History and Description of the Remains

In the 1950s, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from the Buick Camp Site in Elbert County, CO, by Dr. Arnold M. Withers of the University of Denver. In January of 2020, the human remains were discovered in faunal collections at the University of Denver Museum of Anthropology. The human remains are a shovel shaped incisor with a groove between the enamel and the tooth root. No known individual was identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Museum records indicate that the Buick Camp Site represents a High Plains Upper Republican occupation. Radiocarbon analysis dates the Buick Camp Site to 664–770 A.D., which corresponds to the Plains Woodland Period. Archeologists identify the Upper Republican culture as ancestral Pawnee. Elbert County is within the cultural landscape of the Pawnee Nation. Based on archeological and historical evidence, the Buick Camp Site was situated in an area where bison were harvested at least bi-annually.
