II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

NASDAQ is proposing to eliminate from Rule 7015(c) the $200 per station/ per month fee assessed for the first Station subscribed and assess a uniform fee for all Stations of $600 per Station, per month, which is the current fee assessed for each Station subscribed in excess of one. Stations are logical channels used to manage the flow of data to and from a member firm user. A Station allows a subscribing member firm to send orders to NASDAQ or to report trades, using the member firm's computer system and not a NASDAQ Workstation. Stations are synonymous with the logical access ports used for FIX and QIX as they have the same characteristics, including a one-to-one relationship between the member firm and Station and throughput limits.³ Unlike FIX and QIX ports, which are limited to a single service, Stations allow member firms to access multiple services. For example, if a member firm wished to access ACT, ACES and TRACE using FIX it would have to order three separate ports, totaling $1,500 per month, whereas the member firm may connect to all three facilities through a single Station for a proposed fee of $600 per month.

Use of this service is voluntary and member firms have the option of subscribing to other protocols that offer similar connectivity. NASDAQ notes that the Station fees have not increased since March 2006, when the current fee structure was adopted.⁴ NASDAQ developed and implemented enhancements to CTCI since March 2006, such as updating protocol formatting based on changing industry requirements and adding new servers to support the updated product. NASDAQ also added the ability to receive DROP copies over CTCI, which allows subscribing member firms to send in order information and receive back their DROP copies over a single connection.⁵ As a consequence of adding enhancements, the value of the service has incrementally increased over time and NASDAQ believes that it is appropriate to now raise the fee assessed for CTCI to better align it with the increased value of the service and rising costs associated with technology and connectivity. Accordingly, NASDAQ proposes to eliminate the discounted fee assessed for the first Station subscribed and assess a uniform fee of $600 for each Station subscribed. NASDAQ anticipates that the proposed fees may provide NASDAQ with a profit, in addition to covering costs discussed above.

2. Statutory Basis

NASDAQ believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with the provisions of Section 6 of the Act,⁶ in general, and Section 6(b)(4) of the Act,⁷ in particular, because it provides for the equitable allocation of reasonable dues, fees and other charges among members and issuers and other persons using any facility or system that NASDAQ operates or controls, and it does not unfairly discriminate between customers, issuers, brokers or dealers. NASDAQ believes that the proposal constitutes an equitable allocation of fees because all similarly-situated member firms would be charged the same amount. In addition, access to NASDAQ will continue to be offered on fair and non-discriminatory terms.

NASDAQ believes that the proposal is reasonable because the fee increase will realign the cost of administering and enhancing the service with the revenue generated by the fee. As noted above, NASDAQ has developed and implemented enhancements to CTCI since last increasing fees in March 2006. As a consequence of adding enhancements, the value of the service has incrementally increased over time and NASDAQ believes that it is appropriate to now raise the fee assessed for the initial Station to better align the fee with the increased value of the service. NASDAQ anticipates that the proposed fee will cover the costs associated with responding to customer requests, configuring NASDAQ's systems, programming to user specifications, and administering the service, among other things, and may provide NASDAQ with a profit. As discussed, the proposed fee increase applies to only the first Station subscribed, aligning that fee with the fee historically applied to all Stations subscribed in excess of one. NASDAQ notes that the proposed single Station fee is structured similarly to the FIX port fee that, although offered at $100 per port, per month less than the proposed Station fee, does not provide the flexibility in connectivity that Stations provide.⁸

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will result in any burden on competition that is not

⁵ Prior to this enhancement, member firms would have to order a separate port dedicated to the receipt of their DROP copies.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

The foregoing rule change has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act⁹ and subparagraph (f)(2) of Rule 19b-4 thereunder.¹⁰ At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. If the Commission takes such action, the Commission shall institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule should be approved or disapproved.
