DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Bureau of Labor Statistics

Technical Advisory Committee; Notice of Meeting and Agenda

The Bureau of Labor Statistics will meet on Friday, November 19, 2021. This meeting will be held virtually from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. EST.

The Committee presents advice and makes recommendations to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) on technical aspects of data collection and the formulation of economic measures and makes recommendations on areas of research. The BLS presents issues and then draws on the expertise of Committee members representing specialized fields within the academic disciplines of economics, statistics and data science, and survey design. The Federal Advisory Committee Act requires that agencies publish notice of an advisory committee meeting in the Federal Register.

The schedule and agenda for the meeting are as follows:

10:00 a.m. Commissioner’s Welcome and Review of Agency Developments
10:30 a.m. Insurance Claims Data in Medical Care Price Indexes
1:00 p.m. Generating New Data on Emerging Topics Using the New QCEW Business Supplement (QBS)
2:30 p.m. Adjusting Industry Measures of Hours Worked for Labor Composition
4:00 p.m. Approximate Conclusion

The meeting is open to the public.

Any questions concerning the meeting should be directed to Sarah Dale, Bureau of Labor Statistics Technical Advisory Committee, at BLSTAC@bls.gov. Individuals planning to attend the meeting should register at https://blstac.eventbrite.com. Individuals who require special accommodations should contact Ms. Dale at least two days prior to the meeting date.

Signed at Washington, DC, this 27th day of October 2021.

Eric Molina,

General and technical information: Contact Mr. Kevin Robinson, Director, Office of Technical Programs and Coordination Activities, Directorate of Technical Support and Emergency Management, Occupational Safety and Health Administration; telephone: (202) 693–2110 or email: robinson.kevin@dol.gov. OSHA’s web page includes information about the NRRL Program (see http://www.osha.gov/dts/otpca/nrnl/index.html).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The NRRL Program recognizes organizations that provide product-safety testing and certification services to manufacturers. These organizations perform testing and certification for purposes of the program, to U.S. consensus-based-product-safety test standards. The products covered by the NRRL Program consist of those items for which OSHA safety standards require “certification” by a NRRL. The requirements affect electrical products and 38 other types of products. OSHA does not develop or issue these test standards, but generally relies on standards developed by organizations that develop product-safety test standards. The products covered by the program, to U.S. consensus-based-product-safety test standards. The products covered by the program, to U.S. consensus-based-product-safety test standards.

Periodically, OSHA will add new test standards to the NRRL list of appropriate test standards following an evaluation of the test standard document. To qualify as an appropriate test standard, the agency evaluates the document to (1) verify it represents a product category for which OSHA requires certification by a NRRL, (2) verify the document represents an end product and not a component, and (3) verify the document defines safety test specifications (not installation or operational performance specifications). OSHA becomes aware of new test standards through various avenues. For example, OSHA may become aware of new test standards by: (1) Monitoring notifications issued by certain SDOs; (2) reviewing applications by NRRLs or applicants seeking recognition to include a new test standard in their scope of recognition; or (3) obtaining notification from manufacturers, manufacturing organizations, government agencies, or other parties that a new test standard may be
