

disadvantages of the off-the-shelf technologies compared to technologies provided by VRS-providers? For example, are there specific functionalities—for either VRS or point-to-point communications—that these technologies offer that are not available on devices issued by providers? What are the current limitations of such technologies (e.g., with respect to interoperability, numbering, emergency services) and to what extent do such limitations impede their use by persons who rely on VRS? Do such off-the-shelf technologies comply with the Commission’s current rules? If they do not comply, in what ways do they not comply?

II. Background

The Federal Housing Finance Regulatory Reform Act of 2008 ("Reform Act"), which was passed as Division A of the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 ("HERA"), Public Law 110-289, 122 Stat. 2654, 2913, abolished both the Federal Housing Finance Board ("FHFB"), an independent agency that oversaw the Federal Home Loan Banks ("FHLBanks"), and the Office of Federal Housing Enterprise Oversight ("OFHEO"), an office within the Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD") that oversaw the "safety and soundness" of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("Freddie Mac") and the Federal National Mortgage Association ("Fannie Mae"). See 12 U.S.C. 1422a, 4502(6), 4511, 4512, 4513, 4541, 4563 (2006); H.R. Rep. No. 110-142, at 95. The Reform Act established in place of the FHFB and OFHEO a new entity, the Federal Housing Finance Agency ("FHFA"), which now regulates and supervises Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, and the 12 FHLBanks. See Reform Act sections 1002, 1101, 1102 and 1311; 12 U.S.C. 4511 (2009).

Section 1105 of HERA also amended the Federal Housing Enterprises Financial Safety and Soundness Act of 1992 and the Inspector General Act of 1978 (the "IG Act"), by specifying that there shall be established an Inspector General within FHFA ("FHFA-OIG"). See 12 U.S.C. 4517(d). FHFA-OIG is responsible for, among other things, conducting audits, investigations, and inspections of FHFA's programs and operations; recommending polices that promote economy and efficiency in the administration of FHFA's programs and operations; and preventing and detecting fraud and abuse in FHFA's programs and operations.

By Federal Register notice dated October 17, 2006, the FHFB revised an existing system of records to establish a system of records designated FHF6-6,
