3. Environmental justice. EPA seeks to achieve environmental justice, the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of any group, including minority and/or low income populations, in the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies. To help address potential environmental justice issues, the Agency seeks information on any groups or segments of the population who, as a result of their location, cultural practices, or other factors, may have atypical or disproportionately high and adverse human health impacts or environmental effects from exposure to the pesticide discussed in this document, compared to the general population.

II. What Action is the Agency Taking?

Under section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) (7 U.S.C. 136p), at the discretion of the Administrator, a Federal or State agency may be exempted from any provision of FIFRA if the Administrator determines that emergency conditions exist which require the exemption. Montana Department of Agriculture has requested the Administrator to issue a specific exemption for the use of Bacillus mycooides isolate J on potato to control PVY. Information in accordance with 40

CFR part 166 was submitted as part of this request.

As part of this request, the applicant asserts that Bacillus mycooides isolate J is needed to treat first and second generation seed potato to control PVY transmitted by aphids. The mode of action of Bacillus mycooides isolate J is to induce the plants systemic acquired resistance (SAR) to disease. In certified seed potato production, the final evaluation on virus levels is determined by conducting a post-harvest test. In Montana, the level of virus must be below 0.5% PVY for planting back for re-certification. The Montana potato industry's ability to plant sufficient seed acreage in 2012 will be compromised, without the use of Bacillus mycooides isolate J to control PVY. Expected losses without the use of Bacillus mycooides isolate J will approach 30% of the first generation seed potato and 40% of the second generation seed potato.

The Applicant proposes to make no more than five applications per year at a rate of 0.3 ounces of active ingredient per acre per application to a maximum of 2,675 acres of potato during the 2012 growing season in the state of Montana. A total of 4,012.5 ounces of Bacillus mycooides isolate J may be used.

This notice does not constitute a decision by EPA on the application itself. The regulations governing section 18 of FIFRA require publication of a notice of receipt of an application for a specific exemption proposing use of a new chemical (i.e., an active ingredient) which has not been registered by EPA. The notice provides an opportunity for public comment on the application.

The Agency, will review and consider all comments received during the comment period in determining whether to issue the specific exemption requested by the Montana Department of Agriculture.
