POLICY JUSTIFICATION*Mexico – C-130J-30 Aircraft

The Government of Mexico has requested a sale of 2 C-130J-30 aircraft, 10 AE2100D3 engines (8 installed and 2 spares), aircraft modifications, Government Furnished Equipment, communication equipment, spare and repair parts, support and test equipment, publications and technical documentation, personnel training and training equipment, U.S. Government and contractor engineering, technical and logistics support services, and other related elements of logistical and program support. The estimated cost is $412 million.

This proposed sale will contribute to the foreign policy and national security of the United States by helping to improve Mexico's fight against criminal organizations, drugs, and gang activities in support of the internal security of Mexico. This proposed sale directly supports the Mexican government and serves the interests of the Mexican people and the U.S.

The proposed sale of C-130J's to Mexico will significantly increase the Mexican Air Force's capability to provide in-country airlift for the Government of Mexico. Mexico intends to utilize these aircraft to transport supplies, vehicles, and personnel in support of counter illicit-trafficking operations, humanitarian efforts, and presidential movement support airlift. Mexico, which already operates a mix of legacy C-130s, will have no difficulty absorbing these aircraft into its inventory and has requested that the sale include three years of training and sustainment in order to ensure a smooth transition.

The proposed sale of these aircraft and support will not alter the basic military balance in the region.

The prime contractor will be Lockheed Martin-Aerospace in Marietta, Georgia. There are no known offset agreements in connection with this potential sale.

Implementation of this proposed sale will require the assignment of four contractor representatives and four Field Service Representatives (two from Lockheed Martin and two from Rolls Royce) for a period of three years. Also, U.S. government personnel will be assigned to the area for a period of three years to assist the purchaser in establishing a supply system in support of flight operations, supply management, inventory control, and documentation procedures.

There will be no adverse impact on U.S. defense readiness as a result of this proposed sale.
