SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
Title: FERC 725F, Mandatory Reliability Standard for Nuclear Plant Interface Coordination.
OMB Control No.: 1902–0249.
Type of Request: Three-year extension of the FERC–725F information collection requirements with no changes to the current reporting requirements.

enacted into law.\footnote{EPAct 2005 added a new section 215 to the FPA, which required a Commission-certified Electric Reliability Organization (ERO) to develop mandatory and enforceable Reliability Standards, which are subject to Commission review and approval. Once approved, the Reliability Standards may be enforced by the ERO subject to Commission oversight, or the Commission can independently enforce Reliability Standards.\footnote{On February 3, 2006, the Commission issued Order No. 672, implementing section 215 of the FPA.\footnote{Pursuant to Order No. 672, the Commission certified one organization, North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC), as the ERO. The Reliability Standards developed by the ERO and approved by the Commission apply to users, owners and operators of the Bulk-Power System as set forth in each Reliability Standard. On November 19, 2007, NERC filed its petition for Commission approval of the Nuclear Plant Interface Coordination Reliability Standard, designated NUC–001–1. In Order No. 716, issued October 16, 2008, the Commission approved the standard while also directing certain revisions.\footnote{Revised Reliability Standard, NUC–001–2, was filed with the Commission by NERC in August 2009 and subsequently approved by the Commission January 21, 2010.\footnote{On November 4, 2014, in Docket No. RD14–13, the Commission approved revised Reliability Standard NUC–001–3.\footnote{On February 21, 2020 NERC filed a petition in Docket No. RD20–4 to revise Reliability Standard NUC–001–3 to NUC–001–4.}The purpose of Reliability Standard NUC–001–4 is to require “coordination between nuclear plant generator operators and transmission entities for the purpose of ensuring nuclear plant safe operation and shutdown.” 7 The Nuclear Reliability Standard applies to nuclear plant generator operators (generally nuclear power plant owners and operators, including licensees) and “transmission entities,” defined in the Reliability Standard as including a nuclear plant’s suppliers of off-site power and related transmission and distribution services. To account for the variations in nuclear plant design and grid interconnection characteristics, the Reliability Standard defines transmission entities as “all entities that are responsible for providing services related to Nuclear Plant Interface Requirements (NPIRs),” and lists eleven types of functional entities (hereafter described as “transmission entities”) that could provide services related to NPIRs.\footnote{FERC–725F information collection requirements include establishing and maintaining interface agreements, including record retention requirements. These agreements are not filed with FERC, but with the appropriate entities as established by the Reliability Standard.}}}}

1. Whether the collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Commission, including whether the information will have practical utility;

2. The accuracy of the agency’s estimate of the burden and cost of the collection of information, including the validity of

(The benefits figure is based on BLS data as of May 2020 [http://www.bls.gov/news.release/ecel.tpt.htm]) The estimated hourly cost (for wages plus benefits) for reporting requirements is $85.41/hour, based on the average for an electrical engineer (occupation code 17–2071, $70,19/hour), legal (occupation code 23–0000, $142.65/hour), and office and administrative staff (occupation code 43–0000, $43.38/hour). The estimated hourly cost (wages plus benefits) for record keeping is $34.79/hour for a file clerk (occupation code 43–4071).}

\footnote{11 This figure of 120 transmission entities is based on the assumption that each agreement will be between 1 nuclear plant and 2 transmission entities (57 × 2 = 114). However, there is some double counting in this figure because some transmission entities may be party to multiple agreements with multiple nuclear plants. The double counting does not affect the burden estimate, and the correct number of unique respondents will be reported to OMB.}

\footnote{12 The 171 respondents affected by the reporting requirements are also affected by the recordkeeping requirements.}

\footnote{13 The reporting requirements have not changed. The decrease in the number of respondents is due to: (a) Normal fluctuations in industry (e.g., companies merging and splitting, and coming into and going out of business), and (b) no new agreements being issued due to the lack of new nuclear plants being developed.}
