USERS' GUIDE

Catalog Arrangement and Indexes

The bibliographic entries in the Periodical Supplement are arranged in Superintendent of Documents classification number order. Each record is also assigned a unique catalog number, which consists of a two-digit prefix representing the catalog year, followed by a sequential number beginning with 1 in the first issue of each year. Within this arrangement, the publications of each Government author are further identified by the name and address of the issuing agency.

The Periodicals Supplement contains collective records for serial publications which are issued three or more times each year. Bibliographic records for serials issued twice annually or less frequently may be found in the issues of the Monthly Catalog. Bibliographic entries found in the Periodicals Supplement represent current serial titles. Serials that have changed title or ceased publication during the preceding year are noted in the "Title Changes" and the "Discontinued Periodicals" lists.

Superintendent of Documents classification changes for serial titles found in the Periodicals Supplement are identified in the "Classification Changes" list. In instances where Superintendent of Documents classification numbers are the same for different serial titles, the classification number will be qualified by a trailing superior number, for example I 19.65:(nos.) 2. The "Classification Changes," "Discontinued Periodicals," and "Title Changes" lists are located in the preliminary pages of the Periodicals Supplement.

Periodicals Supplement entries may be accessed through the following indexes:

Author index: An alphabetical list of government, personal, and corporate authors, editors, and conferences.

Title index: An alphabetical list of titles proper, subtitles, and alternate titles.

Subject index: An alphabetical list of subjects derived from the Library of Congress Subject Headings.

Series/Report index: An alphabetical listing of series statements and tracings, series numbers, and report numbers.

Stock number index: An alphanumeric list of GPO and other sales stock numbers.

Title keyword index: An alphabetical list of truncated titles, arranged by important words in publication titles.

A Margin index on the back cover locates the six indexes. Listings in all of the indexes are followed by the cataloging entry number, which refers the user to the complete bibliographic citation. Listings in the Title and Subject indexes are augmented with the publications' author and classification number to enhance identification and retrieval. Cumulative indexes are published in the CD-ROM version of the Monthly Catalog will cumulate from the beginning of the calendar year through the current issues.

Abbreviations

The abbreviations used in the bibliographic records all versions of the Monthly Catalog are those described in the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, 2nd ed., and the GPO Classification Manual: A Practical Guide in the Superintendent of Documents Classification System.

THEORY

1. THEORY OF THE EARTH

The earth is a sphere, and its surface is covered by water. The land is divided into continents and islands. The continents are the large land masses, and the islands are the small land masses. The water is divided into oceans and seas. The oceans are the large bodies of water, and the seas are the smaller bodies of water. The earth is also covered by air, which is divided into layers. The layers of the atmosphere are the troposphere, the stratosphere, the mesosphere, and the thermosphere.

The earth is also covered by fire, which is divided into layers. The layers of the geosphere are the crust, the mantle, and the core. The crust is the outermost layer, the mantle is the middle layer, and the core is the innermost layer. The earth is also covered by ice, which is divided into layers. The layers of the cryosphere are the ice sheets, the ice caps, and the icebergs.

The earth is also covered by living things, which are divided into layers. The layers of the biosphere are the plants, the animals, and the humans. The plants are the living organisms that can make their own food, the animals are the living organisms that cannot make their own food, and the humans are the living organisms that can use tools and technology.

The earth is also covered by non-living things, which are divided into layers. The layers of the lithosphere are the rocks, the minerals, and the fossils. The rocks are the solid materials that make up the earth's crust, the minerals are the chemical substances that make up the rocks, and the fossils are the remains of living organisms that have been preserved in the rocks.

The earth is also covered by energy, which is divided into layers. The layers of the energy sphere are the solar energy, the wind energy, the water energy, and the geothermal energy. The solar energy is the energy that comes from the sun, the wind energy is the energy that comes from the wind, the water energy is the energy that comes from the water, and the geothermal energy is the energy that comes from the earth's interior.

