SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Title: R-value Rule, 16 CFR part 460.

OMB Control Number: 3084-0109.

Type of Review: Extension of a currently approved collection.

Likely Respondents: Insulation manufacturers, installers, home builders, home sellers, insulation sellers.

Estimated Annual Hours Burden: 132,707 hours.

Estimated Annual Cost Burden: $2,732,510 (solely related to labor costs).

Abstract: The R-value Rule establishes uniform standards for the substantiation and disclosure of accurate, material product information about the thermal performance characteristics of home insulation products. The R-value of an insulation signifies the insulation's degree of resistance to the flow of heat. This information tells consumers how well a product is likely to perform as an insulator and allows consumers to determine whether the cost of the insulation is justified.

As required by section 3506(c)(2)(A) of the PRA, 44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A), the FTC is providing this opportunity for public comment before requesting that OMB extend the existing clearance for the information collection requirements contained in the Commission's R-value Rule.

R-value Rule Burden Statement

Estimated annual hours burden: 132,707 hours.

The Rule's requirements include product testing, recordkeeping, and third-party disclosures on labels, fact sheets, advertisements, and other promotional materials. Based on information provided by members of the insulation industry, staff estimates that the Rule affects: (1) 150 Insulation manufacturers and their testing laboratories; (2) 1,615 installers who sell home insulation; (3) 125,000 new home builders/sellers of site-built homes and approximately 5,500 dealers who sell manufactured housing; and (4) 25,000 retail sellers who sell home insulation for installation by consumers.

(1) Manufacturers

Under the Rule's testing requirements, manufacturers must test each insulation product for its R-value. Based on past industry input, staff estimates that the test takes approximately two hours. Approximately 15 of the 150 insulation manufacturers in existence introduce one new product each year. Their total annual testing burden is therefore approximately 30 hours.

Staff further estimates that most manufacturers require an average of approximately 20 hours per year regarding third-party disclosure requirements in advertising and other promotional materials. Only the five or six largest manufacturers require additional time, approximately 80 hours each. Thus, the annual third-party disclosure burden for manufacturers is approximately 3,360 hours [(144 manufacturers × 20 hours) + (6 manufacturers × 80 hours)].

While the Rule imposes recordkeeping requirements, most manufacturers and their testing laboratories keep their testing-related records in the ordinary course of business. Staff estimates that no more than one additional hour per year per manufacturer is necessary to comply with this requirement, for an annual recordkeeping burden of approximately 150 hours (150 manufacturers × 1 hour).

(2) Installers

Installers are required to show the manufacturers' insulation fact sheet to retail consumers before purchase. They must also disclose information in contracts or receipts concerning the R-value and the amount of insulation to install. Staff estimates that two minutes per sales transaction is sufficient to comply with these requirements. Approximately 2,000,000 retrofit insulations (an industry source's estimate) are installed by approximately 1,615 installers per year, and, thus, the related annual burden total is approximately 66,667 hours (2,000,000 sales transactions × 2 minutes). Staff anticipates that one hour per year per installer is sufficient to cover required disclosures in advertisements and other promotional materials. Thus, the burden for this requirement is approximately 1,615 hours per year. In addition, installers must keep records that indicate the substantiation relied upon for savings claims. The additional time to comply with this requirement is minimal—approximately 5 minutes per year per installer—for a total of approximately 135 hours.

(3) New Home Sellers

New home sellers must make contract disclosures concerning the type, thickness, and R-value of the insulation they install in each part of a new home. Staff estimates that no more than 30 seconds per sales transaction is required to comply with this requirement, for a total annual burden of approximately 10,750 hours (an estimated 1,290,000 new home sales per year¹ × 30 seconds). New home sellers who make energy savings claims must also keep records regarding the substantiation relied upon for those claims. Staff believes that the 30 seconds covering disclosures would also encompass this recordkeeping element.

(4) Retail Sellers

The Rule requires that the approximately 25,000 retailers who sell home insulation make fact sheets available to consumers before purchase. This can be accomplished by, for example, placing copies in a display rack or keeping copies in a binder on a service desk with an appropriate notice. Replenishing or replacing fact sheets should require no more than approximately one hour per year per retailer, for a total of 25,000 annual hours, industry-wide.

