LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER,
Washington, December 3, 1917.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report of the operations of the Government Printing Office for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917.

Very respectfully,

CORNELIUS FORD,
Public Printer.

The PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER,
Washington, D. C., December 3, 1917.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The declaration of war in April, 1917, resulted in the greatest demand on the Government Printing Office in its history, convincing proof that printing and binding are vital essentials in the organization and prosecution of any and all governmental activities. The demand for service accounts for the large increases shown by the statistical data which follow, presented in compliance with the requirements of law.

Appropriations including deficiencies total $7,087,397.98, an increase of $1,414,063.39 over the previous year. Of this amount there was appropriated for the operation and maintenance of the office of the Superintendent of Documents $324,395, leaving available for the production of allotted printing and binding, $6,763,002.98.

Printing and binding in the amount of $1,694,526.17 was produced and reimbursement made from funds not appropriated under allotment. This shows an increase over the previous year of 93.8 per cent.

The total available resources for 1917, including repay income, were $8,781,924.15, and the disbursements and outstanding obligations chargeable against the same were $7,998,878.90, leaving an unexpended balance of $783,045.25, of which amount $744,453.45 was brought forward as a continuing appropriation available during the fiscal year 1918. The net unexpended funds which will revert to the Treasury total $38,591.80, consisting of the following items: Salaries, office of the Public Printer, $4,050.84, leaves of absence, $8,516.74; holidays, $5,228.02; salaries, office of the Superintendent of Documents, $3,687.42; general expenses, office of the Superintendent of Documents, $14,522.02; and public printing and binding, $2,586.76.

The total expenditures for maintenance, operation and general expenses of the Government Printing Office, not including the expenditures of the office of the Superintendent of Documents, were $7,392,693.34.

WORK OF THE FISCAL YEARS 1915, 1916, AND 1917.

The amount of printing and binding produced during the fiscal year 1917 far exceeded that of any previous year since the establishment of the Government Printing Office. A large portion of this increase was during the last quarter, due to preparedness and war activities of the various departments and bureaus of the Government. This situation demanded urgent and rush delivery on a vast number of orders, covering every conceivable class of printing and binding, forwarded to this office at almost a moment's notice. These orders varied in quantity from 1,000 to 25,000,000 copies each, and in order to properly handle this rush work, in addition to the current work for departments and Congress, the working forces were augmented as rapidly as was possible consistent with available working space, and many of the divisions were put on practically 24-hour runs, divided into several shifts. Some of the emergency orders received were: Registration cards, 25,000,000; certificates of registration, 18,000,000; Manual of Courts-Martial, 100,000; Small-Arms Firing Manual, 100,000; Manual of Guard Duty, 100,000; Infantry Drill Regulations, 90,000; Liberty Bond posters, in two colors, 1,000,000, with deliveries in three days; Boy Scout posters, in several colors, 4,000,000, with deliveries in a few days' time; bulletin on home gardening, 1,000,000, and many other large quantities of bulletins on home economies. Farmers' bulletins issued during the year totaled 13,635,200 copies. Various departments, imbued with a commendable zeal, made almost impossible demands on this office, but I can state that there was no serious delay encountered in any of the deliveries, and that the enormous production in all divisions of the office was carried on in an exceptionally efficient manner.

The following comparative statement is a summary of the productive operations covering the most important items entering into printing and binding during the fiscal years 1915, 1916, and 1917:

EXPENSE AND PRODUCTION.

The summary of expense and production for the fiscal year (facing this page) shows in detail the various items which go to make up the operating expense of each productive division, the value of product, the overhead expense and the manner in which it is distributed, and the amount of work performed for Congress, departments, and independent bureaus, together with the condition of each printing and binding allotment at close of the fiscal year.

The total overhead expense, as compared with the previous year, remained about the same, there being a difference of but $109.50. The number of employees on roll of the office June 30, 1917, was 466 greater than on same day in 1916, naturally carrying a big increase in output; however, it was possible by constant improvement in methods to carry on the supervisory work in the office with practically no increase in that expense.

The cost of heat, light, and power furnished by this office to the city post office was $26,847.86, an increase of $3,813.85 over previous year. This is an expense borne by the office without reimbursement, and which, as provided by law, can not be apportioned in the charges made for printing and binding.

The cost of private orders placed by Members of Congress and others during the year amounted to $138,369.90; collections made for such work were deposited in the Treasury as a credit to miscellaneous receipts, as required by law. This printing and binding imposed an expenditure out of the regular appropriation made for maintaining the Government Printing Office which was not chargeable to any allotment of said appropriation, and for which no reimbursement was made this office. The Public Printer is required by law to furnish Congress, departments, and bureaus, on their order, with printing and binding to the exact and full amount of all appropriations made to the Government Printing Office, and under the present conditions large expenditures for labor and material are made for private-order printing from said appropriations, with no direct reimbursement therefor; in effect this requires a higher scale of prices for allotment work. Moneys collected for all private work should be allowed as a credit to the printing and binding appropriation.

