POLICIES AND PRACTICES FOR STORING, RETRIEVING, ACCESSING, RETAINING, AND DISPOSING OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

Storage: The data is stored on the production TEAPOTS server, and the reporting server. The data is backed up every night to tape. No electronic records have ever been archived. A copy of all the records in the system on December 31, 2000, was sent to the National Archives and Record Administration on a CD for permanent storage. The hard copy case files.

SAFEGUARDS:

TEAPOTS is housed in a secured facility in West Virginia. The entire building is occupied by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and contractor personnel and is not open to the general public. A User ID and password are required authentication before access is granted to TEAPOTS. The TEAPOTS regional system administrator creates distinctive user accounts and temporary passwords for all authorized users. All users are required to change their temporary password when they initially login to the TEAPOTS system. TEAPOTS controls the user's ability to perform specific functions according to access level permissions assigned by the system administrator. Permission restrictions prevent unsolicited and illicit access to another region's data. For added access security, TEAPOTS requires all users to update their password every 90 days. TEAPOTS displays a reminder each time the user logs that displays the age of their current password. TEAPOTS require users to create a strong password that complies with National Institute Standards Technology guidance. It must be at least eight (8) characters in length, and utilize a combination of letters, numbers and special characters. Should the user fail to change their password within the 90-day time period, TEAPOTS locks the user out of the system, and they must contact the TEAPOTS regional system administrator to reset their account and assign a temporary password. The user is required to create a new password upon logging into the system with the temporary password. Should the user fail to provide the appropriate username and password after three (3) attempts, TEAPOTS locks the user out of the system, and they must contact the TEAPOTS regional system administrator to reset their account and assign them a temporary password to regain access. The system administrator can unlock the user account upon request. Access scripts with embedded passwords, bypassing authentication requirements, and electronic signatures are not applicable to the TEAPOTS system, as per FHEO requirements.

Abstract: The Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) uses a system of permits and certificates to help ensure that international trade is legal and does not threaten the survival of wildlife or plant species in the wild. Prior to the import or export of CITES-listed species, the Management Authority and Scientific Authority must make appropriate determinations and issue CITES documents. Section 8A of the Endangered Species Act (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) designates the Secretary of the Interior as the U.S. Management Authority and U.S. Scientific Authority for CITES. The Secretary delegated these authorities to the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Before a country can issue an export permit for CITES Appendix I or II specimens, the CITES Scientific Authority of the exporting country must determine that the export will not be detrimental to the species, and the Management Authority must be satisfied that the specimens were acquired legally. For the export of Appendix III specimens, the Management Authority must be satisfied that the specimens were acquired legally (CITES does not require findings from the Scientific Authority). Prior to the importation of Appendix I specimens, both the Scientific Authority and the Management Authority of the importing country must make required findings. The Scientific Authority must also monitor trade of all species to ensure that the level of trade is sustainable.

Article VIII(3) of the treaty states that participating parties should make efforts to ensure that CITES specimens are traded with a minimum of delay. Section XII of Resolution Conf. 12.3 (Rev. CoP13) recommends use of simplified procedures for issuing CITES documents to expedite trade that will have no impact, or a negligible impact, on conservation of the species involved.

We use FWS Form 3-200-74 (Single-Use Export Permits Under a Master File or Annual Program File (CITES)) to streamline the application process for CITES documents that involve multiple, similar actions over a given amount of time. For the initial application, respondents use forms designed
