Water Sources for Long-Term Recirculation Cooling Following a Loss-of-Coolant Accident

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Regulatory guide; issuance.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC or the Commission) is issuing a revision to Regulatory Guide (RG) 1.82, “Water Sources for Long-Term Recirculation Cooling Following a Loss-of-Coolant Accident.” RG 1.82 describes methods that the NRC staff considers acceptable to implement requirements regarding the sumps and suppression pools that provide water sources for emergency core cooling, containment heat removal, or containment atmosphere cleanup systems. RG 1.82 provides guidelines for evaluating the adequacy and the availability of the sump or suppression pool for long-term recirculation cooling following a loss-of-coolant accident.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Introduction

The NRC is issuing a revision to an existing guide in the agency’s “Regulatory Guide” series. This series was developed to describe and make available to the public information such as methods that are acceptable to the NRC staff for implementing specific parts of the agency’s regulations, techniques that the staff uses in evaluating specific problems or postulated accidents, and data that the staff needs in its review of applications for permits and licenses.

Revision 4 of Regulatory Guide (RG) 1.82, “Water Sources for Long-Term Recirculation Cooling Following a Loss-of-Coolant Accident,” was issued with a temporary identification as Draft Regulatory Guide, DG–1234. RG 1.82 describes methods that the NRC staff considers acceptable to implement requirements regarding the sumps and suppression pools that provide water sources for emergency core cooling, containment heat removal, or containment atmosphere cleanup systems. RG 1.82 provides guidelines for evaluating the adequacy and the availability of the sump or suppression pool for long-term recirculation cooling following a loss-of-coolant accident.

II. Further Information

DG–1234 was published in the Federal Register on July 15, 2010, (75 FR 41241) for a 60-day public comment period. The public comment period closed on September 10, 2010. RG. 1.82, was first issued in June 1974. The NRC issued revisions to RG. 1.82 in November 1985, May 1996, and November 2003 to incorporate gains in the understanding of containment sump performance, particularly debris blockage on the Emergency Core Cooling System (ECCS) strainers, and provide guidance in determining net positive suction head margin for the ECCS and the containment heat removal system. Since the November 2003 revision, (Revision 3), was issued supplemental information has been accumulated pertaining to ECCS performance accounting for in-plant considerations such as generation of debris and chemical effects associated with the debris circulating in the ECCS systems. Additionally, the NRC issued GL 2008–01, “Managing Gas Accumulation in Emergency Core Cooling, Decay Heat Removal, and Containment Spray Systems,” in January 2008, to address gas accumulation in safety systems. The NRC obtained significant testing and analysis methodology information relative to pump characteristics affected by fluid voiding and gas transport as a function of system flow conditions which are germane to RG 1.82. This revision of RG 1.82 includes the latest information, and incorporates revised staff regulatory positions reflected in several safety evaluations performed upon ECCS performance testing results since the RG 1.82 Revision 3 was issued. Public comments on DG–1234 and the staff responses to the public comments are available in ADAMS under Accession No. ML111330292.

Dated at Rockville, Maryland, this 16th day of March 2012.

For the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Richard A. Jervey,
Acting Chief, Regulatory Guide Development Branch, Division of Engineering, Office of Nuclear Regulatory Research.
