

necessary to ensure the safety and function of the structures.

- Removing the existing infrastructure and rebuilding the dam: This alternative would remove all existing dam infrastructure and rebuild the dam to necessary safety standards and flow functionality.

- Removing the dam and draining the reservoir: This alternative would permanently remove existing dam infrastructure to allow for permanent draining of the reservoir.

Some of the anticipated concerns and resources that may be affected for this project include: Recreational opportunities, socioeconomic values, sediment routing, hydrologic flow controls, fisheries, sensitive plants, invasive and noxious weeds, cultural resources, access routes, and engineering design/safety. The BLM has identified the following potential issues to analyze in the EIS:

- How would the alternatives affect the safety risks to visitors and local communities from dam failure?
- How much would the alternatives cost to implement?
- How would the alternatives affect revenues of the local communities?
- How would the alternatives affect Endangered Species Act (ESA)-listed fish passage?
- How would the alternatives affect ESA-listed fish habitat, including water temperature?
- How would the alternatives affect downstream water quantity available for consumptive water rights?
- How would the alternatives affect the historic value of the dam?
- How would the alternatives affect visitor recreation access and opportunities?
- How would the alternatives affect BLM-managed recreation sites?
- How would the alternatives affect existing populations of Bureau sensitive species plants?
- How would the alternatives affect the introduction and spread of invasive plants?

Access to lands to the north of Hult Dam may be impacted during implementation of some potential action alternatives. The EIS will include analysis of changes to access from engineering design of the alternatives and the effect on safety.

The BLM is conducting an evaluation of the dam to determine if the structure would qualify as a National Historic Property.

Hult Dam has a fish ladder that does not function for passing Oregon coastal coho salmon. The non-functional fish ladder at the dam site currently blocks upstream fish passage to several miles of designated Oregon coastal coho critical habitat. Oregon coastal coho salmon are listed as threatened under the ESA.

Two BLM sensitive aquatic plant species are present at the northern end of Hult Reservoir in a marsh: Bog clubmoss (Lycopodiella inundata) and humped bladderwort (Utricularia gibba). The noxious weed parrots feather (Myriophyllum aquaticum) occurs in the reservoir, as does the non-native invasive weed reed canarygrass (Phalaris arundinacea). Herbicide use to manage the spread of the noxious and non-native invasive may be part of the alternatives considered.

At this time, the reservoir upstream of the dam is managed as the Hult Reservoir Recreation Site Special Recreation Management Area, which offers opportunities for camping, day use, swimming, fishing, and scenic driving. There are no developed campsites; however, two vault toilets are available to the public.

In December 2016, the BLM brought in a neutral third-party contractor to conduct stakeholder assessments and assist with facilitation of public involvement for this project. In March 2017, the contractor conducted in-person interviews with sixteen stakeholders, primarily in the town of Horton, Oregon, and in Triangle Lake community. Stakeholders represented property owners near the Hult Reservoir, local business owners, Triangle Lake School staff members, Siuslaw Watershed Council members, and fishing interest groups. The BLM will continue to use this neutral third-party contractor throughout the EIS process to assist with public outreach and engagement.

Federal, State, and local agencies, along with Tribes and other stakeholders that may be interested in or affected by the proposed project that the BLM is evaluating are invited to participate in the scoping process and, if eligible, may request or be requested by the BLM to participate in the development of the EIS as a cooperating agency. The BLM will consult with The Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde; Confederated Tribes of the Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians; and Confederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians during this analysis process.

Instructions for submitting a public comment are provided under the ADDRESSES section above, and are provided on the BLM's ePlanning page for this EIS. information—may be made publicly available at any time. While you can ask us in your comment to withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so.
