Title: Part 41, Relating to Security Futures Products.

Abstract: Section 4d(c) of the Commodity Exchange Act (CEA), 7 U.S.C. 6d(c), requires the CFTC to consult with the SEC and issue such rules, regulations, or orders as are necessary to avoid duplicative or conflicting regulations applicable to firms that are fully registered with the SEC as brokers or dealers (broker-dealers) and the CFTC as futures commission merchants (FCMs) involving provisions of the CEA that pertain to the treatment of customer funds. The CFTC, jointly with the SEC, issued regulations requiring such dually registered firms to make choices as to how its customers' transactions in security futures products (SFP) will be treated, either as securities transactions held in a securities account or as futures transactions held in a futures account. How an account is treated is important in the unlikely event of the insolvency of the firm. Securities accounts receive insurance protection under provisions of the Securities Investor Protection Act. By contrast, futures accounts are subject to the protections provided by the segregation requirements of the CEA.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Treatment of Petitions for Grandfather Relief Received From Persons Relying Upon Section 2(h)(1)–(2) of the Commodity Exchange Act

On July 21, 2010, President Obama signed into law the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (“Dodd-Frank Act”).¹ Title VII of the Dodd-Frank Act² will amend the Commodity Exchange Act (“CEA”) ³ to establish a comprehensive new regulatory framework for swaps and security-based swaps. As part of the revisions to the CEA, the Dodd-Frank Act will delete various provisions from the CEA that were first established by the Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 (“CFMA”) ⁴ to permit the trading of derivative instruments off of regulated markets. Among other such provisions, the Dodd-Frank Act will strike Section 2(h)(1)–(2) (the “Exempt Commodity Exemption”) from the CEA, effective July 15, 2011.⁵ CEA Section 2(h)(1)–(2) generally provides that bilateral “exempt commodity”⁶ transactions entered into between eligible contract participants, as that term is defined by CEA Section 1a(12), are exempt from all of the provisions of the CEA, except for the anti-fraud and anti-manipulation provisions.

Section 723(c)(1) of the Dodd-Frank Act provides that a person who is subject to the Exempt Commodity Exemption may petition the Commission to continue to operate pursuant to Section 2(h)(1)–(2) by submitting a petition to the Commission within 60 days of the enactment of the Dodd-Frank Act (i.e., by September 20, 2010). Section 723(c)(1) further states that the Commission must consider all such petitions in a “prompt manner” and may grant grandfather relief for up to one year. The Dodd-Frank Act does not suggest any standard for the Commission to evaluate grandfather relief petitions from parties seeking to continue their reliance on the Exempt Commodity Exemption.

Ordinarily, a grandfather clause in a regulatory statute relieves or exempts
