

- According to standard industry monitoring practice, data are collected through means such as microseismic monitoring and/or tiltmeter monitoring to characterize the actual fracture network and compare it with the predictive fracture model. Should EPA include a microseismic and/or tiltmeter monitoring, or any other approaches, in the guidance recommendations, to ensure that the fracture network does not pose a potential risk to USDWs? Please provide a rationale for your answer.

- Baseline and periodic monitoring of water quality for all USDWs within the area of review help demonstrate the protectiveness of permitted operations and are recommended by the American Petroleum Institute (HF1, 2009). Water quality monitoring can be especially important in cases where owners or operators wish to exercise a flexibility recommended in the guidance of either being released from the UIC program or operating as temporarily abandoned after injection has ceased and production has begun. To utilize these flexibilities, owners or operators need to demonstrate that their operations have not (or will not) endangered USDWs in the project area. Should EPA include baseline and/or periodic monitoring of USDWs as a recommended monitoring approach in the guidance? If so, what water quality monitoring data should be included to best ensure non-endangerment of USDWs?

Guidance on the Effective Date of Section 716 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act

AGENCY: Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), Treasury; Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (Board); and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC).

ACTION: Notice of joint guidance.

SUMMARY: The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (“OCC”), Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (“Board”), and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (“FDIC”) are issuing this guidance to provide clarity regarding the effective date of section 716 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (“Dodd-Frank Act”) ¹ with respect to entities for which each is the prudential regulator.

DATES: May 10, 2012.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

OCC: Ellen Broadman, Director, Securities and Corporate Practices Division (202) 874-5210, Ted Dowd, Assistant Director, Securities & Corporate Practices Division (202) 874-5327, or Jamey Basham, Assistant Director, Legislative and Regulatory Activities Division (202) 874-5090, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, 250 E Street SW., Washington, DC 20219.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Section 716 prohibits the provision of Federal assistance to any entity defined under that section to be a swaps entity with respect to any swap, security-based swap, or other activity of the swaps entity.² “Federal assistance” is defined for purposes of section 716 as “the use of any advances from any Federal Reserve credit facility or discount window that is not part of a program with broad-based eligibility under section 13(3)(A) of the Federal Reserve Act,” and “[FDIC] insurance or guarantees” for certain purposes specified in section 716(b)(1).³

³ See, section 716(b)(1) of the Dodd-Frank Act; 15 U.S.C. 8305(b)(1).

The prudential regulator (as defined in the Commodity Exchange Act)⁴ of a swaps entity is authorized to prescribe rules implementing section 716 with respect to that swaps entity.⁵ The Board is the prudential regulator for state member banks, bank holding companies, savings and loan holding companies, state branches and agencies of foreign banks, and certain other swaps entities.⁶ In addition, the Board is charged with responsibility for establishing and overseeing the provision of credit through any Federal Reserve credit facility and the discount window. The FDIC is the prudential regulator for state nonmember banks and state savings associations.⁷ In addition, the FDIC is charged with insuring the deposits of banks and savings associations and managing the Deposit Insurance Fund. The OCC is the prudential regulator for national banks, federal savings associations, and Federal branches and agencies of foreign banks.⁸

Effective Date

Section 716(h) provides that its general prohibition on Federal assistance is “effective 2 years following the date on which this Act is effective.”⁹ Section 716 is contained in Title VII of the Dodd-Frank Act. Section 701 in Title VII provides that Title VII may be cited as the “Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act of 2010.”¹⁰ Thus, while enacted within the Dodd-Frank Act, Title VII is itself “an Act,” and references within Title VII to “this Act” should be, in context, interpreted as references to the Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act of 2010, not to the broader Dodd-Frank Act. This interpretation is supported by the fact that section 716(m) refers specifically to the Dodd-Frank Act by name—a reference that would not be necessary if the reference to “this Act” in section 716(h) and other provisions of the Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act were intended to refer to the Dodd-Frank Act. Nothing in the context of subsection (m) or other provisions of section 716 suggest a different reading was intended.¹¹

⁴ Pursuant to section 711 of the Dodd-Frank Act, the term “prudential regulator” as used in section 716 has the same meaning as in the Commodity Exchange Act. 15 U.S.C. 8301.

¹⁰ See section 701 of the Dodd-Frank Act; 15 U.S.C. 8301 note.

In general, the Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act became effective on July 16, 2011, which is later than the effective date of the Dodd-Frank Act generally. The Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act has two subtitles. Both subtitles contain provisions that establish an effective date that is 360 days after the enactment of the subtitle (unless otherwise noted in that subtitle).¹² The date of enactment was July 21, 2010, making the effective date of the subtitles comprising the Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act July 16, 2011. Because section 716 specifically adopts an effective date that is 2 years following the effective date of the Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act, section 716 will become effective on July 16, 2013.¹³
