Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) completion if the documentation reasonably appears to be genuine and to relate to the employee. Employers may not require extra or additional documentation beyond what is required for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) completion. Further, employers participating in E-verify who receive an E-verify initial mismatch (“tentative nonconfirmation” or “TNC”) on employees must inform employees of the mismatch and give such employees an opportunity to challenge the mismatch. Employers are prohibited from taking adverse action against such employees based on the initial mismatch unless and until E-Verify returns a final nonconfirmation. For example, employers must allow employees challenging their mismatches to continue to work without any delay in start date or training and without any change in hours or pay while the final E-Verify determination remains pending. Additional information is available on the OSC Web site at http://www.justice.gov/crt/about/osc and the USCIS Web site at http://www.dhs.gov/E-verify.

Note Regarding Federal, State, and Local Government Agencies (Such as Departments of Motor Vehicles)

While Federal government agencies must follow the guidelines laid out by the Federal government, state and local government agencies establish their own rules and guidelines when granting certain benefits. Each state may have different laws, requirements, and determinations about what documents you need to provide to prove eligibility for certain benefits. Whether you are applying for a Federal, state, or local government benefit, you may need to provide the government agency with documents that show you are a TPS beneficiary and/or show you are authorized to work based on TPS. Examples are:

1. Your expired EAD that has been automatically extended, or your EAD that has a valid expiration date;
2. A copy of this Federal Register notice if your EAD is automatically extended under this notice;
3. A copy of your Application for Temporary Protected Status Receipt Notice (Form I–797) for this re-registration;
4. A copy of your past or current Application for Temporary Protected Status Approval Notice (Form I–797), if you receive one from USCIS; and/or
5. If there is an automatic extension of work authorization, a copy of the fact sheet from the USCIS TPS Web site that provides information on the automatic extension.

Check with the government agency regarding which document(s) the agency will accept. You may also provide the agency with a copy of this notice.

Some benefit-granting agencies use the USCIS Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements Program (SAVE) to verify the current immigration status of applicants for public benefits. If such an agency has denied your application based solely or in part on a SAVE response, the agency must offer you the opportunity to appeal the decision in accordance with the agency’s procedures. If the agency has received and acted upon or will act upon a SAVE verification and you do not believe the response is correct, you may make an InfoPass appointment for an in-person interview at a local USCIS office.

Detailed information on how to make corrections, make an appointment, or submit a written request can be found at the SAVE Web site at http://www.uscis.gov/save, then by choosing “How to Correct Your Records” from the menu on the right.

RIN 1615–ZB19

Extension of the Designation of Nicaragua for Temporary Protected Status

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This Notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security (Secretary) is extending the designation of Nicaragua for Temporary Protected Status (TPS) for 18 months from July 6, 2013 through January 5, 2015. The extension allows currently eligible TPS beneficiaries to retain TPS through January 5, 2015. The Secretary has determined that an extension is warranted because the conditions in Nicaragua that prompted the TPS designation continue to be met. There continues to be a substantial, but temporary, disruption of living conditions in Nicaragua resulting from Hurricane Mitch, and Nicaragua remains unable, temporarily, to handle adequately the return of its nationals.

This Notice also sets forth procedures necessary for nationals of Nicaragua (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Nicaragua) to re-register for TPS and to apply for renewal of their Employment Authorization Documents (EADs) with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). Re-registration is limited to persons who have previously registered for TPS under the designation of Nicaragua and whose applications have been granted. Certain nationals of Nicaragua (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Nicaragua) who have not previously applied for TPS may be eligible to apply under the late initial registration provisions, if they meet: (1) At least one of the late initial filing criteria and (2) all TPS eligibility criteria (including continuous residence in the United States since December 30, 1998, and continuous physical presence in the United States since January 5, 1999).

For individuals who have already been granted TPS under the Nicaragua designation, the 60-day re-registration period runs from April 3, 2013 through June 3, 2013. USCIS will issue new EADs with a January 5, 2015 expiration date to eligible Nicaraguan TPS beneficiaries who timely re-register and apply for EADs under this extension.