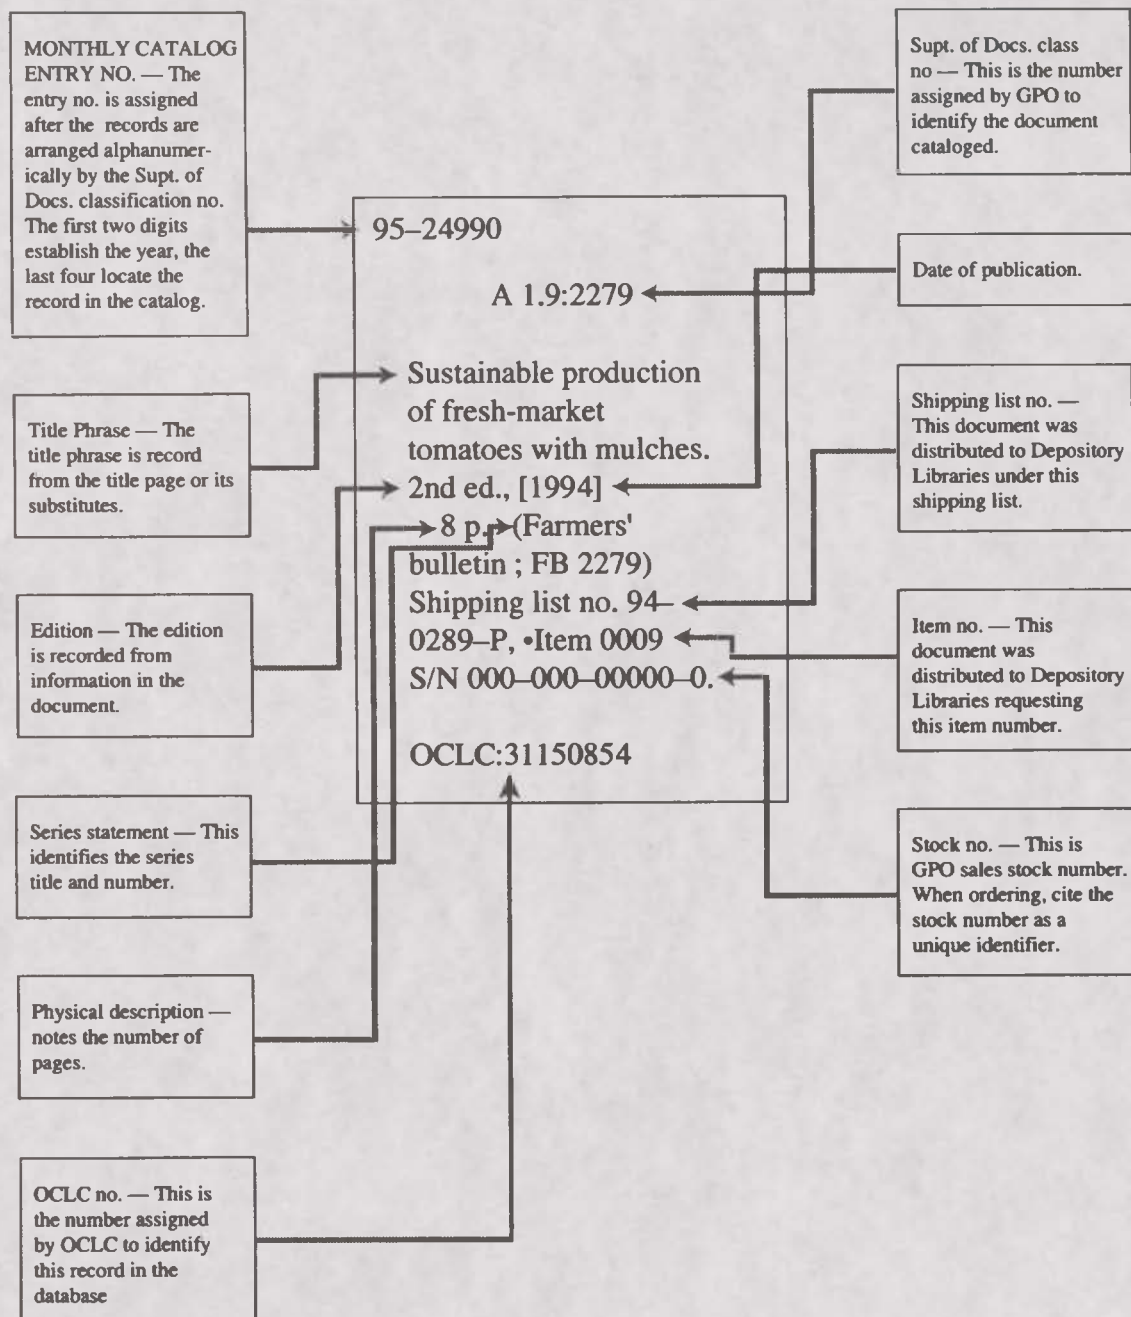

The earth is also covered by time, which is divided into layers. The layers of the time sphere are the past, the present, and the future. The past is the time that has already happened, the present is the time that is happening now, and the future is the time that will happen later.

The earth is also covered by space, which is divided into layers. The layers of the space sphere are the inner space, the outer space, and the beyond space. The inner space is the space that is inside the earth, the outer space is the space that is outside the earth, and the beyond space is the space that is beyond the earth.

The earth is also covered by the universe, which is divided into layers. The layers of the universe sphere are the galaxies, the stars, the planets, and the moons. The galaxies are the large collections of stars and gas, the stars are the hot balls of gas, the planets are the large balls of rock and gas, and the moons are the smaller balls of rock and gas.

Climate Change and the Hydrological Cycle

The hydrological cycle is a continuous process that moves water around the Earth. It is driven by the sun's energy, which causes water to evaporate from the surface of the oceans, lakes, and rivers. This water vapor then rises into the atmosphere, where it cools and condenses into clouds. When the clouds become heavy enough, they release precipitation in the form of rain or snow. This water then flows back into the oceans, lakes, and rivers, completing the cycle.

Climate change is affecting the hydrological cycle in several ways. First, it is causing the oceans to warm, which is leading to an increase in evaporation. This is causing more water vapor to be in the atmosphere, which is leading to more frequent and intense storms. Second, it is causing the glaciers to melt, which is leading to a rise in sea levels. Third, it is causing the permafrost to thaw, which is leading to a release of methane gas, a potent greenhouse gas.

These changes are having a significant impact on the environment and on human society. For example, the increase in sea levels is threatening coastal cities and infrastructure. The release of methane gas is contributing to global warming, which is causing a range of other problems, including droughts, floods, and wildfires.

FEDERAL DEPOSITORY LIBRARY PROGRAM

The Federal Depository Library Program was established by Congress to provide free public access to Government publications. Nearly 1400 public, academic, State, and law libraries serve as an information link with the Federal Government by maintaining collections of Government publications. These collections, which are tailored to local needs, are open to the public. Fifty-three of the libraries are designated as regional depository libraries. They have the responsibility of retaining material permanently and providing inter-library loan and reference services in their regions.

Copies of documents no longer available through the GPO Sales Program can usually be found in regional depository collections. To determine which depository libraries have selected copies of publications listed in this catalog, consult the Superintendent of Documents World Wide Web site and use the Locator Service. A complete listing of regional depositories follows. To obtain a complete listing of all depository libraries, write to:
