

products within the third category (the C List) is a Government agency (civil and military) which represents the end-users of the specialized or niche product(s) within this category.

In order to take full advantage of the Department of Defense (DoD) 4140.1-R, DoD Supply Chain Materiel Management Regulation, the AbilityOne Program is designating the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) as an additional contracting activity for products within the A List and B List categories. The DoD 4140.1-R, May 23, 2003, AP7: Appendix 7, Agreement between the Department of Defense and the General Services Administration Governing Supply Management Relationships Under the National Supply System provides DLA the authority to procure and supply certain assigned products for the entire Government within the terms of that Agreement. The AbilityOne Program's addition of DLA as an additional contracting activity for products that have the Procurement List procurement preference across all entities of the Government (A List) or that have purchasing preference across a broad selection of Federal agencies (B List) is supported by this regulation. This change enhances the availability of AbilityOne Program products to Government agencies (civil and military) regardless of which organization (DLA or GSA) manages a particular Federal Supply Classification.

When proposing to add a product to its Procurement List, the Commission's notices published in the Federal Register will continue to identify the category group (A List, B List, or C List) as described in its December 2006 Federal Register notice. The notices will also identify the relevant contracting activity responsible for aggregating requirements with AbilityOne products that have purchasing preference. All other aspects of the December 2006 Federal Register notice remain in effect.