The Rule also requires specific disclosures in advertisements or other promotional materials to ensure that the claims are fair and not deceptive. This burden is very minimal because retailers typically use advertising copy provided by the insulation manufacturer, and even when retailers prepare their own advertising copy, the Rule provides some of the language to be used. Accordingly, approximately one hour per year per retailer should suffice to meet this requirement, for a total annual burden of approximately 25,000 hours.

Retailers who make energy savings claims in advertisements or other promotional materials must keep records that indicate the substantiation they are relying upon. Because few retailers make these types of promotional claims and because the Rule permits retailers to rely on the insulation manufacturer's substantiation data for any claims that are made, the additional recordkeeping burden is de-minimis. The time calculated for disclosures, above, would be more than adequate to cover any burden imposed by this recordkeeping requirement.

To summarize, staff estimates that the Rule imposes a total of 132,707 burden hours, as follows: 150 recordkeeping and 3,390 testing and disclosure hours for manufacturers; 135 recordkeeping and 68,282 disclosure hours for installers; 10,750 disclosure hours for new home sellers; and 50,000 disclosure hours for retailers. The estimated total burden is approximately 132,707 burden hours.

Estimated annual cost burden: $2,732,510 (solely related to labor costs).

The total annual labor cost for the Rule's information collection requirements is approximately $2,732,510, derived as follows: approximately $896 for testing, based on 30 hours for manufacturers (30 hours × $29.87 per hour for skilled technical personnel); $4,742 for manufacturers' and installers' compliance with the Rule's recordkeeping requirements, based on 285 hours (285 hours × $16.64 per hour for clerical personnel); $55,910 for manufacturers' compliance with third-party disclosure requirements, based on 3,360 hours (3,360 hours × $16.64 per hour for clerical personnel); and $2,670,962 for disclosure compliance by installers, new home sellers, and retailers (129,032 hours × $20.70 per hour for sales persons).²

There are no significant current capital or other non-labor costs associated with this Rule. Because the Rule has been in effect since 1980, members of the industry are familiar with its requirements and already have in place the equipment for conducting tests and storing records. New products are introduced infrequently. Because the required disclosures are placed on packaging or on the product itself, the Rule's additional disclosure requirements do not cause industry members to incur any significant additional non-labor associated costs.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background on the Federal Select Agent Program and eFSAP Portal IT System

HHS/CDC and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (USDA/APHIS) jointly manage the Federal Select Agent Program (FSAP). FSAP oversees the possession, use, and transfer of biological select agents and toxins (BSAT), as outlined in the select agent regulations (42 CFR part 73, 9 CFR part 121, and 7 CFR part 331). BSAT have the potential to pose a severe threat to public, animal or plant health or to animal or plant products.

BSAT are divided into four categories based on whether an agent causes disease in humans, animals, plants, or a combination of humans and animals. HHS/CDC regulates the possession, use, and transfer of BSAT that have the potential to pose a severe threat to public health and safety. USDA/APHIS regulates the possession, use, and transfer of BSAT that pose a severe threat to animal or plant health or products. HHS/CDC and USDA/APHIS regulate overlapping BSAT that have the potential to pose a severe threat to both public health and safety and to animal health or products.

The information that FSAP collects in order to track possession, use, and transfer of BSAT includes: Registration records about a registered entity or individual, identifying BSAT at each of the registrant’s locations or facilities and the individuals approved for access to BSAT at each location or facility; laboratory biosafety and security information for BSAT; information about transfers of BSAT; identification and final disposition of any BSAT contained in a specimen presented for diagnosis, verification, or proficiency testing; observations from the inspections of each registered individual or entity; and reports of any theft, loss, or release of BSAT.

The IT system used by FSAP to track possession, use, and transfer of BSAT has been upgraded to allow the regulated community to report required information or make requests to FSAP electronically, via a single web portal known as the eFSAP portal. The eFSAP portal is a single web-based information management system shared by HHS/CDC and USDA/APHIS.

As upgraded, the IT system will continue to utilize a secure database environment and to contain the same information that was included in SATERIS. Allowing electronic submissions from the regulated community will enable the regulated community to interact with FSAP more