Given the timeframe involved with processing TPS re-registration applications, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) recognizes that all re-registrants may not receive new EADs until after their current EADs expire on July 5, 2013. Accordingly, this Notice automatically extends the validity of EADs issued under the TPS designation of Nicaragua for 6 months, from July 5, 2013 through January 5, 2014, and explains how TPS beneficiaries and their employers may determine which EADs are automatically extended and their impact on Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) and the E-Verify processes.

DATES: The 18-month extension of the TPS designation of Nicaragua is effective July 6, 2013, and will remain in effect through January 5, 2015. The 60-day re-registration period runs from April 3, 2013 through June 3, 2013.

What Is Temporary Protected Status (TPS)?

- TPS is a temporary immigration status granted to eligible nationals of a country designated for TPS under the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), or to eligible persons without nationality who last habitually resided in the designated country.

- During the TPS designation period, TPS beneficiaries are eligible to remain in the United States and may obtain work authorization, so long as they continue to meet the requirements of TPS status.

- TPS beneficiaries also may be granted travel authorization as a matter of discretion.

- The granting of TPS does not lead to permanent resident status.

- When the Secretary terminates a country’s TPS designation, beneficiaries return to the same immigration status they maintained before TPS, if any (unless that status has since expired or been terminated), or to any other lawfully obtained immigration status they received while registered for TPS.

When Was Nicaragua Designated for TPS?

On January 5, 1999, the Attorney General designated Nicaragua for TPS based on an environmental disaster within that country, specifically the devastation resulting from Hurricane Mitch. See 64 FR 526; section 244(b)(1)(B) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(1)(B). The Secretary last extended the Nicaragua TPS designation on November 4, 2011 based on her determination that the conditions warranting the designation continued to be met. See 76 FR 68493. This announcement is the eleventh extension of TPS for Nicaragua since the original designation in 1999.

What Authority Does the Secretary of Homeland Security Have To Extend the Designation of Nicaragua for TPS?

Section 244(b)(1) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(1), authorizes the Secretary, after consultation with appropriate Government agencies, to designate a foreign state (or part thereof) for TPS. The Secretary may then grant TPS to eligible nationals of that foreign state (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in that state). See section 244(a)(1)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(a)(1)(A).

At least 60 days before the expiration of a country’s TPS designation or extension, the Secretary, after consultation with appropriate Government agencies, must review the conditions in a foreign state designated for TPS to determine whether the conditions for the TPS designation continue to be met. See section 244(b)(3)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(A). If the Secretary determines that a foreign state continues to meet the conditions for TPS designation, the designation is extended for an additional 6 months (or in the Secretary’s discretion for 12 or 18 months). See section 244(b)(3)(C) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(C). If the Secretary determines that the foreign state no longer meets the conditions for TPS designation, the Secretary must terminate the designation. See section 244(b)(3)(B) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(B).

Why Is the Secretary Extending the TPS Designation for Nicaragua for TPS Through January 5, 2015?

Over the past year, DHS and the Department of State (DOS) have continued to review conditions in Nicaragua. Based on that review and after consulting with DOS, the Secretary has determined that an 18-month extension is warranted because the disruption in living conditions and other adverse effects resulting from the environmental disaster that prompted the January 5, 1999 designation persist.

In October 1998, Hurricane Mitch resulted in the loss of thousands of lives, displacement of thousands more, collapse of physical infrastructure, and severe damage to the country’s economic system. See also 64 FR 526 (Jan. 5, 1999) (Mitch “caused[ed] severe flooding and associated damage in Nicaragua”). The government and people of Nicaragua continue to rely heavily on international assistance, and recovery from Hurricane Mitch is still incomplete.

Hurricane Mitch brought extremely heavy rainfall causing severe flooding in Nicaragua. Damage from flooding was extensive and totaled $1.3 to $1.5 billion USD. Landslides and floods destroyed entire villages and caused extensive damage to the transportation network, housing, medical and education facilities, water supply and sanitation facilities, and the agricultural sector. Living conditions remain disrupted in the areas affected by the devastation caused by Hurricane Mitch. Those areas continue to face serious economic and infrastructure challenges stemming from Hurricane Mitch.

