Brief History of the Monthly Catalog

The Printing Act of 1895 specified two products for the description and collocation of public documents.

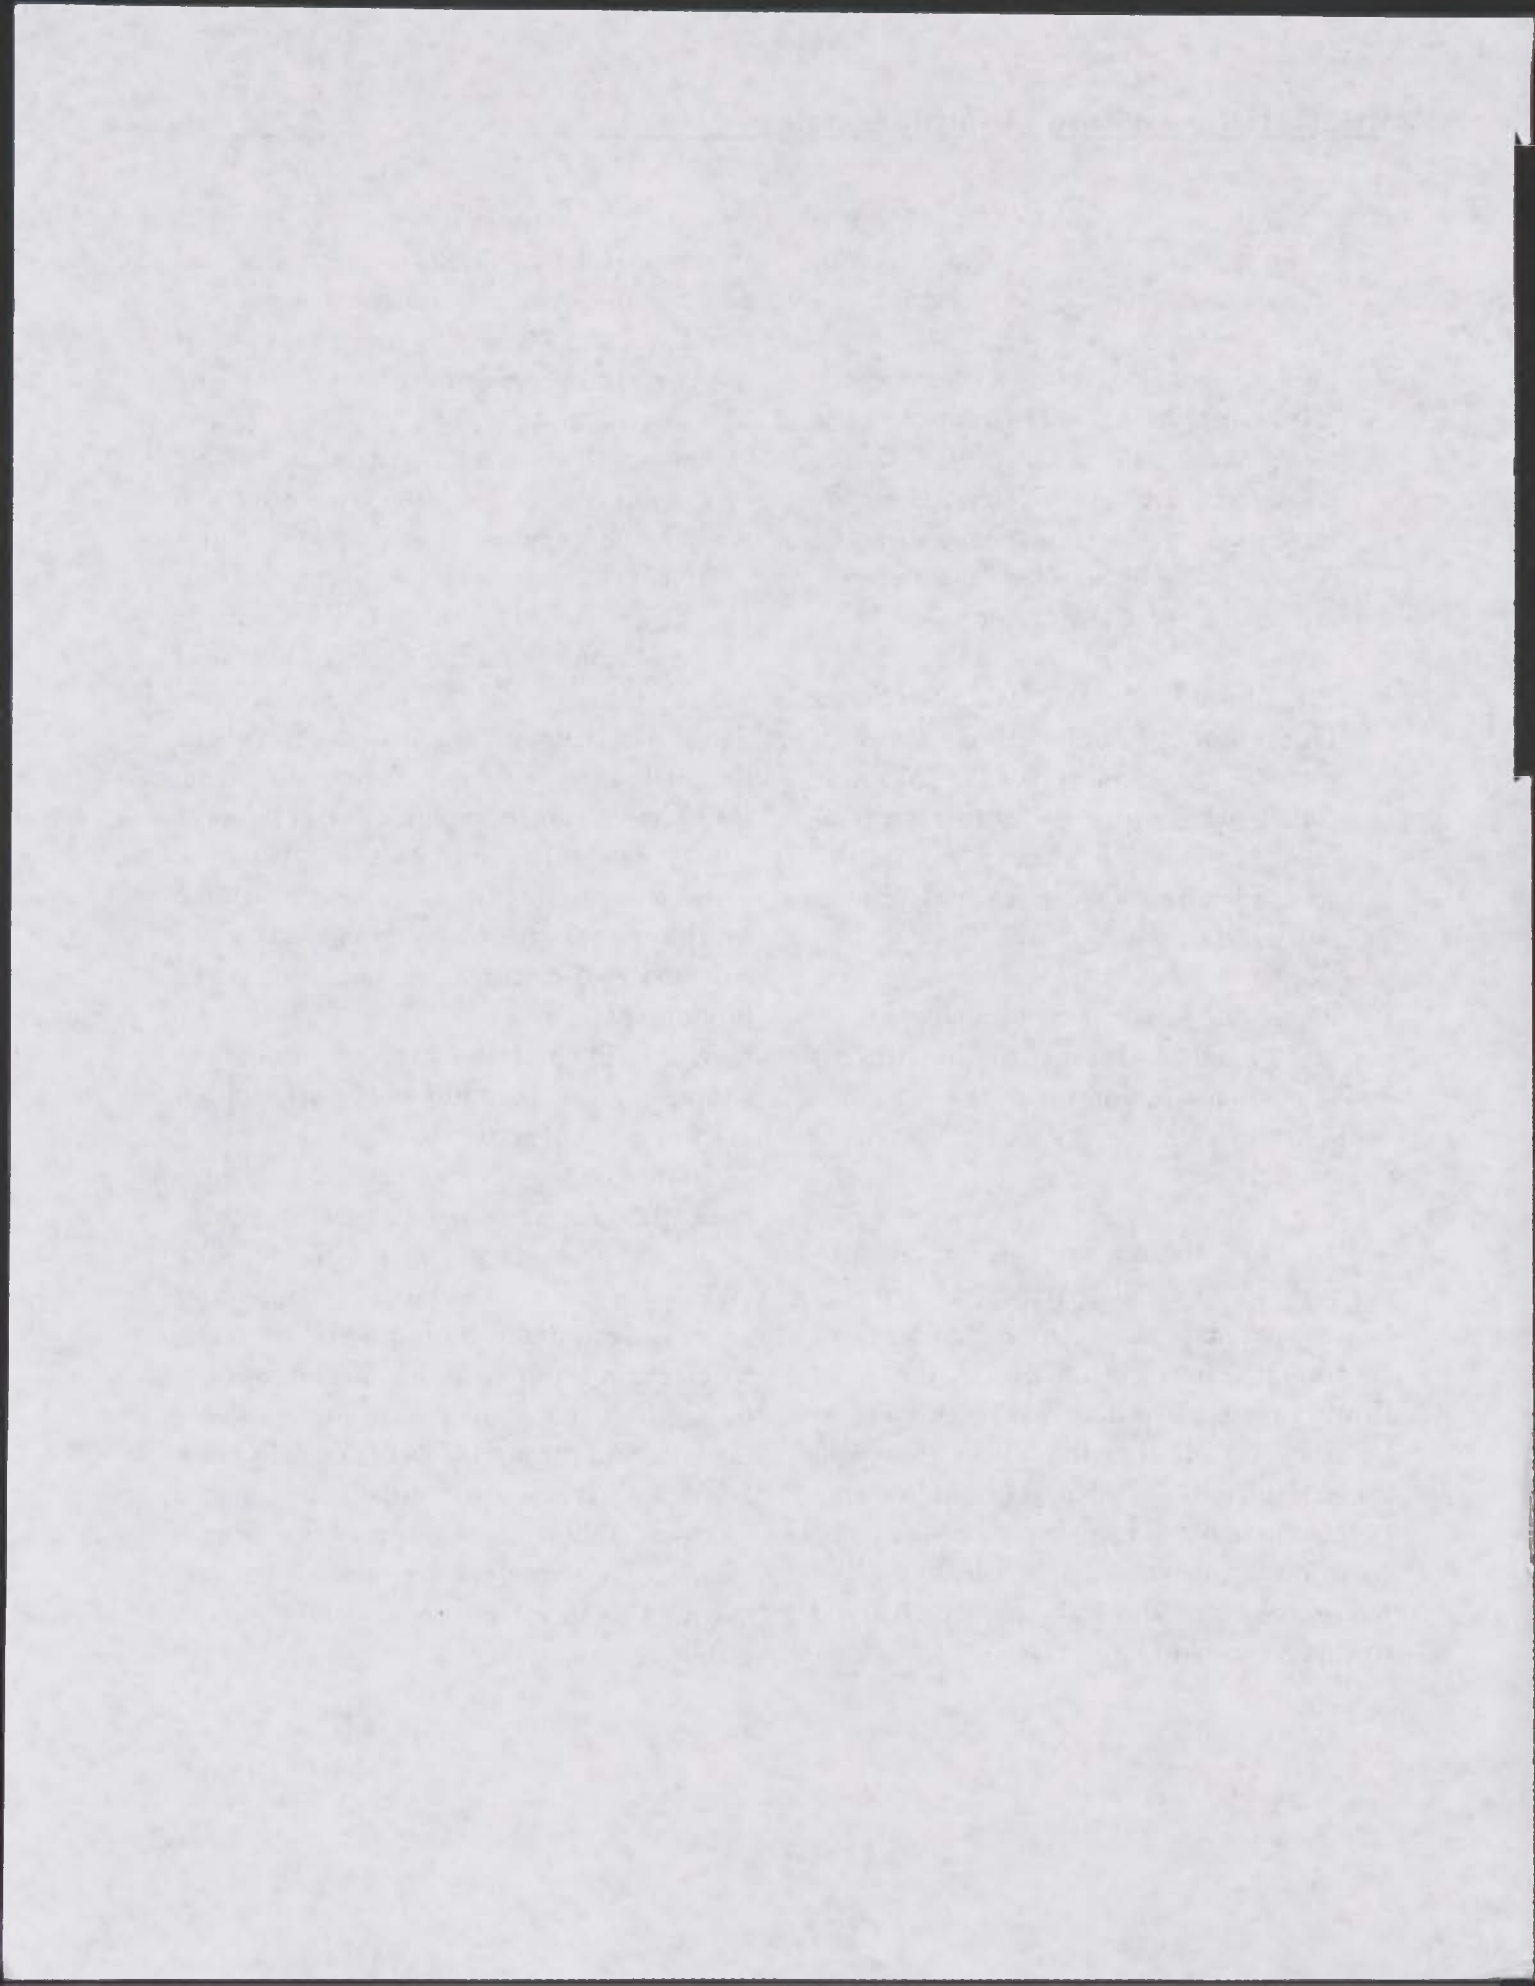

- The Catalogue of the Public Documents of the [...] Congress and of All Departments of the Government of the United States (Document Catalogue) fulfilled the requirement for a "comprehensive index of public documents" to be prepared "at the close of each regular session of Congress."
- The Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications (MoCat) met the stipulation for a "Monthly Catalogue ... which shall show the publications printed during a month, where [those publications are] obtainable, and the price thereof."

Thus, the original relationship was a current awareness listing (in the MoCat) and a permanent, authoritative, and comprehensive catalog (in the Document Catalogue).

In 1947, the cost and perennial difficulty of compiling the Document Catalogue led the Superintendent of Documents to recommend to the Joint Committee on Printing that the Catalogue be discontinued after the edition for 1940 was completed. The MoCat began to serve in the capacity of a single source for bibliographic information, fulfilling the requirements of the 1895 act, which stand to this day in 44 USC §1710-1711.

From 1895 until 1976, the Government Printing Office (GPO) arranged and described documents according to its own standards and systems. A major revision of the appearance and functionality of the MoCat took place in July 1976. GPO catalogers began producing machine-readable cataloging records (MARC) conforming to Anglo-American Cataloging Rules (AACR), Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH), the Ohio College Library Center (later the Online Computer Library Center, OCLC) bibliographic standards and formats, and other applicable national level standards. Since that time, GPO has gradually expanded the emphasis of its cataloging and indexing program from the production of a single printed product to the creation and maintenance of a database of high-quality, standards-based bibliographic records. These records are used by GPO and the library community to support an expanding array of bibliographic control activities.

