Abstract of Information Available

Human remains representing, at least, four individuals have been identified. The three associated funerary objects are two Steatite fragments and one lot of shell. In the late 1960's Mr. William Wallace took his CSULB archaeology field class to the construction site of Lake Los Angeles to perform salvage archaeology. The site is identified as LAN-192, in Los Angeles County, California. By April 3, 2023, 4 individuals associated with the site were identified in California State University, Long Beach's collections. Two had catalog numbers matching in-house inventory and the other two matched by taphonomy. Internal catalogs record the three associated funerary objects. This collection is referred to in previous reports as the "Palmdale" collection.

CSULB is unaware of the presence of any potentially hazardous substances used to treat any of the human remains or associated funerary objects.
