

Through a Federal regulation promulgated in 1978, (43 FR 5782-5791, February 9, 1978) "dry baits, pellets and powder formulations" containing strychnine compounds are classified as restricted use pesticides if:

1. The concentration of active ingredient claimed on the label exceeds 0.5%

2. The label permits applications that are not "subsoil," and/or

3. The label includes "uses calling for burrow builders." The same rule allows strychnine end-use "dry baits, pellets and powder formulations" limited to "subsoil uses" not involving burrow-builder applications to remain unclassified. Such products may be purchased and used by persons who are neither certified applicators nor supervised by certified applicators.

In 1983, EPA completed a Special Review of above-ground uses of strychnine alkaloid and strychnine sulfate products. In 1988, a U.S. District Court in Minnesota issued an injunction prohibiting the registration of above-ground uses of strychnine products. In 1989, the 1988 decision was reversed in part on appeal but was upheld on matters related to the Endangered Species Act. The injunction against above-ground uses of pesticides containing strychnine compounds was sustained and remains in effect. Also in 1989, EPA and various concerned parties reached a settlement agreement pursuant to the Special Review for strychnine products.

By the early 1990's, the registrations of many strychnine alkaloid products and all strychnine sulfate products had been canceled. The strychnine alkaloid products that remained registered at that time primarily included:

1. Restricted use products labeled for below-ground applications to control pocket gophers, including applications using burrow builders;

2. Unclassified end-use products labeled for manual below-ground applications to control pocket gophers; and

3. Manufacturing-use products.

In 1996, EPA issued a Reregistration Eligibility Decision (RED) document pertaining to strychnine. Labels for all currently registered strychnine products bear risk mitigation text developed through the reregistration process. All but one of the remaining strychnine products subject to the RED have been reregistered. All nine of the remaining unclassified strychnine end-use products have been reregistered.

Through a petition, SFIREG seeks to have all strychnine products classified as restricted use pesticides. Due to the regulatory exemption afforded to manufacturing use products, the SFIREG petition would directly affect only the currently unclassified products which are labeled for manual, below-ground applications to control various types of pocket gophers.

The petitioner reports that member States have noted incidents of misuse of strychnine products, including use to control "black-tailed prairie dogs and other pests not found on the product labeling." Petitioner states that uses against prairie dogs typically consist of "broadcast applications of bait products on the soil surface" and thereby increase the likelihood of primary and secondary exposures to non-target species. Petitioner expresses concern that sales of unclassified strychnine products, including "many products sold in small packages," make it difficult for State regulatory agencies to investigate misuse cases involving strychnine due to the lack of recordkeeping requirements for transactions involving unclassified products. Petitioner contends that classifying all strychnine products as restricted use pesticides would:

1. Provide tighter controls over the distribution, sale, and use of these products

2. Improve documentation of sales, facilitate investigations of misuse cases; and

3. Better mitigate risk to the environment.

For this Notice, EPA has posted petitioner's request in the public docket accompanying this topic at EPA-HQ-OPP-2009-0815. EPA is providing an opportunity for public comment and submission of additional information pertinent to this petition that commenters would like the Agency to consider as it develops a response to the petition. The Agency would find particularly useful information relating to misuse of strychnine products, including misuse by non-certified applicators and by, or under the direct supervision of, certified applicators. Commenters are asked to provide available information regarding the products involved, the incidence of misuse, and the environmental impacts that have or could reasonably have resulted from misuse.

III. What is the Agency's Authority for Taking this Action?

Section 6(f)(1) of FIFRA provides that a registrant of a pesticide product may at any time request that any of its pesticide registrations be canceled. FIFRA further provides that, before acting on the request, EPA must publish a notice of receipt of any such request in the Federal Register. Thereafter, the Administrator may approve such a request.

IV. Procedures for Withdrawal of Request

Registrants who choose to withdraw a request for cancellation must submit such withdrawal in writing to the person listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT, postmarked on or before January 19, 2010. This written withdrawal of the request for cancellation will apply only to the applicable FIFRA section 6(f)(1) request listed in this notice. If the products have been subject to a previous cancellation action, the effective date of cancellation and all other provisions of any earlier cancellation action are controlling. The withdrawal request must also include a commitment to pay any reregistration fees due and to fulfill any applicable unsatisfied data requirements.

V. Provisions for Disposition of Existing Stocks

Existing stocks are those stocks of registered pesticide products which are currently in the United States and which were packaged, labeled, and released for shipment prior to the effective date of the cancellation action. EPA's existing stocks policy (56 FR 29362) provides that: "If a registrant requests to voluntarily cancel a registration where the Agency has identified no particular risk concerns, the registrant has complied with all applicable conditions of reregistration, conditional registration, and data call ins, and the registration is not subject to a Registration Standard, Label Improvement Program, or reregistration decision, the Agency will generally permit a registrant to sell or distribute existing stocks for 1 year after the cancellation request was received. Persons other than registrants will generally be allowed to sell, distribute, or use existing stocks until such stocks are exhausted."

Upon cancellation of the pesticides identified in Table 1, EPA anticipates allowing sale, distribution and use as described above. Exception to this general policy will be made in specific cases when more stringent restrictions on sale, distribution, or use of the products or their ingredients have already been imposed, as in a special review action, or where the Agency has identified significant potential risk concerns associated with a particular chemical.
