WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1885.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF
THE PUBLIC PRINTER.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER,
Washington, December 4, 1884.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit to Congress, through you, the annual report of this office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1884.

I am, sir, with respect, your obedient servant,

S. P. ROUNDS,
Public Printer.

Hon. GEO. F. EDMUNDS,

In obedience to the requirements of the statute, I have the honor to report the condition, the amount and cost of the public printing, binding, lithographing, and engraving; the amount and cost of all papers purchased for the same; a statement of the contracts entered into for the purchase of paper; all payments made during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1884, including those for material and labor for the Congressional Record; the amount of work ordered and done, with a general classification thereof, for each Department; the number of persons employed in the Government Printing Office, and the time each has been employed, and the amount each has received.

The law also provides that the Public Printer shall report "such further information touching all matters connected with the Printing Office as may be in his possession."

In my report last year, I called attention at length to several important matters in connection with the economical management of the Government Printing Office, and with the experience of another year I should enlarge upon them, but at the last session of Congress the Joint Committee on Public Printing was authorized by legislation—

"To examine into the numbers printed of the various documents, reports, bills, and other papers published by order of Congress, or of either House thereof, and of the Congressional Record, and to report a bill in December next, making such reductions in the numbers and cost of printing, and such changes and reductions in the distribution of said publications, as they may deem expedient, with a report giving their reasons therefor; and that the said committee is also instructed to investigate the printing and binding for the Executive Departments, executed at the Government Printing Office and at the branch printing offices and binderies in the various Departments, and report a bill in December next making such reductions in expenses and imposing such checks as they may deem expedient, with a report giving their reasons therefor; and said committee is further instructed to make any other investigations calculated, in their opinion, to reduce the cost of the public printing, and report the result thereof; and the said committee is hereby authorized to summon and to examine experts and witnesses, and to call upon the heads of Executive Departments and the Public Printer for such information regarding the preceding matters as they may desire; and any expenses necessarily incurred in making the investigations aforesaid shall be defrayed equally from the contingent funds of the two Houses of Congress."

In the organization of the Government Printing Office it is apparent that the wants of both Houses of Congress were first to be considered, although it was also intended that work for the various Executive Departments should be executed at this office. The Public Printer is required to report direct to Congress, and is not connected with any of the Executive Departments. The work of the office has grown from year to year, and Congress has recognized the necessity for some additional legislation, looking to a better and more complete organization of this department.

In view of the above enactment it would not seem proper to anticipate the action of the committee in this report.

CONGRESSIONAL PRINTING AND BINDING.

During the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress, up to and including the 30th day of June, 1884, there were ordered printed for the Senate 3,837 bills and joint resolutions, 201 executive documents, 118 miscellaneous documents, 820 reports of committees, 63 resolutions, and 29 confidential documents. For the House there were ordered printed 9,109 bills and joint resolutions, 173 executive documents, 59 miscellaneous documents, 2,023 reports of committees, and 72 resolutions. During the first session of the Forty-seventh Congress up to and including June 30, 1882, the Senate ordered 3,234 bills and joint resolutions as against 3,837 at the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress. During the same period the House ordered 7,898 as against 9,109. These two items will show the increase and constant fluctuation of orders made by Congress.

The amount of printing completed by order of the Senate during the year was $149,143.62 as against $64,464.77, and for the House $276,333.40 as against $175,267.39 for the previous year.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Under the joint resolution of Congress approved June 20, 1874, the Congressional Printer is directed to keep a separate and exact account, in detail, of all expenditures for printing, mailing, and binding the Congressional Record, &c., and publish the amounts thus yearly expended in his next succeeding annual report, and each succeeding report, separately from the other disbursements of his office. This information is given in Table No. 6. The Record for the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress, including index, made seven volumes, comprising 7,508 pages. The number of copies of each volume printed and bound was 6,000, aggregating 42,000 volumes. These have been disposed of as shown by Table 24.

