

Pipelines would be bi-directional for the purposes of maintenance, pigging, changing crude oil grades, or evacuating the pipeline with water.

The SPOT deepwater port onshore storage and supply components would consist of the following:

- New equipment and piping at the existing Enterprise Crude Houston (ECHO) Terminal to provide interconnectivity with the crude oil supply network for the SPOT Project. This would include the installation of four booster pumps, one measurement skid, and four crude oil pumps.
- An interconnection between the existing Rancho II pipeline and the proposed ECHO to Oyster Creek pipeline consisting of a physical connection as well as ultrasonic measurement capability for pipeline volumetric balancing purposes.
- The proposed Oyster Creek Terminal located in Brazoria County, Texas, on approximately 140 acres of land consisting of seven aboveground storage tanks, each with a total storage capacity of 685,000 barrels (600,000 barrels working storage capacity), for a total onshore storage capacity of approximately 4.8 million barrels (4.2 million barrels working storage) of crude oil. The Oyster Creek Terminal also would include: Six (6) electric-driven mainline crude oil pumps; four electric-driven booster crude oil pumps (two per pipeline), working in parallel to move crude oil from the storage tanks through the measurement skids; two crude oil pipeline pig launchers/receivers; one crude oil pipeline pig receiver; two measurement skids for measuring incoming crude oil—one skid located at the incoming pipeline from the existing ECHO Terminal, and one skid installed and reserved for a future pipeline connection; two measurement skids for measuring departing crude oil; three vapor combustion units—two permanent and one portable; and ancillary facilities to include electrical substation, office, and warehouse buildings.
- Three onshore crude oil pipelines would be constructed onshore to support the SPOT deepwater port. These would include: one 50.1 statute mile long 36-inch crude oil pipeline from the existing ECHO Terminal to the Oyster Creek Terminal. This pipeline would be located in Harris County and Brazoria County, Texas; two 12.2 statute mile long, co-located 36-inch crude oil export pipelines from the Oyster Creek Terminal to the shore crossing where these would join the above-described subsea pipelines supplying the SPOT deepwater port. These pipelines would be located in Brazoria County, Texas.
