SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) published a request for information to solicit comments, data and information on, among other things, the energy use and potential means to improve the energy efficiency of commercial and industrial pumps. (76 FR 34192, June 13, 2011). DOE subsequently published a notice of public meeting and availability of the Framework Document in the Federal Register (78 FR 7304, Feb. 1, 2013) to solicit public input and facilitate the process of considering energy conservation standards for commercial and industrial pumps. The notice requested public comment from interested parties regarding specific as well as general questions and provided for the submission of comments by March 18, 2013. Thereafter, the Hydraulic Institute (HI) requested, on behalf of itself and its members, a 30-day extension of the public meeting and an additional 30-day extension of the comment period following the public meeting. HI stated that the additional time is necessary in order to review the 126 page document, gather the requisite information, and respond to the 110 questions DOE presented in the framework document. HI noted that the framework document addresses

“innumerable issues and complexities” and that “DOE is requesting well-informed and technical responses.” HI asserts that there is insufficient time before the February 20, 2013 hearing date to gather information and respond.

DOE declines to delay the public meeting. DOE notes that a public meeting on commercial and industrial fans is scheduled for February 21, 2013, the day after the meeting scheduled for pumps. Given the similarities in DOE's approach to and the issues presented by these equipment types, and in consideration of the travel schedules of participants who wish to attend the public meetings in person, DOE is retaining the scheduled February 20, 2013 public meeting date for pumps. However, based on HI's request, DOE believes that extending the comment period to allow additional time for interested parties to submit comments is appropriate. Therefore, DOE is extending the comment period until May 2, 2013 to provide interested parties additional time to prepare and submit comments. Accordingly, DOE will consider any comments received by May 2, 2013 to be timely submitted.

Issued in Washington, DC, on February 12, 2013.

Kathleen B. Hogan,

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Energy Efficiency, Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy.
