

opioid products in non-opioid tolerant and inappropriately selected individuals; (2) abuse; (3) misuse; and (4) overdose, both accidental and intentional. REMS for these opioids would likely include elements to assure safe use to ensure that prescribers, dispensers, and patients are aware of and understand the risks and proper use of these products. The opioid drugs expected to be subject to REMS are widely prescribed by a large number of physicians who practice in a wide variety of areas. A REMS that will adequately manage the risks of these products without unduly burdening the health care system or reducing patient access to these medications must be carefully designed. Recognizing this challenge, we identified several specific areas in which FDA wishes to obtain information and public comment in our April 2009 notice of public meeting.

Interested persons were originally given until June 30, 2009, to comment. As a result of continued public interest, FDA is reopening the comment period until October 19, 2010 to allow interested persons additional time to provide information and share views on this topic.

II. How to Submit Comments

Interested persons may submit to the Division of Dockets Management (see ADDRESSES) written or electronic comments regarding this document. Submit a single copy of electronic comments to <http://www.regulations.gov> or two paper copies of any mailed comments, except that individuals may submit one paper copy. Comments are to be identified with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. Received comments may be seen in the Division of Dockets Management between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.
