CDX. Burden is defined in 5 CFR 1320.12 as hours per registration for those reporting annually. Additionally, for CDX electronic submission of 7.5 chemicals per site with 22% of reports submitted, it is estimated that an average burden of 132 hours per site is incurred. This results in a total of 184,158 hours, which is the current estimate of the total burden.

The annual per-registration burden is estimated at 716,024 hours. The ICR supporting statement provides a detailed analysis of the burden estimate, which includes an estimated burden of $59,959,323 and an estimated cost of $0 for capital investment or maintenance and operational costs.

III. Are there changes in the estimates from the last approval?

There is a decrease of 73,179 hours in the total estimated respondent burden compared with that identified in the ICR currently approved by OMB. This decrease reflects a combination of program changes and adjustments. Program changes involving updated CBI substantiation requirements as a result of the Lautenberg Act are estimated at 4,877 hours. Agency adjustments include changes due to methodology corrections at—184,158 hours, and changes due to increased counts of sites at 106,102 hours. The ICR supporting statement provides a detailed analysis of the change in burden estimate. This change is an adjustment and the result of a program change.

IV. What is the next step in the process for this ICR?

EPA will consider the comments received and amend the ICR as appropriate. The final ICR package will then be submitted to OMB for review and approval pursuant to 5 CFR 1320.12. EPA will issue another Federal Register document pursuant to 5 CFR 1320.5(a)(1)(iv) to announce the submission of the ICR to OMB and the opportunity to submit additional comments to OMB. If you have any questions about this ICR or the approval process, please contact the technical person listed under FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.