Compared with previous year, the daily average number of employees actually working increased 145. Total operating expense increased 28 per cent, the computed product increased 31 per cent, and for the fourth consecutive year every productive division in the office was operated without loss. The higher cost of materials and supplies, together with the unforeseen but absolutely necessary extra night forces and overtime work, greatly increased the operating expense, especially during the last quarter; however, every conceivable effort was made to increase the efficiency in operation, and these efforts practically overcame the increased cost of operation; no increase in scale of prices was necessary excepting in a few instances where the quantity of materials used was above the average. It is safe to say that without an organization such as the present one, together with the improvements and new methods instituted during recent years, this office would have been utterly unable to have met the unprecedented demand made for urgent work.

The number of pieces of job work handled was 35,203, an increase of 18 per cent over previous year; this work was accomplished with but a slight increase in the force.

Book composition amounted to 2,399,423,700 ems, an increase of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent over previous year; this output was the largest on record, and was practically all machine set.

Congressional work, as a whole, showed a decrease over previous year; the number of House and Senate bills and resolutions was 17,495, a decrease of 35 per cent; the number of pages in the Daily Congressional Record and biweekly index decreased 31 per cent.

Work handled in main pressroom showed a large gain over previous year. The number of forms put to press was 182,584, an increase of $8\frac{1}{2}$ per cent; the actual running time of presses was 247,070 hours, an increase of 29 per cent, due to extra shifts and overtime work, and the number of chargeable impressions was 1,703,744,333, an increase of 66 per cent. Ingenuity in the making of combinations in forms and economical runs on the presses permitted this tremendous output and at the same time practically overcame the increased cost of extra night and overtime work.

By reason of the increased cost of paper to be used on money-order forms, contract price was increased slightly on May 15, 1917, after due notice to the Post Office Department. The number of postal cards printed was 1,063,649,044, an increase of 3 per cent over previous year. The department furnished approximately 7,000,000 pounds of stock for this work. Evidently some difficulty was encountered in the purchase of the stock, as the supply became exhausted several times during the year, causing a halt in production.

The electrotpe and stereotype product totaled 15,233,244 square inches, an increase of 21 per cent over previous year. By reason of improved methods this work was accomplished without any increase in the force employed.

The value of output of the bindery increased 40 per cent over previous year. During the last quarter there was an extremely heavy demand for that class of work which necessarily passed through the binding divisions, and to properly meet it the force of employees was increased approximately 400. Heavy inroads were made on all available bindery materials, in spite of every effort made to keep a full stock on hand. In numerous cases it was necessary, in order to avoid delay in delivery, to substitute a cheaper but durable material over what was ordered, with a resulting saving to the departments of approximately $100,000 in cost and at the same time furnishing serviceable work. Every effort was made toward a reduced cost for printing and binding to the Government, and whenever a cheaper binding material could be used satisfactorily it was so ordered. Some requisitions were received for large numbers of complicated form books, which were wanted in an impossibly short time; in order to expedite delivery some of these forms were redrafted in this office and, after approval by department, printed in such a manner as permitted completion in the time requested and provided a satisfactory form and a less expensive one. For instance, a cash sales book, heretofore printed on three colors of paper, gathered, was ordered for immediate use, and the office was unable to guarantee satisfactory delivery of the work if printed in that manner; therefore it was proposed to run the job all on white paper, using three different colors of ink to distinguish the different forms. The department agreed to accept the work in that shape, and thus satisfactory delivery was made and the cost reduced. This is only one of the many instances where the friendly relations and cooperation existing between this office and the various departments and bureaus resulted in more serviceable work, prompt deliveries, and reduced costs.

The first number of the Official Bulletin, issued by the Committee on Public Information, was printed on May 10, and 82,000 copies were printed and mailed daily. This publication, which in reality is a daily newspaper, was taken up by the office without any previous preparation and prompt service rendered.

During the last quarter of the year there was naturally a very decided increase in work of a confidential nature. The strict regulations and rules governing the progress of such work through the office have been adequate to fully protect the confidence reposed, and no publication or other information has reached improper hands.

Rigid economy was exercised in the issue of paper and other stocks, and wherever a saving was possible it was made. Ends of roll stock are cut up and issued later as prime stock, and trimmings are saved whenever it seems probable they may be of further use.

The following statement shows the value of the finished product for period covering fiscal years 1915, 1916, and 1917:

SCALE OF PRICES.

The scale of prices applied to printing and binding produced during the year was, excepting in a few instances toward the close of the year, the same as was used in previous year, although the supplies and materials used advanced in price, in some cases as much as 300 per cent. A determined and constant effort was made to increase production to such an extent that this added cost, together with the expense of the extra night work, for which 20 per cent additional is paid as provided by law, would be overcome, and this result was practically accomplished. It has always been my sincere wish to furnish printing and binding for the Government at the lowest possible price consistent with operating costs, in order that the full limit of work would be supplied from the appropriations made.

PAPER.

