In addition, the PRA also requires Federal agencies to provide a 60-day notice in the Federal Register concerning each proposed collection of information, including each new proposed collection, each proposed extension of existing collection of information, and each reinstatement of previously approved information collection before submitting the collection to OMB for approval. To comply with this requirement, we are publishing this notice of a proposed data collection as described below.

Proposed Project

An Assessment of the State Public Health Actions ("1305") Program—New—National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Background and Brief Description

Chronic diseases and conditions—such as heart disease, stroke, diabetes, and obesity—are the leading causes of death and disability in the United States, and are major drivers of sickness, disability, and high health care costs (CDC, 2016). Having multiple chronic conditions further increases the risk for these negative health outcomes, while also increasing risk for poor day-to-day functioning. Chronic diseases, as well as multiple chronic diseases, are associated with significant health care costs. In 2010, 86% of all health care spending was attributed to individuals with at least one chronic medical condition, and 71% was associated with care for individuals with multiple chronic conditions (Gerteis et al., 2014).

To address these challenges, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (NCCDPHP) provides funding for cross-cutting chronic disease programs within state and local health agencies to implement public health programs; conduct public health surveillance; translate research; communicate health prevention messages; and develop and implement tools and resources for state- and local-level stakeholders. In 2013, the NCCDPHP developed a new program funding opportunity to support states in the design and implementation of strategies to reduce complications from multiple chronic diseases and associated risk factors. The funding opportunity was announced as "State Public Health Actions to Prevent and Control Diabetes, Heart Disease, Obesity and Associated Risk Factors and Promote School Health," CDC-RFA-DP13-1305, and is hereafter referred to as "State Public Health Actions 1305." This new 5-year cooperative agreement supports state health departments in an important transition from funding and implementing four separate categorical areas (i.e., diabetes; heart disease and stroke; nutrition, physical activity, and obesity; and school health) to working collaboratively across categorical areas to plan and implement cross-cutting initiatives. This cross-cutting approach is essential for supporting activities to prevent chronic disease and risk factors—particularly multiple chronic conditions.

State Public Health Actions 1305 addresses six key public health priorities: (1) Uncontrolled hypertension, (2) prevention and control of diabetes, (3) incidence of obesity, (4) increased physical activity and healthy eating by children and adults, (5) increased breastfeeding, and (6) improved management of chronic conditions among students. Strategies implemented under State Public Health Actions 1305 fall into one or more of four chronic disease domains, including (1) Epidemiology and Surveillance, (2) Environmental Approaches to promote health and support and reinforce healthful behaviors, (3) Health Systems Interventions to improve the effective delivery and use of clinical and other preventive services, and (4) Community-Clinical Linkages to support cardiovascular disease and diabetes prevention and control efforts, and the management of chronic diseases.

Through this cooperative agreement, CDC currently provides over $100 million to state health departments in all 50 United States and the District of Columbia. Due to the funding, complexity, coordination, and collaboration needed to implement State Public Health Actions 1305, there are a number of semi-annual and annual reporting requirements related to categorical spending, chronic disease outcomes, efficiencies, and accomplishments. These routine reporting requirements allow CDC to monitor awardee progress towards programmatic goals, but do not collect specific information about the processes that support program implementation plans.

The overall evaluation of State Public Health Actions 1305 examines the efficiency and effectiveness of the program to provide accountability, improve programs, expand practice-based evidence, and demonstrate health outcomes. An important component of assessing efficiency and effectiveness of the program is examining synergy. Synergy occurs when collaboration, coordination, alignment, and a combination of inputs and activities (i.e., the assets and skills of all the participating partners) produce outputs and outcomes greater than those that would have occurred if they had been used separately. The proposed strategies are intentionally aligned to attain greater success in achieving measurable outcomes that speak to the aims of each categorical area and the program as a whole. CDC proposes to conduct an assessment to better understand synergy within and across State Public Health Actions 1305 funded programs.

The assessment is guided by three process-related research questions and multiple indicators designed to examine changes in processes, organizational structure, and capacity. It will also examine states' ability to implement a coordinated approach across the different chronic disease areas and the four domains; challenges and benefits; and measurable positive outcomes. The research questions include: (1) What changes did States make to create greater synergy?, (2) To what extent were redundancies reduced or eliminated at the State level?, and (3) How has coordination with critical partners changed since the implementation of State Public Health Actions 1305?

CDC plans to administer a web-based survey to health departments receiving funding through the State Public Health Actions 1305 cooperative agreement, including 50 states and the District of Columbia. CDC plans to administer the survey in 2016 (program year 4) and 2018 (program year 5) to explore changes in partnerships and synergy throughout the 5-year cooperative agreement. Surveys will be administered to health department staff directly involved in planning and/or implementation of the State Public Health Actions 1305 program, including principal investigators, chronic disease directors, program evaluators, epidemiologists, and program staff with subject matter expertise in one or more of the four categorical areas. CDC will recruit approximately 8 individuals from each funded program for a total of approximately 408 respondents.

CDC will use survey findings to (1) inform future CDC technical assistance provision to State Public Health Actions 1305 funded programs, and (2) inform future cross-cutting, coordinated funding models. In addition, findings will complement existing routine reporting by gathering information about the specific processes that support program implementation plans. Findings will be disseminated via grantee webinars, grantee annual meetings, reports to CDC leadership, and U.S. Congressional reports.

OMB approval is requested for 2 years. Participation is voluntary and respondents will not receive incentives for participation. There are no costs to respondents other than their time.
