

2. Alternative 2: The Coast Guard would explore the acquisition of fewer OPCs after the completion of OPC-1 through OPC-4 (which are still under contract). Five, ten, or fifteen OPCs would be considered via a re-competition of the original OPC contract as replacements for a corresponding number of in-service MECs. The Coast Guard would then replace the remaining MECs on a one-for-one basis, using whatever replacement hulls the Coast Guard could obtain when deterioration or obsolescence requires decommissioning. The life cycle training and logistical costs of maintaining several unique hulls would exceed the corresponding costs of maintaining a class of 25 cutters that would be built specifically to conduct missions in proposed action areas. Costs and challenges are similar to what is described under Alternative 3.

3. Alternative 3: The Coast Guard would explore various forms of cutter purchase or lease, or inherit vessels from the Navy, as the need arises. This would mean that as a MEC reaches or surpasses the end of its economic and operational service life, that cutter would not necessarily be replaced with the same type of asset or by an asset with similar capabilities.

The challenges involved with one-for-one MEC replacements are best demonstrated by the 1999 acquisition of the U.S. Navy's USS EDENTON, a salvage and rescue ship. The Coast Guard recommissioned the ship as the USCGC ALEX HALEY. The ship was designed in the early 1970s and, except for replacing her aged diesel engines, no significant environmental improvements were made. This is typical of a one-off ship acquisition because there is little justification for the extensive or expensive non-recurring design engineering costs for specifications that would make the vessel capable of conducting missions assigned to MECs. Maintenance records maintained by the Surface Forces Logistics Center confirm the maintenance costs per operating hour for USCGC ALEX HALEY ($2,345) are 62 percent higher than the equivalent costs for maintaining the average 270 ft (82 m) cutter ($1,445), as is typical for a one-of-a-kind ship. One-for-one MEC replacement would cost far more per replacement hull because it eliminates any workforce savings associated with a ship with capabilities designed specifically to conduct Coast Guard missions in offshore areas. The purchase, lease, or inherit alternative includes the lack of an existing domestic commercial vessel capable of meeting available options to Purchase and Build-to-Lease. One of the major challenges with this approach is that the Coast Guard would not have an integrated system of systems, thus assets would not be able to communicate in real time, they would operate at differing levels of efficiency (resulting in decreased efficiency throughout the system), and maintenance costs would be higher.

The Coast Guard also carried forward the No Action Alternative for detailed analysis in the Final PEIS/POEIS. While the No Action Alternative would not satisfy the purpose and need for the Proposed Action, this alternative was retained to provide a comparative against which to analyze the effects of the Action Alternatives as required under CEQ's NEPA regulation.

Resource areas analyzed in the Final PEIS include: air quality, ambient sound, biological resources and critical habitat, and socioeconomic resources.

Stressors analyzed in the Final PEIS include: acoustic stressors (fathometer and Doppler speed log noise, vessel noise, aircraft noise, and gunnery noise) and physical stressors (vessel movement, aircraft movement, and military expended materials).

Based on the analysis presented in the Final PEIS/POEIS, potentially adverse impacts could occur to biological resources (i.e., from disturbance); however, practical mitigation measures presented in the Final PEIS/POEIS are expected to reduce any of these potential adverse effects. As a result, impacts to all resource areas would be less-than-significant (i.e., negligible, minor, or moderate) adverse or beneficial, which may result in the Coast Guard making a finding of no significant impact in the ROD. However, these findings are not final until the Coast Guard executes a ROD.

A Notice of Availability and request for comments was published in the Federal Register Notice (86 FR 52162; September 20, 2021) to notify the public of the 45 day public review period of the Draft PEIS/POEIS. The Coast Guard received comments from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and two comments from the public. The Coast Guard considered and addressed in the Final PEIS/POEIS comments received on the Draft PEIS during the comment period. Public comments did not result in the addition of substantive revisions to the Draft PEIS. Responses to comments are in Appendix I of the Final PEIS/POEIS. An electronic copy of the Final PEIS/POEIS can be obtained using the Federal eRulemaking Portal at <https://www.regulations.gov> identified by docket number USCG-2021-0738, or by downloading from the project website at <https://www.dcms.uscg.mil/Our-Organization/Assistant-Commandant-for-Engineering-Logistics-CG-4-/Program-Offices/Environmental-Management/Environmental-Planning-and-Historic-Preservation/>.

After publication of this NOA of the Final PEIS/POEIS, the Coast Guard will prepare and publish its ROD announcing which Alternative is environmentally preferred and which Alternative it selects for implementation (be it an Action Alternative or the No Action Alternative). Publication of the Final ROD will occur no sooner than 30 days after the publication of the Final PEIS/POEIS. This notice is issued under authority of NEPA, specifically in compliance with 42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C) and CEQ implementing regulations in 40 CFR parts 1500 through 1508 and Executive Order 12114 titled "Environmental Effects Abroad of Major Federal Actions."

Dated: June 8, 2022.
