The National Park Service is not responsible for the determinations in this notice.

Consultation

A detailed assessment of the human remains was made by the Riverside Metropolitan Museum professional staff in consultation with representatives of Inupiat Community of the Arctic Slope.

History and Description of the Remains

At an unknown date, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from an unknown location in Alaska and entered the possession of a Captain Hammond. Captain Hammond is known to have sailed between San Francisco, CA, and Alaska in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. During this period, he acquired a collection of Inupiat objects. Upon Captain Hammond's death, the human remains and other Inupiat ethnographic materials were acquired by a collector, who donated them in 1982 to the Riverside Metropolitan Museum. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Historical records suggest Captain Hammond worked for Alaskan salmon fishing companies and his travels along the coast provided him with opportunities to interact with Alaskan coastal Inupiat peoples. This geographic evidence, and the association of these human remains within the Hammond Collection of Inupiat materials, suggests that these human remains are Inupiat. According to oral history, archaeological evidence, and ethnographic records, the Inupiat Community of the Arctic Slope are directly descended from the earlier Inupiat peoples who lived in this region.

Determinations Made by the Riverside Metropolitan Museum

Officials of the Riverside Metropolitan Museum have determined that:

- Pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001(9), the human remains described in this notice represent the physical remains of one individual of Native American ancestry.

- Pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001(2), there is a relationship of shared group identity that can be reasonably traced between the Native American human remains and the Inupiat Community of the Arctic Slope.

After that date, if no additional requestors have come forward, transfer of control of the human remains to the Inupiat Community of the Arctic Slope may proceed.

The Riverside Metropolitan Museum is responsible for notifying the Inupiat Community for the Arctic Slope that this notice has been published.

Dated: October 9, 2018.

Consultation

A detailed assessment of the human remains was made by the Kansas State Historical Society professional staff in consultation with representatives of the Kaw Nation, Oklahoma.

History and Description of the Remains

In 1963, human remains representing, at minimum, three individuals were removed from the Fanning site, 14DP1 (UBS 2015-04), in Doniphan, Kansas. The human remains are part of a larger collection donated to the Wyandotte County Historical Society and Museum by a local collector. In May 2015, the Kansas State Historical Society agreed to take these materials for the purpose of carrying out the requirements of the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA). Staff

The site is affiliated with the Oneota archeological manifestation (A.D. 1000 to 1600), which is believed to be ancestral to the Kaw, the Otoe, or the Iowa. Several archeological sites in Kansas and Nebraska have been identified as Oneota (Ritterbush 2006:151). The Fanning site is tied both to the Oneota tradition and the historic Kansa (Buffalohead 2004:334-335; Marshall 2006:219, 230-231; 2008:87-92; O'Shea and Ludwickson 1992:16-17; Ritterbush 2006:151-152; Ritterbush and Logan 2009; Unrau 1971:19, Wedel 1959: 29, 51).

- Pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001(3)(A), the seven objects described in this notice are reasonably believed to have been placed with or near individual human remains at the time of death or later as part of the death rite or ceremony.
