Abstract of Information Available

The five associated funerary objects are pottery sherds. In 1906, five ceramic sherds (1934.116–1934.120) were removed from Jefferson Co., NY by Mark Raymond Harrington and Iwin Hayden during Harvard Peabody Museum excavations. These objects were recovered from the Heath Farm site near Rodman and were exchanged with the Denver Art Museum in 1934. Museum records indicate these objects were recovered along with human remains, and the Peabody Museum reported these individuals and funerary objects, including sherds, in a Notice of Inventory Completion published in the Federal Register on October 5, 2001 (66 FR 51060). After consultations, the Peabody Museum found that the objects from the Heath Farm Site were culturally affiliated with the Oneida Indian Nation, Oneida Nation, and Onondaga Nation. Per a Notice of Intended Repatriation published in the Federal Register by the Peabody Museum on June 17, 2024 (89 FR 51360), objects in the Peabody collection were repatriated to the Onondaga Nation in 2024. There are no known hazardous substances used to treat the objects.

Cultural Affiliation

Based on the information available and the results of consultation, cultural affiliation is clearly identified by the information available about the associated funerary objects described in this notice.
