Energy Conservation Program: Test Procedures for Consumer Water Heaters and Residential-Duty Commercial Water Heaters

AGENCY: Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Request for information; reopening of the public comment period.

SUMMARY: On April 16, 2020, the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) published a request for information (RFI) pertaining to the test procedures for consumer water heaters and residential-duty commercial water heaters. The RFI provided an opportunity for submission of written comments, data, and information to the Department by June 1, 2020. Prior to the end of the comment period for the RFI, DOE received requests from the Air-Conditioning, Heating and Refrigeration Institute (AHRI), as well as from the American Public Gas Association (APGA), seeking additional time to consider the issues raised in the RFI and possibly to conduct further testing, in order to establish the applicability and impact of a different test procedure on water heating equipment. In light of these requests, DOE is announcing its decision to reopen the comment period on the subject RFI for an additional 14 days.

DATES: The comment period for the consumer water heaters and residential-duty commercial water heaters test procedures RFI, published in the Federal Register on April 16, 2020, which closed on June 1, 2020, is hereby reopened and extended. Accordingly, DOE will accept written comments, data, and information in response to the RFI submitted no later than June 24, 2020.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: DOE published a Request for Information (RFI) pertaining to the test procedures for consumer water heaters and residential-duty commercial water heaters in the Federal Register on April 16, 2020. 85 FR 21104. The RFI initiated a data collection process and seeks input from the public to assist DOE in considering whether to amend the current test procedures for consumer water heaters and residential-duty commercial water heaters. Information received in response to the request will help DOE determine whether amending the test procedures for consumer water heaters and residential-duty commercial water heaters would more accurately or fully comply with the requirements for test procedures to not be unduly burdensome to conduct and be reasonably designed to produce test results that reflect energy efficiency, energy use, and estimated operating costs during a representative average use cycle or period of use. In that RFI, DOE requested submission of written comment, data, and information pertaining to the subject test procedures by June 1, 2020.

On April 24, 2020, AHRI, an interested party in the matter, requested a 60-day extension of the public comment period for the RFI that DOE previously published in the Federal Register on April 16, 2020.¹ More specifically, AHRI requested additional time to consider the issues raised in the RFI and possibly to conduct testing, in order to establish the applicability and impact of a different test procedure on water heating equipment.

On May 1, 2020, APGA, also requested a 60-day extension of the public comment period for the RFI that DOE previously published in the Federal Register on April 16, 2020, for similar reasons to those expressed in the AHRI request.²

On May 27, 2020, AHRI reiterated their request for a comment extension for the RFI. However, in this request, AHRI stated that an additional 30 days would be needed to review test data to assess whether certain modifications to the test procedure would result in a change in measured efficiency. AHRI added that waivers that have been issued by DOE must be addressed in any new test procedures, and must be considered by the industry as a whole so as to convey a unified path forward.³

After carefully considering these requests, DOE has determined that a reopening of the comment period for an additional 14 days to allow additional time for interested parties to submit comments is sufficient. Therefore, DOE is reopening the comment period for the consumer water heater and residential-duty commercial water heaters test procedures RFI and will accept comments received on and before June 24, 2020, in order to provide interested parties additional time to prepare and submit comments.

Accordingly, DOE will consider any comments received by this date to be timely submitted.

Energy Conservation Program: Energy Conservation Standards for Commercial Prerinse Spray Valves

AGENCY: Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Request for information and early assessment review.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Department of Energy (“DOE”) is initiating an early assessment review to determine whether any new or amended standards would satisfy the relevant requirements of EPCA for a new or amended energy conservation standard for commercial prerinse spray valves (“CPSVs”). Specifically, through this request for information (“RFI”), DOE seeks data and information that could enable the agency to determine whether DOE should propose a “no new standard” determination because a more stringent standard: Would not result in a significant savings of energy; is not technologically feasible; is not economically justified; or any combination of foregoing. DOE also welcomes written comments from the public on any subject within the scope of this document (including those topics not specifically raised), as well as the submission of data and other relevant information concerning this early assessment review.

DATES: Written comments and information are requested and will be accepted on or before July 10, 2020.
