A. Does this action apply to me?

You may be potentially affected by this action if you manufacture (defined under TSCA to include import), process, distribute in commerce, use or dispose of any of the ten chemical substances identified in this document for risk evaluation. This action may be of particular interest to entities that are regulated under TSCA (e.g., entities identified under North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) codes 325 and 324110, among others). Since other entities may also be interested, the Agency has not attempted to describe all the specific entities and corresponding NAICS codes for entities that may be interested in or affected by this action.

B. How can I get copies of this document and other related information?

The docket for this action, identified by docket identification (ID) number EPA–HQ–OPPT–2016–0718, is available at http://www.regulations.gov or at the Office of Pollution Prevention and Toxics Docket (OPPT Docket), Environmental Protection Agency Docket Center (EPA/DC), West William Jefferson Clinton Bldg., Rm. 3334, 1301 Constitution Ave. NW., Washington, DC. The Public Reading Room is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding federal holidays. The telephone number for the Public Reading Room is (202) 566–1744, and the telephone number for the OPPT Docket is (202) 566–0820. Please review the visitor instructions and additional information about the docket available at http://www.epa.gov/dockets.

II. What action is the Agency taking?

EPA is announcing the first 10 chemical substances that it will evaluate for potential risks to human health and the environment under TSCA section 6(b)(2)(A), as amended by the Frank R. Launtenberg Chemical Safety for the 21st Century Act (https://www.epa.gov/assessing-and-managing-chemicals-under-tscav/evaluating-risk-existing-chemicals-under-tscav#chemical names). As amended, the law requires that risk evaluation be initiated on 10 chemical substances drawn from the 2014 update of the TSCA Work Plan for Chemical Assessments (Ref. 1) and that EPA publish this list within 180 days of enactment (i.e., by December 19, 2016). The 10 chemical substances for which EPA is initiating risk evaluations are as follows:

- 1,4-Dioxane;
- 1-Bromopropane;
- Asbestos;
- Carbon Tetrachloride;
- Cyclic Aliphatic Bromide Cluster (HBCD);
- Methylene Chloride;
- N-Methylpyrrolidone (NMP);
- Pigment Violet 29 (Anthra[2,1,9-de:6,5,10-d’e’]diisouquinoline-1,3,8,10(2H,9H)-tetrone);
- Trichloroethylene (TCE);
- Tetrachloroethylene (also known as perchloroethylene).

III. What is the authority for this action?

On June 22, 2016, the President signed into law the “Frank R. Launtenberg Chemical Safety for the 21st Century Act,” which amended TSCA (15 U.S.C. 2601 et seq.). The amendments give EPA improved authority to take actions to protect people and the environment from the effects of dangerous chemical substances. Additional information on the new law is available on EPA’s Web site at: https://www.epa.gov/assessing-and-managing-chemicals-under-tscav/frank-r-lautenberg-chemical-safety-21st-century-act. One of the key features of the new law is the requirement that EPA now systematically prioritize and assess existing chemical substances and manage identified risks. Through a combination of new authorities, a risk-based safety standard, mandatory deadlines for action, and minimum throughput requirements, TSCA effectively creates a pipeline by which EPA will conduct review and management of existing chemical substances. This new pipeline—from prioritization to risk evaluation to risk management (when warranted)—is intended to drive steady forward progress on evaluating and addressing risks from existing chemical substances. Risk evaluation is a key step in this process.

TSCA section 6(b)(2)(A) specifies the requirements for risk evaluations. Section 6(b)(2)(A) requires EPA to “ensure that risk evaluations are being conducted on 10 chemical substances drawn from the 2014 update of the TSCA Work Plan for Chemical Assessments and shall publish the list of such chemical substances” not later than 180 days after enactment of the law.

IV. Initiation for Risk Evaluation

A. Statutory Requirements for Risk Evaluations

EPA’s designation in this document of the first 10 chemical substances for risk evaluation constitutes the initiation of the risk evaluation process for each of these chemical substances, pursuant to the requirements of section 6(b)(4) of TSCA. These chemical substances are now in the process of risk evaluation to determine whether they “present an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment, without consideration of costs or other non-risk factors, including an unreasonable risk to a potentially exposed or susceptible subpopulation identified as relevant to the risk evaluation by the Administrator, under the conditions of use.”

Within six months from the date of publication of this notice (i.e., June 19, 2017), EPA will issue a scoping document that will include information about the chemical substance, such as the hazards, exposures, conditions of use, and the potentially exposed or susceptible subpopulations the Agency expects to consider in the risk evaluation. TSCA generally requires that these chemical risk evaluations be completed within three years of initiation, allowing for a single 6-month extension. For each risk evaluation that EPA completes (other than industry-requested risk evaluations under TSCA section 6(b)(4)(C)(ii)), TSCA requires that EPA begin another risk evaluation. Additional chemical substances will be designated as high priority for risk evaluation, and have their risks evaluated under section 6(b)(4). By the end of 2019, EPA must have at least 20 chemical risk evaluations ongoing at any given time.

B. How did EPA select the first 10 chemicals?

TSCA requires that EPA choose the first 10 chemical substances from the list of 90 chemical substances on the 2014 update of the TSCA Work Plan for Chemical Assessments. TSCA Work Plan chemicals were selected based on their hazard and potential exposure, as well as other considerations such as persistence and bioaccumulation. In selecting the first 10 chemical... substances, EPA took into account scientific information documented in the 2014 Work Plan, and recommendations from stakeholders and the public. EPA has established a separate docket for each of these chemical substances to document the risk evaluation process and to facilitate receipt of information which may be useful to the Agency’s risk evaluations. The following list of the first 10 carcinogenic and the public. EPA has established a separate docket for each of these substances, EPA took into account scientific information documented in the 2014 Work Plan, and their docket ID number:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Request for Scientific Views: Draft Human Health Recreational Ambient Water Quality Criteria and/or Swimming Advisories for Microcystins and Cylindrospermopsis

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of availability.

SUMMARY: The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announces the release of the draft of Human Health Recreational Ambient Water Quality Criteria and/or Swimming Advisories for Microcystins and Cylindrospermopsis—2016 for a 60-day public comment. These are the draft recommended concentrations of the toxins microcystins and cylindrospermopsis in recreational water protective of human health while swimming or participating in other activities on the water. Recreational exposure to the microcystins and cylindrospermopsis produced by cyanobacteria has the potential to result in liver and kidney toxicity, respectively. The recommended values found in this draft document do not replace or supersede the 2012 Recreational Water Quality Criteria (RWQC) recommendations for E. coli and Enterococcus. Rather, once final, they will supplement the 2012 RWQC to provide further public health protection for additional, potentially hazardous conditions found in ambient recreational waters.

Following closure of this 60-day public comment period, EPA will consider the comments, revise the draft document, as appropriate, and then publish a final document that will provide recommendations for States and authorized Tribes to establish water quality standards under the Clean Water Act (CWA). Alternatively, States and authorized Tribes may use these same values as the basis of swimming advisories for public notification purposes.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before February 17, 2017.

ADDRESSES: Submit your comments, identified by Docket ID No. EPA–HQ–
