SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a, FDIC is establishing a new system of records, FDIC-039, E-Rulemaking System of Records. FDIC collects comments on rulemakings and other regulatory actions, which it publishes on its website to provide transparency in the informal rulemaking process under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), 5 U.S.C. 553, and in the regulatory processes established by the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 U.S.C. 1811. FDIC also may solicit comments or other input from the public that may not be associated with statutory or regulatory notice and comment requirements.

The E-Rulemaking system collects and stores comments and input received by the Corporation. Specifically, the system includes an option on https:// www.fdic.gov/resources/regulations/federal-register-publications/ that allows individuals to electronically submit their comments or input to FDIC.
The system collects the email address of the commenter, along with any additional information that the commenter elects to include in their submission, such as their name, organization, and contact information.
Once submitted, the system stores this information in the E-Rulemaking database. Any comments received by fax, postal mail, or email are uploaded by authorized FDIC personnel into this database, collecting all comments into one central repository. The commenter's email address, name, organization, work contact information, and comment are published to https://www.fdic.gov/resources/regulations/federal-registerpublications/. The commenter's personal contact information, or other additional personal information voluntarily submitted, is generally not published online. The FDIC may review, redact, or refrain from posting all or any portion of any comment that it may deem to be inappropriate for publication, such as irrelevant or obscene material. During a proposed rulemaking or other statutory or regulatory notice and comment process, FDIC personnel may manually remove a comment from publication if the commenter withdraws the comment before the comment period has closed. However, comments that are removed from publication will be retained by the FDIC for consideration as required by the APA, or as part of the FDIC's documentation of a requested comment withdrawal.

II. The Privacy Act

Under the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a, a "system of records" is defined as any group of records under the control of a Federal government agency from which information about individuals is retrieved by name or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. The Privacy Act establishes the means by which government agencies must collect, maintain, and use information about an individual in a government system of records.

Each government agency is required to publish a notice in the Federal Register in which the agency identifies and describes each system of records it maintains, the reasons why the agency uses the information therein, the routine uses for which the agency will disclose such information outside the agency, and how individuals may exercise their rights under the Privacy Act.

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(r), FDIC has provided a report of this system of records to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and to Congress.
