

- What additional formal and informal educational partnerships should NOAA pursue?
- How can the application of new technologies enhance sanctuary education programs?
- How can development of partnerships and external funding sources complement and supplement NOAA's programs to advance progress toward the sanctuary's goals and objectives?

Responding to Environmental Pressures and Long-Term Trends

NOAA is seeking input on the effectiveness of the sanctuary's management responses to pressures.

- How can the new management plan effectively address issues for both shallow coral and deep mesophotic habitats, as identified in the 2009–2021 Condition Report (<https://sanctuaries.noaa.gov/media/docs/2024-fgbnms-condition-report.pdf>) and the 2023 Vulnerability Assessment (<https://sanctuaries.noaa.gov/media/docs/20231201-fgnms-cva-final-report.pdf>)?

- What emergency response and restoration plans are necessary to address potential increases in occurrences of acute environmental stressors, such as coral bleaching events?

- How can NOAA better address invasive species?

- What collaboration and coordination among government agencies and jurisdictions is necessary or helpful to advance effective stewardship of sanctuary resources?

Research and Monitoring

NOAA is seeking input on critical research needs for effective management and new research partnerships.

- What research and monitoring activities are necessary to address topics identified in the 2024 Science Needs assessment (<https://sanctuaries.noaa.gov/science/assessment/flower-garden-banks/>) across the multiple habitats at all 17 banks of the sanctuary?

- What new partnerships could potentially address research gaps in a resource-constrained environment, including sharing of federal and non-federal data, platforms, and equipment?

- What research and monitoring activities are necessary to adequately monitor and understand mesophotic habitats?

- What new or emerging technologies could cost-effectively enhance support for research and monitoring efforts?

Resource Use

NOAA is seeking input on how to effectively monitor resource use and visitation, improve access, and ensure that uses are compatible with ecosystem health. Consistent with the policies and principles of Executive Order 14313 (July 3, 2025) NOAA aims to prioritize responsible conservation, restore our lands and waters, and protect our Nation's outdoor heritage for the enjoyment of the American people.

- What actions are or could be effective to ensure visitor safety, facilitate visitor access, and support compatible use of sanctuary resources?

- How can NOAA improve monitoring and understanding of resource use, regulation compliance, and regulation enforcement in the remotely located sanctuary?

- What strategic partnerships should NOAA pursue to maintain and enhance infrastructure for access, such as mooring buoys, in a resource-constrained program environment?

IV. Boundaries and Regulations

At this time NOAA also does not expect to undertake any major rulemaking actions as part of this management plan review process.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Title; Associated Form; and OMB Number: Application for Army Radiation Permit; OMB Control Number 0702-0109.

Needs and Uses: The Department of the Army must collect information to process applications for Army Radiation Permits (ARPs). This collection is necessary to ensure the safe use, storage, or possession of ionizing radiation sources by non-Army entities on an Army installation, as required by 32 CFR 655.10. The permit system is essential for protecting military personnel, civilian employees, and the public from potential radiation exposure.

The information is used by the garrison commander to evaluate an applicant's request for an ARP. The application requires the entity to describe the purpose of the radiation source, provide qualifications of operating personnel, submit safety and storage procedures, and show evidence of a valid use authorization. This allows the commander to ensure the applicant can handle the radioactive materials safely and in accordance with all regulations.

The respondents are non-Army entities, including civilian contractors, seeking to bring ionizing radiation sources onto an Army installation for a DoD-related activity. Without this information collection, the Army would be unable to maintain cognizance over radioactive sources on its installations, hindering the ability to prepare emergency responders and ensure the overall safety and security of the installation.

Affected Public: Business or other for-profit.

Annual Burden Hours: 470.

Number of Respondents: 235.

Responses per Respondent: 1.

Annual Responses: 235.

Average Burden per Response: 2 hours.

Frequency: On occasion.

Dated: April 1, 2026.
