THE PUBLIC PRINTING, BINDING, ETC.,

FOR THE

FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1886.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1887.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF
THE PUBLIC PRINTER.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., December 31, 1886.

SIR: I have the honor herewith to transmit to Congress the annual report of this office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886.

I am, sir, with respect, your obedient servant,

TH. E. BENEDICT,
Public Printer.

Hon. JOHN SHERMAN,
President of the Senate pro tempore.

In obedience to statute, I have the honor to present the annual report of the affairs of this office, exhibiting the condition, amount, and cost of the public printing, binding, lithographing, and engraving; the amount and cost of all papers purchased for the same, and a statement of the contracts under which they were purchased; all payments made during said fiscal year, including those on account of material and labor for the Congressional Record; the amount of work ordered and done for each Department, including the Patent Office, with a proper classification thereof; the number of persons employed, the time each has been employed, and the amount each has received; together with such other statistical information as is required by law to be made.

I respectfully call attention to the fact that no portion of such statistical information covers any part of the period during which I have performed the duties of Public Printer.

I assumed the office of Public Printer on September 13, last, by appointment of the President, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of my predecessor. I take pleasure in saying that I found the office well equipped in many respects, and its vast machinery generally in intelligent hands.

After such careful consideration as I have been able to give the subject, however, I am satisfied that many improvements are necessary in the office, and that a much greater economy is possible in conducting it. To this end, it is proper that I should call attention to certain serious mechanical embarrassments.

One of the greatest of these deficiencies is a lack of convenient storage-room contiguous to the main office. This lack causes a large expense in the renting of two store-houses, and renders necessary the employment of numerous draft conveyances and teams, with an extra force of employés, to haul and rehaul printed matter awaiting the bindery, which cannot be stored in the main office, owing to lack of room and danger to the building. This evil is constantly growing, and it is hoped Congress will remedy it without delay.

There is also an urgent necessity for providing a new set of boilers for furnishing heat and power. The present boilers were placed in the office when it was scarcely one-third of its present size; they have been in constant use for fourteen years, and they are now entirely deficient in capacity; and their continuous use, to the degree rendered necessary, is believed to be dangerous both to life and property. During the recent cold weather it was impossible to furnish sufficient heat in certain working divisions (a serious and costly defect), and the office is now dangerously liable to be interrupted in its work by an accident to the boilers.

The demands for convenient storage room, and for better facilities for power and heating, as well as for certain new type and material, are respectfully represented to be imperative, and I most earnestly recommend special appropriations for such purposes.

I would respectfully urge that it is better that such improvements should be made by special appropriation, rather than that they should be eked out of the reduced general appropriation for printing and binding. It is my desire that the general appropriation shall be applied exclusively to the purposes authorized by Congress, to the end not only that there may be more direct accountability as to the objects for which it is expended, but that a comprehensive effort may be made to bring up to date the large mass of delayed work. It is not for the interest of the public printing and binding that the general appropriation should be depleted by any extraordinary expenditures during the coming fiscal year.

I have no desire to make any recommendation to Congress involving the expenditure of a dollar except as there appears to be an absolute necessity for it. The annual reports of the Public Printer for the past few years show a steady increase in the demands made upon this office, and, at the same time, it is evident that the bounty of Congress toward the Government printing has reached a limit, and that its appropriations are now such only as are consistent with a marked degree of care and economy in the matter of expenditures. To secure this result, and at the same time execute the necessary work as efficiently as possible, the Public Printer must firmly check any tendency to extravagance in the public printing and binding, must meet with resolute denial the constant temptations to exceed his powers, and must seek to make use of the best modern facilities and methods in conducting the business of the office.

It needs no argument to support the statement that the value to the country of the work of the public printing ordered by Congress depends in a large degree upon the promptness of its issue. I have no hesitation in saying that reports and documents of marked public interest when ordered have frequently lost all timeliness, or have become practically obsolete by the advance of knowledge, when finally issued. This system of delaying important work has grown into a recognized abuse, and, under existing circumstances, it can only be removed by the disuse of incomplete methods and by the adoption of all necessary aids to efficiency and economy.

The fifteen days' leave of absence with pay, granted by Congress to the employés of this office at the last session, has proved a just and beneficent measure, and I most respectfully urge the adoption of a similar appropriation this year.

It is my desire to meet a long-recognized necessity of the office in the matter of the fortnightly payment of the employés. Under present regulations payments are only made monthly, to the great inconvenience of many who depend upon a small wage for the support of their families. There is no doubt that the adoption of semi-monthly payments, as now practiced in all other Departments and Offices of the Government, would be a great convenience, as well as benefit, to many employés of this office, enabling them to escape from habits of credit-buying which are highly detrimental to proper thrift and economy. The employés of the Government Printing Office are many of them the hardest-worked and poorest-paid servants of the Government, and they are fully entitled to the consideration of Congress. The difficulty in the way of semi-monthly payments seems to be the insufficiency of the Public Printer's bond, owing to which he is unable, in most cases, to draw from the Treasury at one time an amount sufficient to pay the force even monthly in two payments. At present three separate payments, on different dates, are required each month for a single complete payment of the force. With a view of providing for semi-monthly payments, it is recommended that the Public Printer's bond be increased from $100,000 to $125,000.

The $15,000 heretofore appropriated for a new storage building remains unexpended, as it was deemed insufficient by the Secretary of the Interior, and he declined to approve the plans of a building submitted.

No plan has yet been adopted for the expenditure of the $8,000 appropriated for additional fire protection.

In conclusion, I desire to express my appreciation of the faithful and intelligent assistance rendered in the various divisions of the office by the responsible foremen in charge and by the many skilled workmen, who have cordially aided my efforts, during my brief incumbency, to promptly and efficiently perform the work of the Government printing and binding, and to prevent threatened embarrassment during the busiest months of the year.

TH. E. BENEDICT,
Public Printer.