Not unfrequently at the close of the session it requires one, two, or three issues of the Record to publish speeches held for revision. It would be an easy matter to give all of them in one issue if members filed them with the Public Printer within five days after adjournment. I would suggest also that, after such adjournment, revised speeches be transmitted through the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House, respectively, as otherwise the Public Printer has no discretion, and must print and publish as the permanent record of Congress any matter that may be filed by a member withholding his speech for revision. While it is true that this question is one that belongs especially to Congress, still the Public Printer should have some protection in the premises.

EXECUTIVE PRINTING.

Work executed for the Executive Departments shows a slight increase. On account of the insufficient allotment made several of the Departments, it was necessary during May and June to almost wholly suspend orders from three of the Executive Departments.

CENSUS WORK.

During the year the census work completed amounted to $293,009.12 as against $134,006.35 the previous fiscal year. The office responded promptly to all calls made upon it by the Census Bureau, and no delays of any kind have been caused by or can be justly attributed to it, as the records of the office will clearly demonstrate, although delays have occurred in the return of proofs, which I am advised was not the fault of the Census Office, but of various parties throughout the country to whom the proofs were referred. There has been some delay in the publication of these reports, and without desiring to reflect upon any one, it is due to this office to make this statement. So long as the Government employs agents engaged in other occupations to investigate and report upon the special topics referred to, these delays may be expected. The facilities of the Government Printing Office are such as to justify the statement that Congress can always depend upon prompt service in the printing of these reports.

REBELLION RECORD.

This office was authorized to sell volumes 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, of the Rebellion Record. Volume 6 and subsequent volumes are to be sold by the Hon. Secretary of War. Volumes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, are out of print. The stereotype plates are in possession of this office, and, in order that the public may obtain complete sets, I recommend that authority be given to print 2,000 copies of each volume for sale, under the law.

SCIENTIFIC REPORTS.

The scientific publications printed by this office for the Geological and other Bureaus have received marked commendation for their typographical appearance from both foreign critics and those in our own country. These reports are very valuable, and I have endeavored to bring the letter press up to a higher standard of excellence. In order to meet the demands for this class of cut-work I have added three of the latest improved stop-cylinder presses, which will turn out a finer grade of work than that heretofore printed. In the production of these books very much depends upon first-class presswork, and it is my purpose to have this class of printing especially creditable to the Government.

PAPER CONTRACTS.

The system of contracting with the lowest bidder for paper is not, in my judgment, the best method for obtaining such supplies. Past experience has shown that bids have been submitted much lower than the cost of production, and the consequence is, in too many cases, that there is throughout the year a contest between the office and the contractor as to the proper grade and quality.

It is advisable that the Government have a higher grade of paper, and I have no doubt that the business between the office and the contractors would be more satisfactory if the law governing the award of contracts for paper was changed so as to give the Joint Committee on Printing more discretion. The joint committee could then at any time relieve the office of delays and embarrassments, which are frequently very vexatious and a hinderance to the public service.

I am advised that imported rags are largely used by contractors who annually supply this office with paper. The question having been officially considered by the Treasury Department and an order issued prohibiting the importation of these rags from cholera-infected countries, I deem it my duty to bring the subject to the attention of Congress. If there is danger in the use of these rags at the mills, it would seem that the disease might be communicated in bundles, packages, and paper (likely to come in contact with such rags), which are daily received at this office. In view of the expected approach of cholera, and in the name of the 2,300 people under my charge, many of whom come directly in contact with these bundles and packages of paper, I respectfully submit that this is a proper question for the consideration of Congress.

REDUCTION OF ESTIMATES.

It is difficult to estimate intelligently for the annual appropriations for the year in advance, for the reason that there is no limit upon the amount of printing that may be ordered by Congress. The amount that may be expended by the Public Printer per quarter and the allotments of the various Departments are limited, but the office can never anticipate the orders of Congress.

The estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, were $3,014,000. By reason of the improved press facilities, the introduction of more modern machinery, and the application of some well-accepted business principles in the management of the department, I have no doubt that in the future the Government Printing Office can turn out a larger volume of work at reduced cost. Therefore the estimates for the next fiscal year have been cut down $339,000 under the preceding year, making a total of $2,675,000, as against $3,014,000 for the previous year.

As far as possible, I have continued the policy outlined in my former report of substituting improved modern fast presses, capable of printing 19,000 to 22,000 single sheets per day at the same expense as many of the old badly-worn presses I found in use that were printing but 5,000 during the same period of time. The saving alone on press-work will, within a very short time, justify a still further reduction in the annual appropriations. These improvements have been made without decreasing the volume of business done, nor was it necessary to ask for any special appropriation. The following showing, taking 14 presses for comparison, will illustrate the saving:

Fourteen Adams presses, 27x41 inches, each making 5,000 impressions, or 20 tokens, per day of 8 hours, will, in 309 working days, give 86,520 tokens per annum.

Fourteen two-revolution fast cylinder presses, each double the size, say 35x54, can be run at a speed of 1,500 per hour, or 48 tokens per day; but call it double the speed and same size sheet, will give 173,040 tokens.

But as they print a sheet twice the size, or two sheets to one and twice as fast, they have four times the capacity, and would give a product of 346,080 tokens.

And as most of the time these presses are run from 12 to 16 hours or even longer per day, the saving would be increased in the same proportion.

By the adoption of other improvements under consideration, it is safe to say that in the following year a still further reduction can be made in the cost of the public printing, but the quantity is under control of Congress.

RECEIPTS FROM SALES OF WASTE PAPER, ETC.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1884, there was received from sales of documents, Records, waste paper, &c., the sum of $175,825.75, which has been deposited in the Treasury.

EMPLOYÉS.

The number of employés is regulated by the demands for work upon the office. The average number at the dates mentioned during the four quarters of the fiscal year was as follows:

Number of employés September 30, 1883.....	2, 128
Number of employés December 31, 1883 . . . . .	2, 230
Number of employés March 31, 1884. . . . .	2, 319
Number of employés June 30, 1884 . . . . .	2, 331

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

I desire to renew my recommendation of last year for fifteen days' leave of absence annually for the employés of the Government Printing Office. In speaking upon this subject I then said:

“In view of the fact that the clerks in the various Departments, working a less number of hours per day, are entitled to thirty days' leave of absence each year, I submit that as a matter of right and justice to the employés of the Government Printing Office, who have ever been faithful day and night, it would seem proper that at least to some extent the law should be so modified that they too can be favored with a leave of absence. A more faithful and devoted class of employés cannot be found in any Department; and I respectfully call the attention of Congress to this question, and express the hope that some provision may be made for them in the direction indicated.”

A bill making a specific appropriation for this purpose (as was done in the case of the letter-carriers of the Post-Office Department at the last session) would be an act of justice to those who work more hours for less pay than any other class of Government employés. When unfortunately stricken down by sickness, their pay at once ceases, while in almost every other branch of the Government under such circumstances employés continue to draw their pay. Leading members of the most important committees in both houses of Congress can bear testimony to the fact that the prompt, efficient, and faithful work of this office, especially during the last session, advanced legislation in a very gratifying degree.

Believing that such a deserved and just law would be recognized by a still more efficient service, and, above all, on account of the equity in the request, I earnestly recommend that a special appropriation of $85,000 be made for the purpose of granting the employés of this office fifteen days' leave with pay. This recommendation is made in lieu of any proposed legislation for leave on account of sickness, as it is well understood that furloughs granted on account of sick leave might result in much abuse of the privilege. Under all the circumstances, in my judgment, fifteen days' annual leave will be more satisfactory.

CIVIL SERVICE.