An acute situation prevailed during practically the entire year as regards keeping the office properly supplied with paper stock, owing to the refusal of the Joint Committee on Printing to make awards at the large increase in price over previous years, and many paper stocks ordinarily on yearly contract were necessarily purchased in the open market at varying prices. It was a case of taking some stocks wherever they could be bought, and frequently it was only by direct personal appeals by the Public Printer, principally on the ground of extreme urgency in the Government needs, that sufficient paper was secured to keep up the necessary deliveries on highly important work; this personal canvass was the means of a substantial saving. There was a very fair spirit of cooperation evidenced by paper manufacturers in the furnishing of the enormous quantities of stock used during the year. The increased cost of paper necessarily cut down the actual quantity of printing and binding I was able to furnish to the departments whose allotments had not been increased over previous year, for the reason that the charges made for paper and envelopes represented $28\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of total charges for all printing and binding, while during the previous year they represented but 18 per cent of the total charges. There were a few instances where presses were held up by reason of a lack of stock, but as a whole the paper situation was handled in such manner as to cause a minimum of trouble and delay.

NEW MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT.

The new machinery and equipment purchased during the year was very badly needed. Some of the obsolete binding equipment was replaced with modern machines, a number of presses were equipped with automatic feeders, and ink and carbon making machines were installed. Improvements are being constantly made in the manufacture of printing and binding machinery, and there is no question but that every purchase of up-to-date equipment eventually represents a decided economy. Some of the old-type presses which were replaced with more modern machines last year accomplished an increase of over 30 per cent in output on certain classes of work; a similar improvement will be found in all replacements. A list of the principal items of machinery and equipment purchased during the year, together with the cost thereof, is as follows:

The sale of condemned machinery, equipment, and material during the year netted $7,259.71, and this amount was deposited in the Treasury as a credit to miscellaneous receipts.

BUILDINGS AND PLANT.

The work of keeping the buildings in proper repair and the plant in good operating condition was accompanied by unforeseen difficulties on account of many divisions of the office being constantly at work, even on Sundays and holidays, thus in some cases allowing insufficient time and opportunity for the proper making of repairs. A very efficient organization has been developed in all sections comprising our buildings division, and there was a minimum of time lost on productive machines by reason of repairs. Considering the large number of machines in use throughout the office, all of which are liable to breakage or other troubles, I consider that splendid results have been accomplished in the way of keeping them in such good working condition that production and operation could proceed almost constantly. All classes of repair work was done by our own force of trained mechanics, whose services are at all times immediately available.

The total cost of upkeep of the buildings division was $59,713.51, an increase of $21,657.25 over previous year, fully accounted for by the rising costs of materials and some labor, and also by the fact that conditions required a larger force and longer hours.

A large boiler feed water tank and pump was installed in basement of boiler room. This tank and pump was for the purpose of reclaiming waste condensation from all parts of the buildings and returning same to the boiler; this installation, working in connection with filters, has proved of great value.

Worn-out commutators on armatures are now being rebuilt by our own electricians at a saving of about 75 per cent as compared with the purchase of new ones.

Automatic oilers have been installed on all elevators, eliminating an insanitary and dirty condition in the elevator shafts.

A number of old or discarded motors have been thoroughly overhauled and put in splendid working condition, and every effort has been made to avoid expensive purchases of this class of equipment.

During the year 28,527 wooden boxes were made for use in shipping postal cards; all of these boxes were made from old box lumber, using approximately 196,000 feet; 1,011 crates were made for use in reshipping cores. In all, a total of 216,896 feet of reclaimed lumber was used, representing a substantial saving over what new lumber would have cost.

Painting in the various parts of the building cost $13,413.97. Constant vibration throughout the building, caused by the operation of heavy machinery, necessitated considerable plastering, at a cost of $9,983.01. Repairs and improvements in plumbing cost $5,086.14.

The lighting system throughout the office has been further improved by repairs and replacements at a cost of $5,680.75. The entire office is well equipped with satisfactory lights.

The wages of carpenters, painters, electricians, machinists, and other employees engaged on similar work were increased at the beginning of the year. The wages paid for such classes of mechanical labor have been steadily rising in the general business world, and for that reason a slight increase was granted. It is intended, appropriations permitting, to further increase the rate paid these employees, in order that their compensation may be consistent with existing rates paid for same class of labor by private concerns.

POWER PLANT.

The operation of the power plant was carried on satisfactorily during the year, notwithstanding that the demand for power was heavy and some of the equipment is antiquated. There is a constant increase in the activities in the office and a constant deterioration in the boiler plant equipment; a portion of the present outfit requires hand firing and the use of anthracite coal, and it is estimated there would be a saving of at least $10,000 a year in the cost of operation of power plant if I could install four new boilers, completely equipped with automatic coal feed and ash delivery. Without this improvement the future outlook for continuous and efficient operation of the power plant is discouraging; the service demands an almost continuous operation, and the machinery is wearing fast.

The output of electric current was 3,782,719 kilowatt hours, of which 1,069,707 kilowatt hours, representing 28 per cent of the total, was for use in the city post office; cost of kilowatt hour was 1.17 cents, as against 1.189 cents in previous year.

The following statement gives in detail the various items concerned in upkeep of buildings and plant, together with cost thereof:

MISCELLANEOUS.

A total of 3,977 surgical and medical cases received treatment in the emergency hospital connected with this office; of this number 1,612 were of a surgical nature, requiring 2,498 redressings and 2,365 were medical cases. This is an increase of 780 over the total for last year, due to increased forces and the fact that every case, both minor and major, is now given at least some treatment. In 2,145 cases the patients returned to work after treatment, and this fact was of importance considering that the services of all employees were almost invaluable on account of the demands on the office for work. The amount expended for compensation for injuries, as provided by employers' liability act, was about $4,200, and I consider this amount a minor expense when it is realized that the force of employees has greatly increased, are working under high pressure, and also that the Government Printing Office is a manufacturing plant with thousands of machines in constant operation. Every effort is made to give the proper care to all conditions which in any way affect the welfare of the employees, and strict regulations for that purpose are rigidly enforced.

