CONTRACT NUMBER INDEX

1. The first column contains the contract number, which is a unique identifier for each contract. This number is typically a combination of letters and numbers, and it is used to track the contract throughout its lifecycle.

2. The second column contains the date of the contract, which is the date on which the contract was signed or entered into. This date is important for determining the timing of the contract and for tracking its expiration.

3. The third column contains the name of the party or parties to the contract. This information is used to identify the individuals or organizations involved in the contract and to ensure that the correct parties are being tracked.

4. The fourth column contains the description of the contract, which provides a brief overview of the terms and conditions of the agreement. This description is used to provide context for the contract and to help users understand the nature of the agreement.

5. The fifth column contains the status of the contract, which indicates whether the contract is active, pending, or completed. This status is used to track the progress of the contract and to ensure that all contracts are properly managed.
