Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement—Development and Pilot Training of a Curriculum for Pretrial Justice System Stakeholders

AGENCY: National Institute of Corrections, U.S. Department of Justice.

ACTION: Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement.

SUMMARY: The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) is soliciting proposals from organizations, groups, or individuals to enter into a cooperative agreement for a 15-month period to begin no later than August 31, 2013. Work under this cooperative agreement will involve the development and pilot of a training curriculum targeted toward teams of pretrial justice stakeholders who have the primary responsibility of developing and maintaining the pretrial justice system within their jurisdiction. This curriculum is intended to prepare these teams to plan, develop, and implement critical policy and systemwide pretrial decisions in a collaborative structure based on the most current legal and evidence-based pretrial knowledge. These teams must have the participation of the judge, prosecutor, defense attorney, sheriff or jail administrator, and pretrial director, who have primary oversight of pretrial justice in their jurisdiction. The curriculum will help teams explore their independent and collaborative roles in the development and daily operational functions of maintaining pretrial justice within their jurisdiction. This project will be a collaborative venture with the NIC Community Services Division.

NIC Opportunity Number: 13CS04. This number should appear in the reference line in your cover letter, on Standard Form 424 in section 11 with the title of your proposal, and in the right justified header of your proposal.

Number of Awards and Funds Available: Under this solicitation, 1 (one) award will be made. The total amount of funds available under this solicitation is $70,000.00. Applications: All applications must be submitted electronically via http:// www.grants.gov. Hand delivered, mailed, faxed, or emailed applications will not be accepted.

DATES: Application must be submitted before midnight on Tuesday, July 16, 2013.

Authority: Public Law 93–415

Eligibility of Applicants: An eligible applicant is any public or private agency, educational institution, organization, individual or team with expertise in the described areas.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background: The National Institute of Corrections recognizes the necessity of having a high functioning pretrial release structure within a criminal justice system. The pretrial detention or release decision is unique and often creates conflicts between criminal justice stakeholders even when the best policy and protocols are followed. This conflict has contributed to increasing numbers of defendants being held in jail during their pretrial period. Nationally, about 65% of jail populations are pretrial defendants, charged but not convicted of a crime. Many of these pretrial detainees are being held on low money bail amounts, are considered to have a high probability to appear at all of their scheduled court hearings, and have a low probability of committing any criminal acts while in the community. NIC currently offers an Orientation for New Pretrial Executives two times per year. This 40-hour training addresses and prepares these executives for the unique challenges they face with the development and implementation of pretrial release and supervision services. Approximately 150 pretrial executives have completed this course and have taken their new skills and knowledge back to their jurisdictions with the intent of implementing the best known practices in pretrial release. When they return to their jurisdictions, other key pretrial release stakeholders do not have the same knowledge and skill set as the pretrial executive now holds. This knowledge gap creates a significant barrier to the implementation of a high functioning pretrial detention and release system. A proposal responsive to this solicitation should, at minimum include strategies to develop a curriculum targeted to a team of pretrial justice stakeholders, including the judge, prosecutor, defense attorney, sheriff or jail administrator, and pretrial director. The curriculum will explore the individual and collaborative roles and functions they have when maintaining a pretrial justice system grounded in relevant legal and evidence-based practices. It should be delivered in a manner that promotes adult learning and collaborative planning and decision making.

Scope of Work: The goal of this cooperative agreement is to develop and pilot a blended learning curriculum formatted on the instructional theory into practice (ITIP) model. The curriculum is intended for pretrial justice stakeholder teams that have the primary responsibility of developing pretrial detention and release policy and practices within their jurisdiction. The curriculum will prepare teams with the skills and knowledge necessary to plan, develop, and implement a high functioning pretrial justice system. It should be developed and delivered in methods that promote adult learning and collaborative team decision making. This work will occur in four phases. The first phase is curriculum development and design. Mandatory content areas that the curriculum must address include legal foundations, professional standards, performance and outcome measures, and evidence-based practices of pretrial justice. Stakeholder focus groups will be held to determine other required knowledge and competency areas needed to complete the curriculum. The second phase is training for and review and revision by identified course trainers. The training will introduce trainers to the curriculum, adult learning theory, and effective facilitation strategies. Information gathered from observation of the training and/or feedback from the trainers will be incorporated into the draft curriculum. The third phase is pilot testing. Trainers will deliver the curriculum to 4 to 5 teams from local jurisdictions. Knowledge and competency assessments as well as a testing schedule will be developed and administered to the participants of the pilot training. Information gathered from participant feedback and exit knowledge assessment will be incorporated into the draft curriculum. Finally, the last phase is review and revision of the draft to develop the final curriculum and other deliverables.

Deliverables: (1) Create a 32- to 40-hour blended training curriculum based on the ITIP model. This will include all training material required to deliver the course. Training materials will include, but are not limited to (a) a complete instructor training manual in hard and electronic copy, (b) slide show presentations to support the training curriculum, (c) copies of participant training material, and (d) a final participant manual hard and electronic copy. (2) Design and pilot a blended learning curriculum. (3) Design and facilitate a 3- to 4-day train-the-trainer experience for the identified trainers of the new curriculum. The awardee will work with NIC’s CPS to identify trainers. NIC will make the final approval of trainers for the pilot and any future program offerings. The design of the train the trainer will include adult learning theory, review the curriculum and objectives, practice facilitating the module, guided feedback sessions to provide feedback to the awardee, and guided feedback session for the awardee and CPS to provide feedback to the trainers. This training session will be held at the National Training Academy in Aurora, CO. (4) Pilot the final draft of the curriculum. The curriculum will be delivered to 4 to 5 teams from various jurisdictions. The awardee will be present during the pilot training sessions to observe the training and facilitate a debriefing session(s) with the trainers and participants to assess and address the training and curriculum concerns. (The travel and per diem costs of the 20–25 participants and trainers will be funded outside of this cooperative agreement and cost estimates should not be included in this budget.) The awardee will work with NIC on training logistics, which must follow mandatory training protocols set out by the Bureau of Prisons and NIC. The pilot will take place at the National Training Academy in Aurora, CO. (5) Develop a system and written protocol, in consultation with NIC’s CPS and Research and Information Services Division, to assess the effectiveness of the training curriculum in changing identified knowledge and performance over time. (6) Plan and participate in planning meetings and updates with the assigned NIC CPS to initiate the project plan, review the information from the stakeholder focus groups and draft agenda, review draft curriculum, and perform final curriculum review. Maintain contact and advise NIC’s CPS of any major changes, barriers, or progress. Face-to-face meetings must be held in an approved NIC training facility or by phone or video conference. (7) All documentation submitted must follow NIC’s Service for Results guidelines which will be given to the awardee at the first meeting.