Conditions in the supply trade impelled me to branch out in the fabrication by our own employees of some certain supplies commonly used in various printing and binding operations, as it has been fully proven that even under a condition of normal markets such manufacture was economy, and particularly at this time has the further advantage of eliminating uncertain delivery. Some of the supplies manufactured during the year were: Approximately 30,000 pounds of printing ink; this production is being steadily increased, as there is a substantial saving in actual cost as compared with outside purchase prices, and the convenience of ink manufacture on the premises is very desirable. After considerable experimenting a very satisfactory paper was produced to take the place of some of the ordinary lining or marble papers used in many classes of binding; this paper was formerly purchased, in some cases in foreign countries. Carboned paper, such as is generally used for manifold books and similar work, is now being produced in this office at about one-third what it would cost if purchased; the last quotation for carbonizing by outside firms was sixty-five one-hundredths of 1 cent per 1,000 square inches, while our cost for the same work was twenty-three one-hundredths of 1 cent. The metal-melting room, now permanently located in the old building, melts and recasts into ingots all metals used on typesetting machines; approximately 8 tons of linotype metal and $3\frac{1}{2}$ tons of monotype metal are handled each working day, and a considerable economy has been achieved and the work of the composing rooms facilitated. Under the system originated in the reorganization of this metal room I have been enabled to reduce to a minimum the purchases of metals entering into the output of linotype and monotype machines; previously approximately 125,000 pounds of virgin lead, antimony, and tin were purchased annually.

The branch office formerly located in the State, War, and Navy Building was abolished in March. This action was in compliance with the provision of the act of March 3, 1917, and was for the purpose of providing more room for the increased activities of the departments. The work formerly handled by this branch is now being produced in the main office.

The Library of Congress branch office, both the printing and binding sections, handled a very large amount of work in a satisfactory and expeditious manner. I have consistently endeavored to supply the Library of Congress with as much printing and binding as was possible under their allotment, which for a number of years has been insufficient to properly care for the work needed, and material reductions were made in the charges for some classes of work ordered during the year.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The business handled by this division showed a very large increase over any previous year. Three hundred and sixty-three thousand four hundred and eighty-four letters were received, a 20 per cent increase over 1916; cash sales amounted to $233,675.04, a 27 per cent increase over 1916; and 45,555,886 publications were distributed, an increase of about 500,000 over 1916. In order to carry on this volume of work every means possible was used to improve and simplify the system of handling, and new methods of curtailment and concentration were installed. Through the utmost efforts on the part of all employees concerned, together with considerable overtime work, it was possible to handle this increased business with no additional expense. By reason of war activities there was a big demand from the public for War Department manuals, regulations, etc., and the total sales for all publications prepared by this department was $61,853.07, as against $13,354.32 for previous year. This demand was anticipated, and we were able to promptly fill most of the orders when received. The present sales system is the most equitable method of distributing publications, and those actually interested can readily secure any they may desire. The increase in inquiries and orders received shows the general public appreciates the fact that their Government is willing and anxious to place such information as they are interested in at their service for a nominal price. The work of relieving libraries and departments of their accumulation of surplus and duplicate publications continued brisk throughout the year. Almost every day brought its quota of old books and pamphlets, which were disposed of to the best advantage. By authority of the Joint Committee on Printing, 585,059 obsolete publications were condemned and sold. In a further effort to reduce this useless surplus, an inventory covering 81,232 old or duplicate publications was prepared in January, 1917, and the usual course was followed in notifying Members of Congress to select what they wanted from this list, but not over one-third of the Members took advantage of this privilege; such copies as were selected are being forwarded, and those that remained will be condemned and sold as waste paper. There are now maintained 1,131 different mailing lists, containing 973,277 names. During the year there were 311,639 names added, 137,081 names dropped, besides 20,626 other changes. Total names on all mailing lists increased 123,277.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I present for consideration the following:

The need for a new building for the use of this office has been recommended as forcibly as was possible in my annual report year after year, but no action has been taken on these recommendations. When the Government Printing Office took possession of the present new building, in 1904, the volume of work produced each year had increased about 25 per cent, as compared with 1880, and it evidently was this percentage of increase which was used in estimating for the new building. Even before moving into this new building it was the judgment of officials connected with the work of the office that sufficient room had not been provided for the proper handling of the work, which at that time had outgrown all previous estimates; it then became necessary to at once use a large portion of the old building, just vacated, although it was recognized as an unsafe proposition. That was the condition in 1904. Since that time the need for additional room has increased to an enormous degree by reason of various unforeseen activities taken over by this office, some of which are: (a) The handling of all work formerly done in branch offices located in the various departments; these departments demanded every bit of space in their buildings to carry on their own work, and therefore it has been necessary within the past eight years to abolish six large branch printing offices located in these buildings, and to transfer the work formerly handled by them to the main office, without any provision for additional working space. (b) By an act of Congress the departments abolished all their mailing divisions about five years ago, and the work of handling and mailing Government publications was ordered carried on in the Government Printing Office under supervision of the Public Printer; this work required a large amount of additional floor space. (c) The contract for printing postal cards required an output of about 4,000,000 cards per day, with large storage spaces for hundreds of rolls of stock and for the safekeeping of printed cards awaiting shipment; the character of the work made it necessary to establish a new division entirely separated from the rest of the office. (d) Printing of money-order forms; the character of this work also made it necessary to establish a large division entirely separated from the rest of the office. (e) Manufacture of miscellaneous supplies; this office, by reason of the difficulty of making economical purchases, has in recent years gradually branched out in the manufacture of various supplies, such as inks, rollers, carboned paper, lining paper, linotype and monotype ingots, etc., all of which required considerable working space.

