;

Note: The following Web site provides more information on logic models and lists multiple on-line resources: <http://www.cdc.gov/eval/resources.htm>.

(b) A plan to implement the activities described in the Project Activities section of this priority;

(c) A plan, linked to the proposed project's logic model, for a formative evaluation of the proposed project's activities. The plan must describe how the formative evaluation will use clear performance objectives to ensure continuous improvement in the operation of the proposed project, including objective measures of progress in implementing the project and ensuring the quality of products and services;

(d) A budget that ensures that at least 70 percent of the total requested budget is used for student support, with a minimum of 30 full-time students to be supported;

(e) A budget for a summative evaluation to be conducted by an independent third party;

(f) A budget for attendance at the following:

(1) A one-and-one-half-day kick-off meeting to be held in Washington, DC, within four weeks after receipt of the award, and an annual planning meeting held in Washington, DC, with the OSEP Project Officer during each subsequent year of the project period.

(2) A three-day Project Director's Conference in Washington, DC, during each year of the project period.

(3) Three two-day trips annually to attend Department briefings, Department-sponsored conferences, and other meetings, as requested by OSEP; and

(g) A line item in the proposed budget for an annual set-aside of five percent of the grant amount to support emerging needs that are consistent with the proposed project's activities, as those needs are identified in consultation with OSEP.

Note: With approval from the OSEP Project Officer, the Consortium must reallocate any remaining funds from this annual set-aside no later than the end of the third quarter of each budget period.

Project Activities. To meet the requirements of this priority, the project, at a minimum, must conduct the following activities:

(a) Establish a Consortium comprised of IHEs that prepares students to work as doctoral leaders in all of the following sensory disability areas: Visual impairment and blindness, deaf-blindness, and deafness and hard-of-hearing. The project must include at least two established IHE programs in each of the sensory disability areas. The application must include the following information from each proposed Consortium member: The name of the IHE, the specific sensory disability program or programs at each IHE, and a letter of commitment from each IHE. OSEP will approve the Consortium members within eight weeks after making the award.

(b) Establish policies and procedures for the work of the Consortium in areas such as: Decision-making, recruitment, and selection of students who will be supported by the Consortium, distribution of tuition and stipends among participating students, measurement and reporting of student progress, and contingency planning in case of Consortium faculty losses. The Consortium must create standard guidelines for awarding tuition and stipends to all Consortium-supported students and must submit those proposed guidelines to the OSEP project officer for approval prior to their implementation.

(c) Develop and implement a single, common research-based curriculum for all Consortium students that aligns with each IHE Consortium member's course of study and that reflects scientifically based practices in course syllabi.

(d) Maintain a Web site that meets government or industry-recognized standards for accessibility and that links to the Web site operated by the Technical Assistance Coordination Center (TACC).

(e) Establish and maintain an advisory committee to review the activities and outcomes of the Consortium and to provide programmatic support and advice throughout the project period. At a minimum, the advisory committee must meet on an annual basis in Washington, DC, and consist of at least one representative from each of the following:

(1) Organizations, agencies, and associations that represent the interests of persons with sensory disabilities, specifically the disability areas addressed by the Consortium.

(2) Persons with sensory disabilities.

(3) Professional organizations representing the interests and work of faculty and administrators of IHEs; and

(4) Students enrolled in Consortium-member universities' sensory disabilities doctoral leadership preparation programs. The Consortium must submit the names of proposed advisory committee members to OSEP for approval within eight weeks after receipt of the award.

(f) Communicate and collaborate, on an ongoing basis, with other OSEP-funded projects, and the Technical Assistance and Dissemination (TA&D) Network Centers. This collaboration could include the joint development and implementation of curriculum activities, accessing and using research-based strategies and promising practices that are disseminated by personnel preparation centers and TA&D Network Centers, and planning and carrying out joint meetings and events with other OSEP-funded projects.

(g) Maintain ongoing communication with the OSEP Project Officer through monthly phone conversations with the grantee and Consortium members and e-mail communication.

Fourth and Fifth Years of the Project: In deciding whether to continue funding the Consortium for the fourth and fifth years, the Secretary will consider the requirements of 34 CFR 75.253(a), and in addition—

(a) The recommendation of a review team consisting of experts selected by the Secretary. This review will be conducted during a one-day intensive meeting in Washington, DC, that will be held during the last half of the second year of the project period. The Consortium must budget for travel expenses associated with this one-day intensive review;

(b) The timeliness and effectiveness with which all requirements of the negotiated cooperative agreement have been or are being met by the Consortium; and

(c) The quality, relevance, and usefulness of the Consortium's activities and products and the degree to which the Consortium's activities will contribute to increasing the supply of doctoral leadership personnel in visual impairment and blindness, deaf-blindness, and deafness and hard-of-hearing.

V. Application Review Information

1. Selection Criteria: The selection criteria for this program are from 34 CFR 75.210 and are listed in the application package.

2. Review and Selection Process: In the past, the Department has had difficulty finding peer reviewers for certain competitions, because so many individuals who are eligible to serve as peer reviewers have conflicts of interest. The Standing Panel requirements under the IDEA also have placed additional constraints on the availability of reviewers. Therefore, the Department has determined that, for some discretionary grant competitions, applications may be separated into two or more groups and ranked and selected for funding within specific groups. This procedure will make it easier for the Department to find peer reviewers, by ensuring that greater numbers of individuals who are eligible to serve as reviewers for any particular group of applicants will not have conflicts of interest. It also will increase the quality, independence, and fairness of the review process, while permitting panel members to review applications under discretionary grant competitions for which they also have submitted applications. However, if the Department decides to select an equal number of applications in each group for funding, this may result in different cut-off points for fundable applications in each group.

VI. Award Administration Information

1. Award Notices: If your application is successful, we notify your U.S. Representative and U.S. Senators and send you a Grant Award Notification (GAN). We may notify you informally, also.

If your application is not evaluated or not selected for funding, we notify you.

2. Administrative and National Policy Requirements: We identify administrative and national policy requirements in the application package and reference these and other requirements in the Applicable Regulations section of this notice.

We reference the regulations outlining the terms and conditions of an award in the Applicable Regulations section of this notice and include these and other specific conditions in the GAN. The GAN also incorporates your approved application as part of your binding commitments under the grant.
