

populations. . . The lessons learned from implementing Creative Forces will inform other strategies to advance individual health and well-being through the arts. The networking, technical assistance, and the evaluation and learning that occur across the Creative Forces program are typical of the field-building activities necessary to realize this strategic objective for broader population groups. At the federal level, the NEA models this knowledge transfer by leading the Interagency Task Force on the Arts and Human Development, which meets quarterly to examine research projects and evidence-based practice at the intersection of the arts, health, and human development.”

Having announced the CFCE program in 2020, Creative Forces began awarding Community Engagement Grants in 2022 to support non-clinical arts engagement programming for military-connected populations through matching grants of $10,000 to $50,000 for emerging (“Emerging”) and established (“Advanced”) community-based arts engagement projects to serve military-connected populations. The grant program supports a range of program models (e.g., ongoing class, drop-in studio, single event) designed to meet local needs. It is the largest coordinated effort in the U.S. to provide community arts engagement programming for military and veteran populations exposed to trauma, and for their families and caregivers. The Creative Forces Community Engagement Grant Program is conducted in partnership with Mid-America Arts Alliance (M-AAA).

This is a new Information Collection Request for data collection across two grantee cohorts from July 2025 to July 2027. The evaluation uses a mixed-methods approach, incorporating quantitative and qualitative data from primary and secondary sources. The evaluation will incorporate data from all grantees.