The steady increase in printing and binding from 1904 to 1910 was such that in each of these years the Public Printer appealed to Congress for relief in the way of more working space. The work produced in fiscal year 1916, as compared with 1910, showed an increase of 27 per cent in composition, 23 per cent in presswork, and 130 per cent in machine folding; large percentages of increase were also present in other work. In that year (1916) I strongly recommended the construction of a new building in order that the increased demands on the office could be properly met, giving as my reason the fact that the productive divisions were crowded to such a point that the output was very seriously interfered with, at a considerable loss to the Government. Printing and binding for 1917 exceeded that of 1916 by over 30 per cent, and it can readily be seen that if an urgent necessity for more working space existed in 1916, the demand for more room at this time is an imperative and positive one. There is every reason for Congress to provide permanent relief to the crowded condition in the Government Printing Office. The greatest handicap that can be placed on the Public Printer in the handling of the vast amount of printing and binding now ordered by the Government is the lack of sufficient working space which is necessary to properly handle the forces to the best advantage. There is at this time a constant stacking, trucking, hauling, and rehauling of work and stocks, made necessary by the lack of sufficient space. This excessive hauling, etc., is an absurd expense, is the cause of inevitable delay in the production of work, and should not exist. Halls and passageways are now used for storing signatures, and in some cases presses have been stopped on certain work because the bindery or other divisions through which the jobs must progress could not at once accept the work by reason of lack of space. In order to carry on the work at all it has been necessary to use the old building for both storage and production. Condition of this building is bad, and it has been condemned several times; many portions have been reinforced, the walls have been tied to prevent them falling out, and it requires constant and expensive repairs and watchfulness to keep it in even a fairly safe condition. It is built entirely of wood, excepting the exterior brick walls, and for this reason there is constant danger to life and property; in case of fire, it does not seem possible that any of the old building could be saved, and the new building would be in grave danger. The work of this office urgently demands more storage space for paper and supplies, room for the installation of offset presses and the necessary photomechanical equipment, and more room for the operations of the productive divisions, all of which are in need of more equipment, but without the necessary room to place it. In view of all these facts it is earnestly recommended, for the good of the service, that serious consideration be at once given the subject of a new building for the use of the Government Printing Office, to be erected on the site now occupied by the old building, and to conform in general lines with present new building. It is an absolute, imperative, and immediate necessity.

The annual allotment for printing and binding for the Pan American Union is insufficient to carry on the work, and I was compelled to suspend the publication of their bulletins during the month of June, as the allotment had become exhausted. The bulletins issued would appear to be of the greatest importance at the present time, as they are printed in several languages, circulate in the South American countries, and are capable of a large influence; it was with regret that the work was suspended even for a short period, but there was no alternative under the law. I recommend an increase in the annual allotment for printing and binding for the Pan American Union.

The allotment for printing and binding for the Library of Congress is insufficient. Their work is increasing all the time, and large quantities of binding and rebinding are ready to be forwarded to this office, but can not be accepted because their allotment will not permit the work to be done. I recommend an increase in the annual allotment for printing and binding for the Library of Congress.

The cost of collecting, baling, and selling all the waste paper from the departments, bureaus, and independent offices of the Government has increased to such a degree that this office should be relieved of that expense and no longer be required to carry it as a portion of the overhead cost and necessarily prorate it in charges made for all printing and binding produced. During 1917 there were collected, baled, and sold 9,564,018 pounds of waste paper, as compared with 4,031,573 pounds for the previous year. A proper and equitable charge should be made for this service, but I do not feel that I now have definite authority to make such a charge, for the reason that the work is carried on in compliance with instructions received from the White House, based on recommendations of the Commission on Economy and Efficiency in May, 1913, effective in July of same year, which made no reference to a charge for service. The receipts for the sale of waste paper during 1917 totaled $92,316.33 as compared with $64,168.94 in 1916. All such collections are deposited in the Treasury as a credit to miscellaneous receipts. I recommend that definite authority of law be given me to make a charge for this service, using as a basis the cost of collection per bag.

I recommend legislation which will permit the moneys collected for printing and binding done for Members of Congress and private individuals to be deposited in the Treasury as a credit to the printing and binding appropriation. At the present time such collections are deposited to the credit of miscellaneous receipts.

In view of the increasing demands for power, not only for the needs of the Government Printing Office but also of the city post-office building, and for other good reasons previously stated, I recommend a specific appropriation of $150,000 for extensions and replacements in the power plant.

