

Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) on July 29, 2005. In a February 11, 2009, letter to FHWA, EPA stated that “even the best mitigation may not be able to adequately compensate for the environmental harm expected.”

Following further coordination with the appropriate resource agencies, FHWA has concluded that, pursuant to 23 CFR 771.133, it has no reasonable assurance that the requirements of Section 404 of the Clean Water Act can be met for the project as proposed. Therefore a determination has been made thereby to terminate the environmental review process.

Authority: 23 CFR 771.133.

I. Overview

OTS last revised the form and content of the TFR in a manner that significantly affected a substantial percentage of institutions in March 2010. Since the beginning of 2010 OTS has evaluated its ongoing information needs. OTS recognizes that the TFR imposes reporting requirements, which are a component of the regulatory burden facing institutions. Another contributor to this regulatory burden is the examination process, particularly on-site examinations during which institution staff spends time and effort responding to inquiries and requests for information designed to assist examiners in evaluating the condition and risk profile of the institution. The amount of attention that examiners direct to risk areas of the institution under examination is, in large part, determined from TFR data. These data, and analytical reports, including the Uniform Thrift Performance Report, assist examiners in scoping and making their preliminary assessments of risks during the planning phase of the examination.

A risk-focused review of the information from an institution's TFR allows examiners to make preliminary risk assessments prior to onsite work. The degree of perceived risk determines the extent of the examination procedures that examiners initially plan for each risk area. If the outcome of these procedures reveals a different level of risk in a particular area, the examiner adjusts the examination scope and procedures accordingly.

TFR data are also a vital source of information for the monitoring and regulatory activities of OTS. Among their benefits, these activities aid in determining whether the frequency of an institution's examination cycle
