FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Charlene Dwin Vaughn, 202-517-0207

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP) is an independent federal agency, created by the National Historic Preservation Act that promotes the preservation, enhancement, and sustainable use of our nation's diverse historic resources, and advises the President and Congress on national historic preservation policy.

Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (Section 106), 54 U.S.C. 306108, requires federal agencies to consider the effects of their undertakings on historic properties and provide the ACHP a reasonable opportunity to comment with regard to such undertakings. The ACHP has issued the regulations that set forth the process through which federal agencies comply with these duties. These regulations are codified under 36 CFR part 800.

I. Background on the Draft Policy Statement

In March 2013, the ACHP issued a report entitled Managing Change: Preservation and Rightsizing in America. It can be accessed at <http://www.achp.gov/RightsizingReport.pdf>. The report focused on communities that were addressing rightsizing. The concept of rightsizing applied to communities undergoing substantial change due to economic decline, population loss, increased amounts of vacancy and abandonment, decline in local services, increased homelessness and poverty, declining educational opportunities, and systemic blight. Rightsizing has been occurring in communities around the Nation for decades as they respond to transformative events. The report contained the findings and recommendations of extensive research, on-site visits, and ACHP participation on panels and seminars during which stakeholders shared their views regarding the effect of rightsizing on the community.

The primary findings of the report included the following observations:

- Historic preservation tools are not used to maintain the historic integrity of rightsizing communities;
- Historic preservation needs to be better integrated in local planning and economic development;
- Federal programs that can support rightsizing in a manner that builds on community historic resources are not readily available;
- The early initiation of project review under Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) can facilitate the analysis of alternative redevelopment strategies that can integrate historic properties; and
- Federal programs that are targeted to extensive demolition in a community do not always reflect the preference of the residents in a community.

As the ACHP explored options to implement the recommendations in the report, it was concluded that the development of a policy statement would be appropriate to advance historic preservation.

In 2006, the ACHP adopted a "Policy Statement on Affordable Housing and Historic Preservation" to assist stakeholders in utilizing historic properties for affordable housing projects with minimal delays. It can be accessed at <http://www.achp.gov/docs/fr7387.pdf>. This Policy Statement was well received by stakeholders. The principles outlined in the document are still used when conducting historic preservation reviews for affordable housing projects.

The purpose of developing the Policy Statement on Historic Preservation and Community Revitalization in 2016 is to ensure that preservation is considered as a tool that will assist federal, state and local governments plan and implement revitalization projects and programs in a manner that reuses and rehabilitates historic properties.

The Working Group convened by the ACHP to assist in developing the policy statement began meeting in December 2014. Representatives of the Working Group included, Brad White, Expert Member of the ACHP, as the Chairman, the US Department of Housing and Urban Development, US Department of Agriculture, Department of Health and Human Services, the National Park Service, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the American Assembly, Cleveland Restoration Society, Preservation Research Office, Historic Districts Council, Rightsizing Network, Michigan State Historic Preservation Office, and Indiana Historic Preservation Office. After consulting for approximately one year to discuss the major problem areas that needed to be addressed in rightsizing and legacy cities, a working draft of the Policy Statement was drafted, and distributed to ACHP members for review.

The comments received from ACHP members resulted in revisions to the draft policy statement to achieve the following:

- Focus on rural and tribal communities as well as Legacy Cities;
- Emphasize the value of preparing local architectural and archeological surveys;
- Emphasize how the principles apply to Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act;
- Reference the role of field, regional, and state offices in preserving local assets;
- Address how Section 106 reviews can be expedited; and
- Define how creative mitigation measures can facilitate preservation in communities.

The ACHP invites comments from the public on the draft Policy Statement (see text at the end of this notice), particularly as it relates to the following questions:

1. How can the principles in the draft Policy Statement help communities balance the goal of historic preservation