Some of the equipment in the machine and electrical sections is antiquated and worn out, a portion having been in constant service 30 or 40 years. The present condition of ever-increasing machine output makes very heavy demands on machinists' and electricians' services, and in order to cut down lost productive time and expedite repairs the latest and best equipment should be available. I realize such equipment may be purchased from the $100,000 allowed for machinery each year, but the demands on this office for printing and binding seem to make it imperative that all of said amount be used in the purchase of productive equipment. In view of this fact, I recommend a specific appropriation of $25,000 for replacements in these two sections.

During the year the question of salary and wage increases had its effect in the Government Printing Office, and numerous resignations took place, a great number being from our clerical divisions; almost every day brought requests for transfers to other departments, owing to a higher salary being paid there than is paid for similar work in the Government Printing Office. The keeping of proper records and the handling of administrative duties in this office requires expert clerical service, and the fact that for a time other departments were able to offer an immediate increase over their present compensation was the means of inducing many of our employees to request transfers, and the fact that it was a real advantage to these employees impelled me to allow the transfers in some cases, as it appeared but fair to them. The recent action of Congress in prohibiting transfers at a higher rate for the period of one year has to some extent stopped the practice; nevertheless, resignations still continue, the employees generally giving the excuse that, after one year, higher salaries will be paid by the departments desiring their services; without the consent of Congress I can not offer such inducement to those employees whose salaries are regulated by law. I recommend that the question of increasing the salaries of employees doing clerical or supervisory work in the Government Printing Office which are now fixed by law receive consideration, and a more equitable basis of pay be adopted.

In previous reports I have recommended the increase of pay to printers, bookbinders, and bookbinder-machine operators. I again request that Congress take up the matter of this increase, and include therein all pressmen. Outside establishments are increasing the rates paid these classes of employees, and I therefore recommend that a flat scale of 60 cents per hour be paid all employees, other than those holding supervisory positions, in the composing rooms; that wages paid bookbinders and bookbinder-machine operators be increased to 55 and 60 cents per hour, respectively, and that wages paid pressmen be increased from 55 to 60 cents per hour. It is not possible for me to increase the compensation of these employees without authority from Congress.

There are many persons in the employ of this office who are from 60 to 80 years of age, and it is obvious that in numerous cases the services rendered are not as valuable as would be the services of younger persons. Their productive powers decrease with advancing age, and this fact is particularly noticeable in the operations concerned in printing and binding. Many of these employees have given their best services to the Government for 20 or 30 years, and I wish to again invite attention of Congress to the necessity for legislation looking to the retirement of these persons.

In conclusion, I desire to state that the employees in this office put forth every effort toward an increased production during the year, and these efforts, together with such improvements in methods and system as were inaugurated, account for the largest output of printing and binding in the history of the office. I wish to express a deep obligation on behalf of the Government for the faithful and efficient service rendered, without which the splendid results for the year would not have been accomplished.

Respectfully,

Cornelius Ford
Public Printer.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL AND SANITARY OFFICER.

SEPTEMBER 27, 1917.

SIR: Herewith is a statement showing the number of cases, medical and surgical, arising during working hours and receiving treatment at the Government Printing Office emergency room during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917. A total of 3,977 cases were treated during the year, 1,612 of these of a surgical nature and required 2,498 re-dressings in their treatment, 2,365 were medical cases, and are shown in columns of table to show the number that it was possible to relieve and who remained at work and the number who were obliged to go to their homes after temporary relief was rendered. This report shows an increase of 780 cases over the number of last year. This is due to the increase in the number of persons employed and to the fact that all cases, minor and major, are given treatment, thereby minimizing the liability for claims under the United States compensation laws. There is also a list of employees who received compensation under the acts of May 30, 1908, and September 7, 1916—to provide compensation for employees of the United States suffering injuries while in the performance of their duties—for which a total of $4,206.93 was expended.

Respectfully submitted.

D. P. BUSH, M. D.,
Medical and Sanitary Officer.

HON. CORNELIUS FORD, Public Printer.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF
THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS
FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED
JUNE 30, 1917.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1917.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE,
 OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS,
Washington, October 10, 1917.

SIR: In compliance with the provisions of section 61 of the general printing act approved January 12, 1895, I have the honor to submit the Twenty-third Annual Report of the Superintendent of Documents, being for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917.

The business of the office continues to increase, which is evidenced by the following statements:

Letters received during the fiscal year 1916.....	304, 341
Letters received during the fiscal year 1917.....	363, 484
Increase of letters, 59,143, or 19½ per cent.
Cash sales during the fiscal year 1916.....	$185, 712. 01
Cash sales during the fiscal year 1917.....	233, 675. 04
Increase of $47,963.03, or 27 per cent.
Publications mailed during the fiscal year 1916.....	44, 565, 583
Publications mailed during the fiscal year 1917.....	44, 968, 338
Increase of 402,755.
Publications condemned during the fiscal year 1916.....	2, 592, 278
Publications condemned during the fiscal year 1917.....	587, 548
Decrease of 2,004,730.

Letters handled.....	363, 484=daily average of 1,161.
Cash receipts.....	$252, 301. 87=daily average of $806.07.
Publications distributed.....	45, 555, 886=daily average of 145,546.

