the effectuation process, any applicable reporting requirements, an estimated timeframe for its completion, and how to find information about the status of the award.

10. Agencies should post a plain-language explanation of the effectuation process in a prominent location on their websites. The explanation should include contact information for effectuating components and any other offices, including ombuds, that can answer questions or help claimants resolve effectuation-related issues.

Managing Performance

11. Agencies should develop, adopt, and make publicly available comprehensive performance goals and metrics for effectuation including:

a. Average time from the date of the decision awarding benefits to the release of the initial payment;

b. Accuracy rates of initial payments; and

c. Average time for resolving identified payment errors during effectuation.