Since Hurricane Mitch, the Government of Nicaragua, backed by extensive foreign aid, has undertaken various reconstruction projects throughout the country. Although various projects have been completed, subsequent natural disasters caused extensive damage in Nicaragua, hampering the recovery efforts.

Nicaragua is considered the poorest and least developed country in Central America and the second poorest in the Western hemisphere. Although the international community and the Government of Nicaragua have helped to repair the damage and destruction left behind by Hurricane Mitch, recovery and reconstruction efforts are still ongoing. Nicaragua continues to rely heavily on...

Dispersal to roads and bridges caused by Hurricane Mitch accounted for approximately 60 percent of Hurricane Mitch-related reconstruction costs.
Approximately 13,000 kilometers of roads were damaged and 71 bridges were destroyed. As a result, the country’s main cities were physically disconnected from smaller towns and communities. A significant amount of aid was dedicated to repairing and improving road infrastructure. An additional project funded by the World Bank began in 2006, but is not projected to be completed until 2014. Although these projects have been completed or will soon end, only 12 percent of Nicaragua’s roads are paved.

Hurricane Mitch damaged potable water, sewage treatment systems, water uptake systems, wells, water pump stations, and pipes in Nicaragua. The storm floods and runoff polluted water sources, leading to a 40 percent disruption in water services throughout the country. While water and sanitation systems are on the whole better than their pre-Mitch status, more than 50 percent of the rural population does not have access to safe water. Furthermore, improvement projects are still ongoing, including water and sanitation projects funded by the Inter-American Development Bank (IADB).

Since Hurricane Mitch, various hurricanes, tropical depressions, and tropical storms have resulted in loss of life, affected thousands of individuals,
and caused further damage to homes,
infrastructure, and the economy in Nicaragua. Most recently, in October 2011, heavy rains associated with Tropical Depression 12E caused further damage to flooding approximately $445 million USD. These natural disasters have been the biggest challenge towards achieving sustainable long-term post Hurricane Mitch recovery in the areas affected by Mitch. They have compounded the initial devastation and resulting disruption in living conditions caused by Hurricane Mitch.

Based upon this review and after consultation with appropriate Government agencies, the Secretary finds that:
• The conditions that prompted the January 5, 1999 designation of Nicaragua for TPS continue to be met. See sections 244(b)(1)(A) and (C) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(1)(A) and (C).
• There continues to be a substantial,
but temporary, disruption in living conditions in Nicaragua as a result of an environmental disaster. See section
244(b)(1)(B) of the Act, 8 U.S.C.
1254a(b)(1)(B).
• Nicaragua continues to be unable,
temporarily, to handle adequately the return of its nationals (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Nicaragua). See section
244(b)(1)(B) of the Act, 8 U.S.C.
1254a(b)(1)(B).
• The designation of Nicaragua for TPS should be extended for an additional 18-month period from July 6, 2013 through January 5, 2015. See section 244(b)(3)(C) of the INA, 8 U.S.C.
1254a(b)(3)(C).
• There are approximately 3,000
current Nicaragua TPS beneficiaries who are expected to be eligible to re-register for TPS under the extension.

Notice of Extension of the TPS
Designation of Nicaragua

By the authority vested in me as Secretary under section 244 of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1254a, I have determined, after consultation with the appropriate Government agencies, that the conditions that prompted the designation of Nicaragua for TPS on January 5, 1999, continue to be met. See sections 244(b)(3)(A) of the INA, 8 U.S.C.
1254a(b)(3)(A). On the basis of this determination, I am extending the existing TPS designation of Nicaragua for 18 months from July 6, 2013 through January 5, 2015.

Janet Napolitano,
Secretary.