The real import of the above summary will mean but little to the casual reader, but a study of the comparative statements in this report will show that in the past year there was an increase of 59,143 in letters received, or 19½ per cent, and that the cash receipts exceeded those of the previous year by $56,794.08, or 29 per cent.

In order to cope with this increase of work it has been necessary to work the force extra hours, and even then it has been impossible to accomplish satisfactorily all that should have been done.

The general work of the office for the first three months of the present fiscal year shows an increase of 2,975 in letters and $15,970.39 in cash sales over the corresponding months of the preceding fiscal year, and doubtless the work will continue to grow, presenting a difficult problem for solution, which might have been avoided by the allowance of additional clerks as recommended in our estimates for the past fiscal year.

We have already exhausted every means possible for reducing the work incident to the handling of the correspondence and orders for publications by a most careful study of all details of the office, and the introduction of new methods of curtailing and concentrating the work, which have aided very greatly in meeting demands, thereby obtaining the object sought, as follows:

1. Reduction in the number of letters to be filed.-
2. Reduction in dictation, and the adoption of forms to be used in making replies.
3. Reduction in the work of recording sales by eliminating certain checkings, which has also served to reduce the preliminary work in the preparation of the itemized statement for the annual report.

It is needless for me to elaborate on the increase shown in the sale of Government publications, as this fact has become self-evident, and the subject has been covered in former annual reports.

There is no question that the sales method is the most equitable means of distribution, so long as the resources of the departments are inadequate to distribute publications free to all. The difficulty presented is that we have to deal with the question of deciding how large a reprint edition should be published. The best solution of this problem, as far as I can judge, would be for the publishing bureaus to indicate the field to be covered by their various activities, so as to furnish this office some basis for making orders for reprints.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce initiated a plan along these lines in conjunction with the Division of Publications of the Department of Commerce, to the effect that when a requisition is drawn we are notified of the advertising the publication will probably receive by the activities of the publishing bureau. This information is most helpful, and tends to give better service to the public because it eliminates delay in printing additional copies where an insufficient number has been ordered, and prevents the waste in printing and material of an edition in excess of the demand.

LIBRARIES.

The distribution of publications to libraries is, in my judgment, one of the important functions of the office, and every effort possible should be made to meet their demands. The assorting of the accumulations of the returns from libraries and departments affords an opportunity for completing sets for libraries, which, if left incomplete, would be of little value, and besides, many important volumes are made available for sale.

The rapidly increasing demand for Government publications by the libraries, and especially the school and college libraries, testifies to the growing interest in the information contained therein.

Two thousand three hundred and forty-eight publications were furnished to each of the regular designated depository libraries during the year, these libraries belonging to the class which receive one copy of all publications of a public character. The usual distribution was made to the Geological Survey and Official Gazette libraries.

The regular depositories rightfully complain of the delay in receiving the Congressional documents and reports which are of sufficient size to bind by themselves. Under the present method of distribution they are withheld until the preparation of the Schedule of Volumes, which, of course, can not be undertaken until after the close of a session. The only remedy for this delay would be to discontinue the series volume number on the binder's title and use only the title in accordance with the subject matter and the Congress and document or report number. It is my intention to make a recommendation to you later along this line, so that such a change might be effected, beginning with the documents of the Sixty-fifth Congress.

Below is a comparative statement of library distribution for the fiscal years 1916 and 1917:

Distributed to 484 designated depositories in 1916.....	1, 627, 405
Distributed to 484 designated depositories in 1917.....	1, 568, 041
Distributed to 725 geological depositories in 1916.....	31, 809
Distributed to 725 geological depositories in 1917.....	18, 092
Distributed to 2,304 Official Gazette depositories in 1916.....	185, 322
Distributed to 2,280 Official Gazette depositories in 1917.....	171, 203
Distributed to various nondepository libraries in 1916.....	43, 114
Distributed to various nondepository libraries in 1917.....	28, 520

The designated depository libraries receive one copy of every publication printed. The geological depository libraries receive only special publications issued by the Geological Survey. The Official Gazette depository libraries receive the weekly Gazettes and Indexes. The nondepository libraries are entitled to receive on application any surplus copies in stock for free distribution.

CATALOGUES, INDEXES, ETC.

The following publications have been compiled and issued during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917: Fifteenth Preliminary Schedule of Volumes, Reports and Documents of the Sixty-fourth Congress, First Session, December 6, 1915–September 8, 1916; Document Index, No. 23, Sixty-fourth Congress, First Session, December 6, 1915–September 8, 1916; Sixteenth Preliminary Schedule of Volumes, Reports and Documents of the Sixty-fourth Congress, Second Session, December 4, 1916–March 4, 1917; Monthly Catalogue and Index, July, 1916–June, 1917.

Document Index, No. 24, Sixty-fourth Congress, Second Session, December 4, 1916-March 4, 1917, is in press. Work on the Document Catalogue, Sixty-third Congress, 1913-1915, is progressing, but the catalogue will not go to press before fall, owing to the fact that members of the cataloguing force have had to assist with the work in other sections of the office.

Forty-four price lists of United States Government publications on various subjects for sale by this office have been compiled, totaling 256,500 copies, and 292,570 copies have been distributed as compared with 283,503 copies distributed during the fiscal year 1916.

