SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:I. Background

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) proposes to update and reissue a current DHS system of records titled, “DHS/USCIS—008 Refugee Access Verification Unit System of Records” (last published December 19, 2008, 73 FR 77795). This system of records notice (SORN) includes an updated system location, clarified categories of records, an updated retention schedule, and additional sources of records.

USCIS and the Department of State (DOS) Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration (PRM) work cooperatively to administer the overseas component of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP). The mission of the USRAP is to resettle eligible refugees in the United States. DOS PRM has overall management responsibility for the USRAP and leads in proposing admissions ceilings and defining processing priorities, under which individuals may obtain access to the USRAP. The USCIS Refugee, Asylum, and International Operations Directorate (RAIO), Refugee Affairs Division (RAD) is responsible for interviewing refugee applicants and adjudicating applications for refugee status.

Two separate IT systems maintain the information necessary to process applications for refugee resettlement under the Priority 3 Family Reunification Program (P-3): (1) The DOS Worldwide Refugee Admissions Processing System (WRAPS) and (2) The Refugee Access Verification Unit (RAVU) database. WRAPS maintains information related to all individuals referred to the USRAP for resettlement. USCIS has read-only access to WRAPS. RAVU officers conduct preliminary paper reviews of all Affidavits of Relationship (AOR) (Form DS-7656) filed for P-3 cases prior to interview by a USCIS officer overseas.

All AORs are subject to RAVU officer review. Only those family members on AORs cleared by USCIS proceed to a refugee interview with a USCIS officer overseas. To support this function, USCIS developed the RAVU database using the existing SharePoint Enterprise Collaboration Network (ECN) to track and manage the review of AORs, as well as generate reports, forms, and letters. ECN is a virtual work environment that allows users to collaborate, share information, and enhance productivity. RAVU allows users to enter data into a site through manual typing and attaching documents in a virtual space. Data from AORs and corresponding documents from the A-file are uploaded from individual computers to a secured centralized site in ECN.

USCIS is republishing this SORN to provide public notice of the following. The location of the system has been updated to note that RAVU records are only electronically maintained. The categories of records have been updated to clarify that DNA results and other information may be collected on anchor relatives, qualifying family members, derivatives, and Type C add-on relatives. DHS has updated Routine Use H to clarify that records will be shared with DOS and "their contractors, agents, grantees, experts, consultants, or others performing or working on a contract, service, grant, cooperative agreement, or other assignment for DOS, when necessary to accomplish an agency function related to this system of records." The retention and disposal section has been updated to reflect a proposed retention schedule that would reduce the retention of master file records from 20 years to 15 years. Retrievability has been updated to note that records may be retrieved by the anchor relative's A-Number or the Pre-Case ID assigned to the AOR. Sources of records have been updated to include A-files and other DHS systems. Additionally, this notice includes non-substantive changes to simplify the formatting and text of the previously published notice.

Information contained in DHS/USCIS—008 Refugee Access Verification Unit is afforded the confidentiality protections contained in 8 CFR 208.6, which strictly limits the disclosure of information to third parties. 8 CFR 208.6 specifically covers the confidentiality of asylum applicants who are in the United States. By DHS policy, the confidentiality provisions for asylum seekers and asylees have been extended to refugee applicants. Information may not be disclosed without the written consent of the applicant, except as permitted by 8 CFR 208.6 or at the discretion of the Secretary of Homeland Security or the Attorney General of the United States. This updated system will continue to be included in DHS' inventory of record systems.

II. Privacy Act

The Privacy Act embodies fair information practice principles in a statutory framework governing the means by which federal government agencies collect, maintain, use, and disseminate individuals' records. The Privacy Act applies to information that is maintained in a "system of records." A "system of records" is a group of any records under the control of an agency for which information is retrieved by the name of an individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. In the Privacy Act, an individual is defined to encompass U.S. citizens and lawful permanent residents. As a matter of policy, DHS extends administrative Privacy Act protections to all individuals where systems of records maintain information on U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, and visitors.

Below is the description of the DHS/USCIS—008 Refugee Access Verification Unit System of Records.

Information in this system of records contains information relating to persons who have pending or approved applications for asylum or refugee status and should not be disclosed pursuant to a routine use unless disclosure is otherwise permissible under the confidentiality statutes, regulations, or policies applicable to that information.
