SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Notice of this meeting is given under the FACA, 5 U.S.C. Appendix (Pub. L. 92-463). The NIAC provides the President, through the Secretary of Homeland Security, with advice on the security and resilience of the Nation's critical infrastructure sectors.¹ The NSTAC advises the President on matters related to National Security and Emergency Preparedness (NS/EP) telecommunications and cybersecurity policy.² The meeting will be the first joint meeting with the NIAC and will allow NIAC and NSTAC members to discuss and coordinate critical infrastructure activities and pertinent Government cybersecurity initiatives and NS/EP priorities with DHS leadership and other senior Government officials. The meeting will also allow NSTAC and NIAC members to engage in a collaborative discussion and provide feedback on each committee's examinations.

Agenda: The NSTAC and NIAC will meet in an open session from 12:30 p.m.–3:15 p.m. on June 13, 2019, and receive remarks from DHS leadership and other senior Government officials regarding the Government's current cybersecurity initiatives and critical infrastructure priorities. The meeting will include a keynote address and a panel discussion on foreign economic industrial policies and the U.S. supply chain. Participants will also discuss advancing resiliency and fostering innovation in the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) ecosystem, which relates to the NSTAC's study examining what technology capabilities the United

¹ The NIAC was established under Section 10 of E.O. 13231, 66 FR 53063 (Oct. 16, 2001) and was most recently amended and continued under E.O. 13811, 82 FR 46363 (Sep. 29, 2017).

² The NSTAC was established by E.O. 12382, 47 FR 40531 (Sept. 15, 1982), amended by E.O. 13286, 68 FR 10619 (Mar. 5, 2003), and most recently continued under E.O. 13811, 82 FR 46363 (Sept. 29, 2017).

States needs to support robust and resilient networks and other NS/EP functions, and how the Government is managing risks associated with those dependencies.

The committees will also meet in a closed session from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. to discuss adversarial threats to critical infrastructure and cybersecurity systems and potential NSTAC and NIAC study topics.

Basis for Closure: In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552b(c)(9)(B), The Government in the Sunshine Act, it has been determined that two agenda items require closure because disclosure of the information that will be discussed would not be in the public interest.

Specifically, the agenda items include an adversarial threat discussion and a discussion of potential NSTAC and NIAC study topics. These discussions will address areas of critical cybersecurity vulnerabilities and critical infrastructure priorities for Government. Government officials will share data with NSTAC and NIAC members on initiatives, assessments, and future security requirements across public and private sector networks. The information will include specific vulnerabilities within cyberspace that affect the United States' ICT infrastructures and proposed mitigation strategies. Disclosure of this information to the public would provide adversaries with an incentive to focus on these vulnerabilities to increase attacks on the Nation's critical infrastructure and communications networks. As disclosure of this portion of the meeting is likely to significantly frustrate implementation of proposed DHS actions, it is required to be closed pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552b(c)(9)(B).

Abstract: The USGS is investigating public values for changes in forest restoration treatments within the upper Rio Grande watershed in New Mexico and Colorado. The Rio Grande watershed supplies water to half of New Mexico's population, including Albuquerque, Santa Fe, and many rural communities, but it also is threatened by the risk of high-severity wildfires. Forest restoration treatments can reduce the risks from high-severity wildfires, including threats to water security, private property, habitat for fish and wildlife, and air quality. USGS economists are partnering with an economic researcher with Northern Arizona University to review private citizens' attitudes, perceptions, and the economic values associated with the different potential benefits of these forest restoration treatments. These values will be estimated via a survey instrument. Previous studies in the study area have established the public benefit of conducting forest restoration treatments overall; the focus of this study is the relevant benefits of different impacts of these treatments. The primary goal of conducting this valuation study is to improve the ability of federal, state, local, and non-