Required Application Forms and Application Fees To Register or Re-register for TPS

To register or re-register for TPS for Nicaragua, an applicant must submit
each of the following two applications:

1. Application for Temporary Protected Status
(Form I–821)
• If you are filing an application for late initial registration, you must pay
the fee for the Application for Temporary Protected Status (Form I– 821). See 8 CFR 244.2(f)(2) and 244.6
and information on late initial filing on the USCIS TPS Web page at http:// www.uscis.gov/tps.
• If you are filing an application for re-registration, you do not need to pay
the fee for the Application for
Temporary Protected Status (Form I– 821). See 8 CFR 244.17.

2. Application for Employment
Authorization (Form I–765)
• If you are applying for late initial registration and want an EAD, you must pay the fee for Application for the Employment Authorization (Form I–
765) only if you are age 14 through 65.
No fee for the Application for Employment Authorization (Form I– 765) is required if you are under the age of 14 or 66 and older and applying for late initial registration.
• If you are applying for re-registration, you must pay the fee for the Application for Employment
Authorization (Form I–765) only if you want an EAD.
• You do not pay the fee for the Application for Employment Authorization (Form I–765) if you are not requesting an EAD, regardless of whether you are applying for late initial registration or re-registration.
You must submit both completed application forms together. If you are unable to pay for the application and/or biometrics fee, you may apply for a fee waiver by completing a Request for Fee Waiver (Form I–912) or submitting
a personal letter requesting a fee waiver, and by providing satisfactory supporting documentation. For more information on the application forms and fees for TPS, please visit the USCIS TPS Web page at http://www.uscis.gov/tps. Fees for the Application for Temporary Protected Status (Form I–821), the Application for Employment Authorization (Form I–765), and biometric services are also described in 8 CFR 103.7(b)(1)(i).

Biometric Services Fee

Biometrics (such as fingerprints) are required for all applicants 14 years of age or older. Those applicants must submit a biometric services fee. As previously stated, if you are unable to pay for the biometric services fee, you may apply for a fee waiver by completing a Request for Fee Waiver (Form I–912) or by submitting a personal letter requesting a fee waiver, and providing satisfactory supporting documentation. For more information on the biometric services fee, please visit the USCIS Web site at http://www.uscis.gov. If necessary, you may be required to visit an Application Support Center to have your biometrics captured.

Refiling a Re-registration TPS Application After Receiving a Denial of a Fee Waiver Request

USCIS urges all re-registering applicants to file as soon as possible within the 60-day re-registration period so that USCIS can process the applications and issue EADs promptly. Filing early will also allow those applicants who may receive denials of their fee waiver requests to have time to refile their applications before the re-registration deadline. If, however, an applicant receives a denial of his or her fee waiver request and is unable to refile by the re-registration deadline, the applicant may still refile his or her application. This situation will be reviewed under good cause for late re-registration. However, applicants are urged to refile within 45 days of the date on their USCIS fee waiver denial notice, if at all possible. See section 244(c)(3)(C) of the INA; 8 U.S.C. 1254a(c)(3)(C); 8 CFR 244.17(c). For more information on good cause for late re-registration, visit the USCIS TPS Web page at http://www.uscis.gov/tps.

Employment Authorization Document (EAD)

May I request an interim EAD at my local USCIS office?

No. USCIS will not issue interim EADs to TPS applicants and re-registrants at local offices.

Am I eligible to receive an automatic extension of my current EAD from July 5, 2013 through January 5, 2014?

Provided that you currently have TPS under the Nicaragua designation, this notice automatically extends your EAD by 6 months if you:

- Are a national of Nicaragua (or an alien having no nationality who last habitually resided in Nicaragua);
- Received an EAD under the last extension or re-designation of TPS for Nicaragua; and
- Have an EAD with a marked expiration date of July 5, 2013, bearing the notation “A–12” or “C–19” on the face of the card under “Category.”

Although your EAD is automatically extended through January 5, 2014 by this notice, you must re-register for TPS in accordance with the procedures described in this notice if you would like to maintain your TPS.

When hired, what documentation may I show to my employer as proof of employment authorization and identity when completing Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9)?