The bibliographic data used to produce this abridged paper edition is also used to produce a World Wide Web (WWW) edition. The Web edition links users directly from bibliographic citations to electronic publications, and assists the public to locate information in depository libraries and through GPO sales. GPO bibliographic data is also available to libraries from the Library of Congress and from a variety of commercial sources for the creation of high quality local databases and public access catalogs.

Sample Entry

This catalog contains brief descriptions of U.S. Government publications arranged in Superintendent of Documents (SuDocs) classification number order and may be accessed by title keyword index (alphabetical list of truncated titles, arranged by important words selected from publications titles). These brief records are based on full bibliographic records available in the online version of the Monthly Catalog which is cumulated from 1994, available as the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (CGP) on the GPO Access internet site at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/cgp/index.html>

The following sample entry is a composite designed to illustrate the major features of a brief Monthly Catalog citation.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data. The second part of the document details the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. It includes a description of the sampling process and the statistical techniques employed to draw conclusions from the results. The final part of the document provides a summary of the findings and discusses their implications for future research and practice.

The data collected over the course of the study shows a clear trend towards increased efficiency in the process. This is primarily due to the implementation of the new system, which has allowed for faster processing times and reduced errors. The analysis also indicates that there is still room for improvement, particularly in the areas of data collection and analysis. By continuing to refine these processes, it is expected that further gains in efficiency will be realized. The overall conclusion is that the new system has been a success, and its widespread adoption is recommended.

In conclusion, the study has demonstrated the effectiveness of the new system in improving process efficiency. The data clearly shows that the system has led to faster processing times and fewer errors, which are key indicators of operational success. While there are still some areas for improvement, the overall results are very positive. It is hoped that these findings will encourage other organizations to consider similar systems for their own operations. The study also highlights the importance of thorough data collection and analysis in evaluating the performance of new systems.

The author would like to thank the following individuals for their assistance and support during the course of the study: [Name], [Name], and [Name]. Their contributions were invaluable in ensuring the accuracy and reliability of the data. The author also wishes to express appreciation to the management of the organization for their support and encouragement throughout the project. Finally, the author would like to thank the readers for their interest in the study and for taking the time to read this report.

Federal Depository Library Program

The Federal Depository Library Program was established by Congress to provide free public access to U.S. Government publications. The program is administered by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office. Nearly 1,250 public, academic, State, and law libraries serve as an information link with the Federal Government by maintaining collections of Government publications. These collections, which are tailored to local needs, are open to the public. Libraries designated as regional depository libraries have the responsibility of retaining material permanently and providing inter-library loan and reference services in their regions.
