Federal Acquisition Regulation;
Transition to the System for Award
Management (SAM)*AGENCIES: Department of Defense (DoD), General Services Administration (GSA),
and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).ACTION: Final rule.SUMMARY: DoD, GSA, and NASA are issuing a final rule amending the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) to update certain definitions and clauses pertaining to three procurement systems included in the Integrated Acquisition Environment—the Central Contractor
Registration database, the Excluded
Parties List System, and the Online
Representations and Certifications
Application. These three Integrated Acquisition Environment systems and the Disaster Response Registry will now be accessed through a single Web site.DATES: Effective Date: February 2, 2012.FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr.
Edward Loeb, Procurement Analyst, at (202) 501–0650, for clarification of content. For information pertaining to status or publication schedules, contact the Regulatory Secretariat at (202) 501– 4755. Please cite FAC 2005–55, FAR
Case 2011–021.SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:*I. Background

The Integrated Acquisition Environment (IAE) is an electronic-Government initiative. The IAE is aggregating disparate Federal acquisition content, which is currently housed in numerous online systems, by providing one Web site for regulations, systems, resources, opportunities, and training. The Web site at <https://www.acquisition.gov> was designed to create an easily navigable resource that is both more efficient and transparent.

The transition of the IAE to the new System for Award Management (SAM) architecture has begun. This effort will transition the Central Contractor Registration (CCR) database, the Excluded Parties List System (EPLS), and the Online Representations and Certifications Application (ORCA) to the new architecture. This case provides the first step in updating the FAR for these changes, and it updates the Web addresses present in the FAR for these systems as being accessible through <https://www.acquisition.gov>. This rule also amends the FAR to provide for accessing the Disaster Response Registry through <https://www.acquisition.gov>. As the transition to SAM progresses, future FAR cases are anticipated to change the current names of the systems to SAM, as well as to begin the transition of the remaining IAE systems.

II. FAR Changes

This case makes the following administrative changes to the FAR:

- Deletes the definition at 2.101 for “business partner network,” which is no longer necessary in the SAM architecture.
- Deletes reference to “business partner network” at 4.1100, Scope, which is no longer necessary in the SAM architecture.
- Revises the relevant database references shown throughout the FAR, to show the new Web site address at <https://www.acquisition.gov>. Databases include the CCR, EPLS, ORCA, and Disaster Response Registry.

III. Executive Orders 12866 and 13563

Executive Orders (E.O.s) 12866 and 13563 direct agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety effects, distributive impacts, and equity). E.O. 13563 emphasizes the importance of quantifying both costs and benefits, of reducing costs, of harmonizing rules, and of promoting flexibility. This is not a significant regulatory action and, therefore, was not subject to review under section 6(b) of E.O. 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, dated September 30, 1993. This rule is not a major rule under 5 U.S.C. 804.

IV. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act does not apply to this rule because this final rule does not constitute a significant FAR revision within the meaning of FAR 1.501–1 and 41 U.S.C. 1707 and does not require publication for public comment.

V. Paperwork Reduction Act

The final rule does not contain any information collection requirements that require the approval of the Office of Management and Budget under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. chapter 35).

Federal Acquisition Regulation; Brand-Name Specifications

AGENCIES: Department of Defense (DoD), General Services Administration (GSA), and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: DoD, GSA, and NASA have adopted as final, with changes, the interim rule amending the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) to implement the Office of Management and Budget memoranda on brand-name specifications.

DATES: Effective Date: February 2, 2012.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. William Clark, Procurement Analyst, at (202) 219-1813, for clarification of content. For information pertaining to status or publication schedules, contact the Regulatory Secretariat at (202) 501-4755. Please cite FAC 2005-55, FAR Case 2005-037.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:I. Background

DoD, GSA, and NASA published an interim rule in the Federal Register at 71 FR 57357 on September 28, 2006, to implement Office of Management and Budget (OMB) memoranda and policies on the use of brand-name specifications. Eight respondents submitted 32 comments in response to the interim rule. The public comments were considered in development of this final rule.

Prior to the interim rule, on April 11, 2005, OMB issued a memorandum on the use of brand-name specifications that was designed to reinforce the need to maintain vendor- and technology-neutral contract specifications and provide for maximum competition by limiting the use of brand-name specifications. OMB encouraged agencies to mitigate brand-name usage and publicize the justification for using brand-names in solicitations. OMB issued a second memorandum on April 17, 2006, providing additional implementation guidance for publication of brand-name justifications.

Subsequent to the interim rule, OMB issued two additional memoranda addressing the use of brand-name specifications. One, entitled “Appropriate Use of Brand Name or Equal Purchase Descriptions,” dated November 28, 2007, reminded agencies of the need to comply with the requirements included in the interim rule and establish internal controls to monitor compliance. The last memorandum, published December 19, 2007, entitled “Reminder-Ensuring Competition When Acquiring Information Technology and Using Common Security Configurations,” summarized the FAR requirements on the use of brand-name purchase descriptions and again asked agencies to establish internal controls. All four of the OMB memoranda were considered in developing this final rule.

However, the need to stabilize the FAR baseline because of changes to be made by other pending FAR cases has delayed publication of this final rule. Publication in the Federal Register at 76 FR 14548 on March 16, 2011, of the interim rule for FAR Case 2007-012, Requirements for Acquisitions Pursuant to Multiple-Award Contracts, enabled the Civilian Agency Acquisition Council and the Defense Acquisition Regulations Council (the Councils) to move ahead with this final rule. Some of the changes made to the interim rule by this final rule are due solely to the revised baseline.

This final rule amends FAR subparts 6.3, 8.4, 13.1, 13.5, and 16.5 to clarify that when applicable, the documentation or justification and posting requirements for brand-name items only apply to the portion of the acquisition that requires the brand-name item. FAR subparts 8.4 and 16.5 are amended to require screening of the brand-name justifications for contractor proprietary data, and FAR subpart 16.5 is amended to require contracting officers to post the justification for an order peculiar to one manufacturer under indefinite-delivery contracts.

II. Discussion and Analysis

The Councils reviewed the comments in the development of the final rule. A discussion of the comments and the changes made to the rule as a result of those comments are provided as follows:

A. What To Post

Comments: The interim rule specifically requested comments on whether agencies should be required to post brand-name justifications (a) For orders against indefinite-delivery contracts, including Governmentwide Acquisition Contracts (GWACs), (b) for orders against SmartBUY agreements and other strategic sourcing vehicles, and (c) to renew software-license agreements that are required to receive software updates. Several respondents addressed these questions as follows.

Most respondents expressed a strong belief that all Government procurements should be subject to the same brand-name-or-equal rules, at the basic-contract level and at the order level. One respondent stated that a single posting requirement will go a long way toward leveling the playing field. Other respondents believed that it would be unfair to allow agencies to avoid the brand-name justification rule by ordering against indefinite-delivery contracts.

One respondent distinguished between an agency-only indefinite-delivery contract and GWACs, which can be used by multiple agencies. The respondent did not think that an agency should be required to post brand-name justifications for orders under an internal indefinite-delivery contract, because all requirements should have been met at the time of posting the initial requirement for the basic indefinite-delivery contract, even if a competitive solicitation leads to a de facto brand-name indefinite-delivery contract. Further, this respondent read the FAR to contain a loophole that allows an ordering agency to avoid the posting requirements, as well as any