You can find a list of acceptable document choices on the “Lists of Acceptable Documents” for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9). You can find additional detailed information on the USCIS I–9 Central Web page at http://www.uscis.gov/I–9Central. Employers are required to verify the identity and employment authorization of all new employees by using Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9). Within 3 days of hire, an employee must present proof of identity and employment authorization to his or her employer.

You may present any document from List A (reflecting both your identity and employment authorization), or one document from List B (reflecting identity) together with one document from List C (reflecting employment authorization). An EAD is an acceptable document under “List A.” Employers may not reject a document based upon a future expiration date.

If your EAD has an expiration date of July 5, 2013, and states “A–12” or “C–19” under “Category”, it has been extended automatically for 3 months by virtue of this Federal Register notice, and you may choose to present your EAD to your employer as proof of identity and employment authorization for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) through January 5, 2014 (see the subsection below titled “How do I and my employer complete the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9)?” for further information). To minimize confusion over this extension at the time of hire, you may also show your employer a copy of this Federal Register notice confirming the automatic extension of employment authorization through January 5, 2014. As an alternative to presenting your automatically extended EAD, you may choose to present any other acceptable document from List A, or List B plus List C.

What documentation may I show my employer if I am already employed but my current TPS-related EAD is set to expire?

Even though EADs with an expiration date of July 5, 2013, that state “A–12” or “C–19” under “Category” have been automatically extended for 6 months by virtue of this Federal Register notice, your employer will need to ask you about your continued employment authorization once July 5, 2013 is reached in order to meet its responsibilities for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9). However, your employer does not need a new document to reverify your employment authorization until January 5, 2014, the expiration date of the automatic extension. Instead, you and How do I and my employer complete the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) (i.e., verification) using an automatically extended EAD for a new job?

When using an automatically extended EAD to fill out the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) for a new job prior to January 5, 2014, you and your employer should do the following:

1. For Section 1, you should:
   a. Check “An alien authorized to work”;
   b. Write your alien number (USCIS number or A-number) in the first space (your EAD or other document from DHS will have your USCIS number or A-number printed on it; the USCIS Number is the same as your A-number without the A prefix); and
   c. Write the automatic extension date (January 5, 2014) in the second space.

2. For Section 2, employers should record the:
   a. Document title;
   b. Document number; and
   c. Automatically extended EAD expiration date (January 5, 2014). No later than January 5, 2014, employers must reverify the employee’s employment authorization in Section 3 of the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9).

What corrections should my current employer and I make to the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) if my EAD has been automatically extended?

If you are an existing employee who presented a TPS-related EAD that was valid when you first started your job, but that EAD has now been automatically extended, you and your employer should correct your previously completed Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) as follows:

(1) For Section 1, you should:
   a. Draw a line through the expiration date in the second space;
   b. Write “January 5, 2014” above the previous date;
   c. Write “TPS Ext.” in the margin of Section 1; and
   d. Initial and date the correction in the margin of Section 1.

(2) For Section 2, employers should:
   a. Draw a line through the expiration date written in Section 2;
   b. Write “January 5, 2014” above the previous date;
   c. Write “TPS Ext.” in the margin of Section 2; and
   d. Initial and date the correction in the margin of Section 2.

By January 5, 2014, when the automatic extension of EADs expires, employers must reverify the employee’s employment authorization in Section 3.

If I am an employer enrolled in E-Verify, what do I do when I receive a “Work Authorization Documents Expiration” alert for an automatically extended EAD?

If you are an employer who participates in E-Verify, you will receive a “Work Authorization Documents Expiring” case alert when a TPS beneficiary’s EAD is about to expire. Usually, this message is an alert to complete Section 3 of the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) to reverify an employee’s employment authorization. For existing employees with TPS-related EADs that have been automatically extended, employers should dismiss this alert by clicking the red “X” in the “dismiss alert” column and follow the instructions above explaining how to correct the Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9). By January 5, 2014, employment authorization must be reverified in Section 3. Employers should never use E-Verify for reverification.

Can my employer require that I produce any other documentation to prove my status, such as proof of my Nicaraguan citizenship?