DISTRIBUTION OF DEPARTMENTAL PUBLICATIONS.

The free distribution by the departments during the past year totaled 36,941,013 publications, which was an increase of 48,938 books over the fiscal year 1916.

The mailing of this enormous quantity of publications taxed the force of the office to its fullest limits, and had it not been for the assistance of the Efficiency Bureau it would have been impossible to accomplish the work.

The publishing activities of a number of the departments were greatly increased on account of the war, but no provision for an additional force was made for this office to handle the increase.

It is absolutely impossible to prevent congestion in the mailing operations, as the influx of work is so great at times as to cause an unavoidable delay. The centralization of the distribution is not responsible for this condition, as similar trouble would be experienced by the departments if they handled their own publications.

ACCUMULATION OF PUBLICATIONS.

It seems an endless task to relieve the libraries in the country of their excess Government publications, and notwithstanding the fact that thousands of books have been returned in the last few years, hardly a day passes without receiving requests from them to be relieved of surplus and duplicate copies of publications. The libraries are not the only sources of supply, as thousands of discarded publications are received during the year from the various departments.

The Joint Committee on Printing granted permission to condemn and dispose of as waste paper 585,059 publications which were made up entirely of obsolete issues that had been superseded by later and corrected editions, and the stock of many weekly and monthly periodicals that were no longer of any value.

In addition, an inventory of the accumulation of excess publications was submitted to the Joint Committee on Printing in January, 1917, which listed 81,232 publications, and the usual course was followed in allowing the Members of Congress to make selections. Only about a third of the Members availed themselves of the privilege. The work of distribution of the publications selected has been commenced and is continuing, and when finished the balance will be condemned and sold as waste paper. It is evident that the Members do not understand the character of these books that are inventoried from time to time, as many of the publications selected are returned by them.

STORAGE SPACE.

The floor space of this office does not meet the requirements, and additional room is badly needed for storage, clerical force, and the Library, as at present considerable extra labor is necessary in moving and handling the publications in an effort to accommodate new stock received daily.

The departments will have to realize that the storing facilities at the Government Printing Office are not unlimited, and that some means must be found for reducing the stock on hand. The records show that at the close of the fiscal year 1917 the stock of the departments had increased 1,187,133 publications since the beginning of the fiscal year.

MAILING SECTION.

The Mailing Section, to which is assigned the care and preparation of all stenciled mailing lists, has had its duties made doubly hard by the deterioration of the machinery and by not being fully equipped with up-to-date machines and full facilities for handling the work. The condition of the mailing equipment was brought to your attention in my last report, and I am hopeful that your recent action in allowing the replacement of some of the old machinery with new machinery, the gradual substitution of the typewriter stencil-cutting system for the old pin-point stencil system, will much improve the conditions and will enable the office to better meet the demands for mailing.

In my last report I stated that the automatic mailing machine was not satisfactory, and since that time it has gone out of commission entirely; and accordingly the work had to be transferred to an addressing machine and the publications wrapped by hand.

There are now maintained 1,131 different mailing lists, containing 973,277 names, and during the year 36,000,000 impressions from the stencils were made on wrappers and envelopes, lists, and cards.

The records show that the maintenance of these lists required the making of 311,639 additions and 137,081 drops and 20,626 changes. This shows an increase over last year of 123,277 names on the mailing list.

CONDITIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

It would seem from a recital of the various problems entailed in the increased work that the output would naturally run behind, but this has been obviated by the cutting out of all superfluous work and the placing on a sound business basis of all matters of routine, especially the handling of the mail, which has been reduced to a point where the inquiries are answered concisely and correctly with the least possible waste of labor, stationery, and other material.

The distribution of publications offers a large field for study, and its successful accomplishment is impossible without the close cooperation of all interested parties.

The duties of the office could be more efficiently handled and many difficulties solved through the creation of a committee composed of the heads of the Publication Divisions of the various departments and establishments of the Government and the Superintendent of Documents. Such a coordination of effort would be most productive in improving methods and the standardization of all operations.

In this report I have mentioned the difficulties experienced in ascertaining the number of copies to be printed for sale and the finding of adequate storage space for thousands of publications which we believe to be in excess of the normal demand, and such a committee as suggested above could consider these questions and similar ones which are continually arising.

It is my intention to again ask in my estimate for 1918 for the additional clerks which were not allowed in the last fiscal estimates and also recommend a few promotions in the lower grades.

The experience of the past fiscal year shows that it is very difficult to fill vacancies that are continually occurring by reason of resignations and transfers, and when the vacancies have been filled, necessarily they are filled with inexperienced clerks; therefore the office is the loser, as new and inexperienced clerks can not do the work of experienced and efficient clerks and meet the demands on the office. During the fiscal year 1917 we turned into the Treasury about $3,300 of the appropriation for salaries, on account of the lapse of time between dates of resignations and transfers and dates of filling the vacancies. This amount would pay four clerks at $800 a year.

I desire to thank the employees of the office for their untiring efforts and hearty cooperation in promoting the best interests of the office.

Respectfully submitted.

JOSIAH H. BRINKER,
Superintendent of Documents.

HON. CORNELIUS FORD,
Public Printer.