In my last annual report attention was called to the subject of appointments, and reference was made to some of the new regulations adopted which it was hoped would relieve the Public Printer in a measure from the heavy tax upon his time in the consideration of this subject to the detriment of the more important practical operations of the office. As shown by the present report, the pay-roll for the year amounts to $1,767,362.64, or an average per day of $5,646.52. The Government Printing Office is and should be practically a work-shop—a manufactory—and the standard required of its employes should only be that of skill and efficiency, and as in all successful private establishments of the kind, employes, after a fair trial, falling below the average, should give place to others better qualified. In this way only can this office be kept in its proper state of efficiency.

It was the recognition of this policy at the outset that induced me to consider as the main qualifications, in the selection and retention of my assistants—the various foremen and assistant foremen—true merit, practical workmanship, and a thorough knowledge of the duties to be performed. These officers, generally without political influence, have by faithful and devoted service contributed largely to the success that has been accredited the Government Printing Office under my administration, and I cheerfully bear testimony to that fact. With a life-long experience, thoroughly trained in the line of their particular duty, that success for which I have constantly labored was more easily attained. Thus have I endeavored to introduce and encourage a practical civil service. It is proper to state that there is not a single officer throughout the building who could not, if necessary, perform any portion of the practical labors he assigns to those under his charge. I am confident if it was possible to extend this same rule to the appointment and retention of employes generally, that the Public Printer could make a record for actual work done that could not be equaled by any private establishment working the same number of hours per day.

NO FURLOUGHS.

The appropriations were sufficient to keep the force regularly employed during the fiscal year. The action of Congress in restricting the expenditures per quarter was wise legislation, and if carried out in spirit as in the letter of the law, will prevent large expenditures during the first half and a partial suspension of work during the last half of the year. The restrictions imposed, when properly observed, will also obviate the necessity for an unusual suspension of employes for want of funds during the closing months of the year.

STORAGE ROOM.

Under a special act of Congress the Public Printer executed leases for additional storage room. This fund will become exhausted during this session, and it will be necessary to make another appropriation. In this connection I desire to say that the want of room is a serious embarrassment to the prompt and economical management of the office. A great quantity of folded sheets are subjected to hydraulic pressure, tied up, and removed to the store room fully half a mile away. When required to collate the books these packages must be hauled back to the main office, involving much additional expense and loss on account of frequent handling and exposure. I urge upon Congress the necessity for more room, and respectfully request that the Joint Committee on Printing be authorized to consider the matter in all its bearings. It cannot be questioned that the expense of the public printing could be materially reduced if a building were provided specially adapted to the wants of the service. A private firm, handling this large volume of printing, would look upon this question as one involving much loss unless corrected.

SANITARY CONDITION.

With about 2,300 working people on the rolls, the sanitary condition of the building becomes a matter of great importance, both from a humanitarian standpoint and from the further fact that the amount of service rendered must depend more or less upon the health of the employés. In response to my urgent appeal, Congress made a special appropriation for this important work, and I have to report a radical improvement for the better during the past year. There has been a marked decrease, both in the sick-roll and death-rate, among the employés, and the entire force feel gratified at the change, and as a consequence are prepared to render much more efficient service.

This most satisfactory result was brought about by the introduction of new water-closets throughout, careful attention to cleanliness and a more rigid enforcement of hygienic regulations.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The Edison system of electric light, which was introduced in the Record room by my predecessor, has been extended to the press and document rooms, with very gratifying results. The light produced is cheaper than gas, far superior in all respects, and is much preferred by the employés. Connection has also been made between the electric-light engine and the press-room, so that in case of accident to the main engine there would not be a suspension of work in the press room.

CONFIDENTIAL PRINTING.

There has been an increased amount of confidential printing executed both for Congress and the Executive Departments during the past year.

The regulations referred to in my former report have been sufficient to protect the confidence reposed, and in no single instance has there been a complaint that confidential matter was given out from this office. With the care given this class of work, I am confident that the record of the past year will be maintained in the future.