No. When completing Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9), including reverifying employment authorization, employers must accept any documentation that appears on the “Lists of Acceptable Documents” for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) and that reasonably appears to be genuine and that relates to you. Employers may not request documentation that does not appear on the “Lists of Acceptable Documents.” Therefore, employers may not request proof of Nicaraguan citizenship when completing Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) for new hires or reverifying the employment authorization of current employees. If presented with EADs that are unexpired on their face, employers should accept such EADs as valid List A documents so long as the EADs reasonably appear to be genuine and to relate to the employee. See below for important information about your rights if your employer rejects lawful documentation, requires additional documentation, or otherwise discriminates against you based on your citizenship or immigration status, or your national origin.

Note to All Employers

Employers are reminded that the laws requiring proper employment eligibility verification and prohibiting unfair immigration-related employment practices remain in full force. This notice does not supersede or in any way limit applicable employment verification rules and policy guidance, including those rules setting forth reverification requirements. For general questions about the employment eligibility verification process,
Note to All Employees

For general questions about the employment eligibility verification process, employees may call the USCIS National Customer Service Center at 800–375–2823 (TDD for the hearing impaired is at 800–767–1833); calls are accepted in English and Spanish. Employees or applicants may also call the USCIS Worker Information Hotline at 800–767–1833 (TDD for the hearing impaired is at 800–237–2515) for information regarding employment discrimination based upon citizenship, immigration status, or national origin, or for information regarding discrimination related to Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) completion if the documentation reasonably appears to be genuine and to relate to the employee. Employers may not require extra or additional documentation beyond what is required for Employment Eligibility Verification (Form I–9) completion. Further, employers participating in E-verify who receive an E-verify initial mismatch (“tentative nonconfirmation” or “TNC”) on employees must inform employees of the mismatch and give such employees an opportunity to challenge the mismatch. Employers are prohibited from taking adverse action against such employees based on the initial mismatch unless and until E-Verify returns a final nonconfirmation. For example, employers may allow employees challenging their mismatches to continue to work without any delay in start date or training and without any change in hours or pay while the final E-Verify determination remains pending. Additional information is available on the USCIS website at http://www.dhs.gov/ about/osc and the USCIS E-Verify website at http://www.dhs.gov/E-verify.

Note Regarding Federal, State, and Local Government Agencies (Such as Departments of Motor Vehicles)

While Federal government agencies must follow the guidelines laid out by the Federal government, state and local government agencies establish their own rules and guidelines when granting certain benefits. Each state may have different laws, requirements, and determinations about what documents you need to provide to prove eligibility for certain benefits. Whether you are applying for a Federal, state, or local government benefit, you may need to provide the government agency with documents that show you are a TPS beneficiary and/or show you are authorized to work based on TPS.

Examples are:
(1) Your expired EAD that has been automatically extended, or your EAD that has a valid expiration date;
(2) A copy of this Federal Register notice if your EAD is automatically extended under this notice;
(3) A copy of your Application for Temporary Protected Status Receipt Notice (Form I–797) for this re-registration;
(4) A copy of your past or current Application for Temporary Protected Status Approval Notice (Form I–797), if you receive one from USCIS; and/or
(5) If there is an automatic extension of work authorization, a copy of the fact sheet from the USCIS TPS Web site that provides information on the automatic extension.

Check with the government agency regarding which document(s) the agency will accept. You may also provide the agency with a copy of this notice.

Some benefit-granting agencies use the USCIS Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements Program (SAVE) to verify the immigration status of applicants for public benefits. If such an agency has denied your application based solely or in part on a SAVE response, the agency must offer you the opportunity to appeal the decision in accordance with the agency’s procedures. If the agency has received and acted upon or will act upon a SAVE verification and you do not believe the response is correct, you may make an InfoPass appointment for an in-person interview at a local USCIS office.

Detailed information on how to make corrections, make an appointment, or submit a written request can be found at the SAVE Web site at http://www.uscis.gov/save, then by choosing “How to Correct Your Records” from the menu on the right.
